peat in the Skokie marshes and that the only thing that would do away with the nuisance would be a heavy rain.

A member of the audience raised the question as to when Greenbay road would be paved and widened as the pavement is in very bad condition. After discussion by the councilmen it was determined that sufficient money for widening would probably not be available for a couple of years, but that the street would be patched in the very near future.

Recently your reporter communicated with Mr. Benjamin Lewis, chairman of the recodification committee, to determine the progress of his committee on revising the city code. His report is as follows:

"The committee, as you probably know, met on the evening of July 11th and decided in a general way how the work would be handled. One of the biggest jobs is the re-vamping of the Building code and a sub-committee, consisting of eight members with Mr. William Alderman as chairman, was appointed to take up that matter over the summer months and three other sub-committees have since been provided for; one on Automobile and Motor Vehicles and Bicycles in connection with a traffic ordinance, second, a sub-committee on Nuisances and Miscellaneous Prohibitions and third, a sub-committee on licenses."

"It was then agreed that the General committee would not again meet until the fall and we are now planning a meeting for September 22. How much work these various committees have done during the summer I cannot say."

"During this time we have also gone over Codes of a number of municipalities and the city clerk has had copies made of all ordinances and amendments since the 1919 Code. This has taken a great deal of time and the finished work was handed to me only a few days ago."

"I sent a notice to both newspapers in Highland Park to send in questions or suggestions for the new Code, these to be addressed to the committee at the City hall and that all suggestions would be given the fullest consideration."

"Plans will be outlined in our forthcoming meeting for the committee's work from this point on."

The job of revising the code requires a great deal of work and is extremely important. It will undoubtedly take many months before the revised code is ready for publication. The residents of Highland Park should co-operate with Mr. Lewis' committee.

Ravinia Woman's Club Program to Open on October 11

In January Natalie Weber will give a resume of plays current on Broadway and will read one in its entirety. In February, with spring activities imminent, the program will have two sections, both timely, the first a talk on flower arrangements by Mrs. Mahlon Bradley, the second a discussion of interior decorating by a representative of Marshall Field & Company. Miss Claire Leiser, author of "Lunacy Becomes Us," is scheduled to present comments on the European situation in March, and April will bring a familiar favorite to the club in the person of Mrs. Anita Burnham, who will offer one of her inimitable travelogues and an exhibition of sketches. Finally, closing the club year in May, Mrs. Mill-cent Chapman Cook, already known in Ravinia, will present a musical program.

Onwentsia Polo Team Wins Season Finale

A goal by Col. Rheinhart in the final seconds of play gave the Onwentsia polo team a 2 to 1 victory over the Fort Sheridan polo team last Sunday on the loser's field. Col. Rheinhart's goal broke the deadlock caused by earlier goals by David Wilhelm of Onwentsia and Lieut. Gleye of Fort Sheridan.

The game was the final of the season for the Onwentsia team as the members of the squad are returning to school this week. David Wilhelm and Jack Behr returned to Yale, the Hughes boys and Johnny King to Harvard, the Carney brothers, Bob Cudahy and Bruce McFarlane to Princeton and Lester Armour to St. Marks.

Sunday's lineups:

Onwentsia (2) Fort Sheridan (1)
Mansfield Hughes No. 1 Lieut. Gleye
Col. Rheinhart No. 2 Lieut. Carlson
David Wilhelm No. 3 Capt. Wood
John Hughes No. 4 Capt. Galloway

Sit Down Actress Speaks For Cast of Silent Performers

Changing her voice with lightning speed and uncanny accuracy, she speaks everyone's lines so convincingly as to create the illusion the dancers themselves are talking. Her range of voice must extend beyond human limits, for in "Pinocchio" she must modulate her tones to stimulate not only the roles of Pinocchio, the wooden doll, and Gepetto, his creator, but also of the animals Dr. Crow and Mr. Owl (and the inanimate cooking pot for which Miss Picken has contrived a special descriptive tone out of her versatile voice-box). With daily practice in these unusual sound contortions, she feels she could make a noise to interpret practically anything in the animal, vegetable, or mineral kingdom.

Miss Picken came to her present theatrical assignment direct from the Broadway stage, where she recently appeared in "The American Way," starring Frederic March. She has come a long way in the four years since she won the county oratorical contest in Tonasket, Wash., hub of the apple-growing and cattle-raising country of the northwest, where the cowboys still ride in from the range in chaps and spurs for Saturday night dances. When she left Tonasket, pop. 500, to attend college at the University of Washington in Seattle, it was her first visit to the big city.

She remained at the university a year, then entered the famous Cornish Dramatic and Art School for three years of intense study under such masters as Alexander Kouransky of the Moscow Art Theatre, Ellen Van Volkenburg, one of the founders of the American Little Theatre movement, and Maurice Brown, original producer of "Journey's End."

Miss Picken trouped on the west coast with the Cornish players, journeyed with them to New York, and after various experiences in summer theatre work, as a marionette artist with the well-known Sue Hastings company and on Broadway, she perfected a talent to earn her one of the most difficult of theatrical assignments—her present role.

The sale of children's and adult tickets is being handled through the various schools. Mrs. Julius Laegle is general ticket chairman.

A soil-cement road, slightly over one mile in length, is nearing completion in the southwestern part of Lake county. The work is being done under the direction of R. M. Lobbell, county superintendent of highways, and his assistant, M. E. Amstutz, who is directly in charge of the job.

The road is known as Quentins Corners road. Quentins Corners is located on US Rt. 12 (Rand road) about 2 1/2 miles southeast of Lake Zurich. The road being improved extends directly south from Quentins Corners to the line between Lake and Cook counties.

The improvement may be reached either from Quentins Corners as just described, or by taking the Lake-Cook road (gravel) from its intersection with Rt. 12; thence west 1.3 miles to the south end of the road being improved. A paved road from Cook county also reaches the south end of the road, this paved road being known locally as Quentins road and it intersects Dundee road about 1 mile south of the Cook county line, and intersects US Rt. 14 (Northwest Highway) about 2 miles south of the Cook county line.

The construction work began today at the south end and is proceeding northward and can be most conveniently visited from the south end.

Down and Out for the Count

By IRVIN S. COBB

DR. JONES, a young physician with a growing practice, had been going night and day for the better part of the week. If it wasn't the stork busy in one part of the town it was the malaria microbe busy in another. But he kept up his round of visits until exhausted nature demanded a respite.

He staggered into his house in the evening completely fagged out, ate supper and tumbled into bed, telling his wife that, except upon matter of life and death, he was not to be called. Almost before she had turned the light out he was snoring with whole-hearted enthusiasm.

At two o'clock in the morning she came to his bedside, shook him, pinched him, slapped him in the face with a wet washrag and finally roused him to a state of semi-consciousness. He must get up, she told him. Mrs. Smith, physically the biggest woman in town, had been seized with a heart attack at her home on the next street and he was wanted immediately.

He struggled to his feet, threw a few garments on over his night-clothes, caught up his emergency kit and in a sort of walking trance made his way to the Smith residence. A frightened member of the household led him to the sick-room. There the patient lay, a great mountain of flesh, her features congested and her breath coming in laborous panting. Dr. Jones took her pulse and her temperature and examined her eyes, her lips and her tongue. Then he perched himself in a half recumbent attitude upon the side of the bed, put his right ear against her left breast and said:

"Madam, will you kindly start counting very slowly? Now then, one-two-three and so on. Until I tell you to stop."

The next thing Dr. Jones knew was when a shaft of bright morning sunlight fell upon his face, and drowsily, he heard a faint, weak female voice saying:

"Nine-thousand-seven-hundred and one, nine-thousand-seven-hundred and two—!"
