"A GROWN-UP HALLOWE'EN"

Has Halloween "grown-up" in Highland Park and will the local police be able to write "no depredations" and "no property damage" on their records next Tuesday evening?

This will depend largely on the children as well as those "grown-up children" who encourage destruction as a "hallowe'en prank."

For the past two weeks, the local merchants have been forced to clean their windows almost daily in order to keep their stores looking tidy, for some youngsters believe that Halloween exists every day. Does this add to the beauty of our business district, making Highland Park a fine city in which to live?

It may seem amusing to some to see "soft as silk" draped in the tree tops, and other debris spread over people's lawns and vacant lots, but to those who take pride in their city, this is a most unsightly and unnecessary method of "fun making."

Many North Shore towns prepare Halloween celebrations for their children, thus eliminating to a large degree much destruction.

Modern children are no different than those of the "good old days." The boisterous spirit is still there and if the grown-ups would lead it into parks or "a community house" (if we had one) there would be just as much energy used, just as much noise made and just as many spooks haunting the streets, but no one would get hurt, the front gate would be safe and everyone would have a lot of fun.

Let's have lots of fun kids next Tuesday night, but let's have clean wholesome fun, minus destruction, proving that Halloween has really "grown-up" in Highland Park.

WORTH AN ANNIVERSARY

This year, in various parts of the country and in various manners, the 300th anniversary of the printing industry is being celebrated. Like other events of the sort, it will give rise among a certain group to the usual criticism that anniversaries and special celebrations are a waste of time and a weariness of the flesh.

There is one important point that these nay-sayers miss in occasions like the present anniversary of printing. It is the fact that these occasions offer an excellent opportunity to remind ourselves of humanity's record of constructive accomplishment. Here, in this country at this particular time, we ought to pay particular attention to these matters, in which the United States stands pre-eminent.

Let's look at the printing industry in America for a moment. Its record, typical of so many American industries large and small which have opened up new jobs, new payrolls, and lower cost products through increased use of machinery, is worthy of celebration.

Back in 1880, before the extensive use of modern machinery in the industry, there were 58,506 employees in printing, according to the census. In 1886 the linotype machine was invented. It was followed by a number of other improvements which cut the costs of printing and permitted its wider use, and as a result it is estimated that today there are more than 450,000 employees in the industry, with a payroll of more than three-quarters of a billion dollars.

That record of jobs, payrolls, and more enjoyable living for Americans strikes us as being worth an anniversary celebration any time!

Rodeo in Final Week at Stadium

Swinging into the final week of bronc busting, steer wrestling and all the other tricks of the cow puncher's trade, the competition for the rich prize awards at the Rodeo in the Chicago Stadium is approaching an exciting climax. Prizes totaling $18,000 will have been awarded to contesting cowboys and cowgirls when the last round-up is ended Sunday night, Oct. 29. Highest point holders in the eighteen days of events will at that time receive grand prizes of $1,500 to $3,000.

Dare-devil riders of the great annual show do not return to the western ranges after the Rodeo. After Sunday night they will be off on a circuit of cities in the middlewest and the east, going for the prize money that means pork chops and yams for the old home camp kitchens. Riding and roping is grim business with them, but they thrill to arena sports just as professional football players get a kick and a good living out of their post-college gridiron feats.

Several accidents in the first ten days of the Rodeo have put injured contestants out of the running. While these misfortunes never fail to engage the quick sympathy of the crowds, they indicate that the competition is real and that when the Rodeo people ride they ride hard.

There will be performances each night until and including next Sunday, with matinees on Saturday and Sunday afternoon.

More Enthusiasts Needed for Archery

All classes in the Adult Education program have the required number of students to insure continuance of the courses except archery.

This class meets on Wednesday evening under the direction of Mr. Cunningham of the Elm Place faculty. Instruction in the making of bows and arrows as well as practice in shooting is given. The facilities of the high school woodshop and archery range is offered to all members of the class. We hope that more people will enroll so that this class will be able to continue.

Approximately six hundred and thirty people have contacted our program this year and the prospects of passing the seven hundred mark are very promising. The people of Highland Park, Deerfield and Lake Forest are more enthusiastic over this project than they have ever been. The council is very pleased with the response and will extend its program in whatever direction the community desires. People are urged to suggest any other classes which are of interest to them and their friends.

WILSON'S Weekly MEMO

by GEORGE RECTOR

Just twenty years have passed since Rector's closed its doors forever on New York's Broadway, and on looking back, I am amazed to find how fashions in food have changed almost as much as the fashions in women's finery. Many fresh fruits and vegetables, instead of just making a seasonal bow, now are as familiar as the Fuller Brush man.

And now there are Wilson's Tender Made Hams, of incomparable flavor and tenderness! Yes, I am glad this is 1939 and that I am living in it.

REST CURE FOR KNIVES

When I first heard that Wilson's Tender Made Ham was so tender one could cut it with a fork, I thought that perhaps it just applied to some of the big boys like Tony Galento. But experience has shown me that actually you can cut a piece of a Tender Made Ham steak with a fork as easily as a piece of Mother's peach pie.

Tender Made Ham Steak with Cider Sherbet

If you are getting a whole or half Bone-In Tender Made Ham, have the butcher cut a steak 1" to 1 1/2" thick. Or you can buy the steak separately. Have it at room temperature. Brush one side of the steak with olive oil and place it in a pre-heated broiler under the flame for 7 minutes. Turn, and brush the other side with olive oil and broil for another 7 minutes, until the ham is thoroughly heated.

Place the steak on a hot platter, with a border of whipped potatoes piped around it. Garnish with parsley.

Cider Sherbet
 1 pint fresh apple cider
 20 marshmallows
 Juice of 1/2 orange
 Juice of 1/2 lemon
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 2 egg whites

Fresh apple cider is one of the joys of autumn that should not be passed up. Made into sherbet, it makes an ideal accompaniment for ham, as well as a delicious dessert when served separately.

Heat marshmallows and 3 tablespoons of the cider in the top of a double boiler until marshmallows are soft and fluffy but not melted. Add rest of cider and fruit juices. Freeze to a mush. Stir, and add the stiffly beaten egg whites and a couple of drops of red vegetable coloring to make the mixture a pale, bluish pink. Freeze to a mush once more, stir again, and then finish freezing. Serves 5-6.

A New Sunday Breakfast CREPES SAUSETTES

1/4 cup flour
 1/4 cups milk
 3 Clear Brook eggs, beaten
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 Combine flour with eggs and milk, and add salt. The batter should be the consistency of thick cream. Cook in a small hot skillet with Clear Brook butter, using just enough butter to spread over the skillet. Makes ten 6-inch pancakes.

Place 10 Certified Pure Pork Sausage Links in a cold skillet, turn frequently as heat increases. Roll each sausage up in a pancake and top with a tablespoon of hot, tart apple sauce. If you can get away with serving only three pieces of these, you're doing well.
