Elm Place Book Fair Nov. 13-15 Offers Wide Variety of Titles

Tom Sawyer, Huck Finn, Robin Hood, the Three Musketeers and the Cowardly Lion are the fictitious reception committee awaiting your visit to the Book Fair in the Hall of Pictures. Assisting these robust heroes are Snow White, Jo March, Heidi, Alice, Caddie Woodlawn, Ma-y Poppins and others of gentler charms.

You will be shown scores of old and new titles covering the fields of fiction, poetry, adventure, biography, and hobbies for all ages from toddlers on. Prices will range from 10 cents up.

The Book Fair will be open Monday morning, November 13, and will continue daily and evenings through the 15th. Everybody is invited.

Card of Thanks
The Stuppel family wish to express their heartfelt gratitude and deep appreciation for the many acts of kindness tendered them from the Masons and their friends during their recent bereavement.

Inklings from Neighboring Towns

Among the game law violators arrested the past week-end one man, Dan Russo, of 609 West Division street, Chicago, was brought to Wauconda for trial Sunday noon.

Arrested by Constable William Heger, the Chicagoan had a .410 gauge gun in his automobile, together with three dead pheasants. Taken before Justice of the Peace Henry Stadfeld, Russo pleaded guilty and was assessed a fine and costs totalling $70. He was arrested as he drove on the pavement at the intersection of Route 176 and Slocum Lake road. He told Constable Heger that he had killed the pheasants because he was unable to bag any ducks.

Glencoe lodge No. 983, A. F. and A. M., has come to the aid of the community council in its effort to arrange for a suitable place for holding the Fortnightly club dances and similar affairs by other organizations of the village which formerly used the old gymnasium at Central school, by offering the facilities at Masonic temple, at Vernon and Hazel avenues.

SHOES HAVE INDIVIDUALITY

Of course cleaning seldom ever, regardless of quality, would remind you of a worn out pair of shoes. But good cleaning does reflect a distinct, fresh individuality all its own. Individual treatment and clean, purified solvent does that.
