UNUSUAL STORIES about USUAL PEOPLE By ANNA TAMARRI

The distinction of being the only visiting teacher in Illinois belongs to a Highland Park, Miss Myra Thomas, of 1540 Judson avenue, Ravinia. She is listed thus in the profession's official publication, Visiting Teacher Bulletin, put out by the American Association of Visiting Teachers.

Miss Thomas is a rara avis because hers is a comparatively new profession, one which has only with in the last ten years been put upon a basis of specialized training. After securing her bachelor of arts degree from Flora Stone Mather, she took a two-year course (including part-time field work), additional work in psychiatry at Western Reserve University School of Applied Social Science, an accredited school of social work in Cleveland, Ohio, where in 1938 she was awarded her master's degree in social administration. With previous background as an untrained relief visitor, Miss Thomas then became connected in a trained capacity with the Family Agency in Cleveland. There she worked with different types of problems which included many contacts with the schools.

In August of last year, Miss Thomas came back to the Highland Park high school from which she was graduated. Here, in close harmony with the deans and the high school nurse, she acts as an intermediary between the home and the school, and, by child and parent interviews in home calls, she seeks to produce conditions most favorable to the individual child's all-round growth. She aids transfer students and others in difficulty, and cooperates with teachers in defining discipline problems. "A pat on the back" doesn't always solve the problems of the teen age, Miss Thomas says, when boys and girls bump up against life, break away from the home, and make outside contacts.

Personality adjustments should be made even earlier, she adds, in the grammar schools, as in the East, where a movement first installed visiting teachers.

The title "Teacher" is a misnomer, for Miss Thomas does not teaching in the home as is the case in some cities. She does, however, happen to hold a teacher's certificate, which she has never used because her social work has been so absorbing.

Knowing the community is the first step in making her goal articulate, she declares, and in order to help hurdle students' obstacles, Miss Thomas has next to "sell" her job, a brand-new one, which as a whole the public does not understand.

A visiting teacher is a trained social case worker, particularly interested in and understanding of education. She is attached to a school faculty to work with individual children who show in the classroom or outside varying degrees of maladjustment and inability to get along well with others. Her interest in the child is to help further his all-round growth toward a happy, enriched, and effective citizenship.

Pupils are referred to the visiting teacher by classroom teachers, principals, superintendents, other school personnel, parents and workers from social agencies. Frequently children themselves come for help or bring their playmates.

BOB O'LINK CADDIES FETED BY MEMBERS

Proof that Bob O'Link golfers really appreciate good caddy service, was demonstrated last Thursday evening when the boys who carry the bag were guests at an unusual celebration in their honor, held in the club house. More than one hundred and fifty youngsters from 'teen age up were the guests of members at a turkey feast with all the trimmings which was a real challenge to growing appetites.

The occasion for the celebration, which was planned and arranged by Ray D. Smith, chairman of the caddy committee, was the annual award of prizes for "distinguished caddy service." Boys, throughout the summer, were rated by players on the basis of efficiency and sportsmanlike conduct. Every score card was turned in to Caddy Master Emmet Maroney who kept a cumulative record of each caddy's standing. The spirit of competition was keen among the boys, resulting in a neck and neck finish.

Prizes consisting of suits of clothes, overcoats, leather coats, shoes, shirts, socks, ties and underwear, valued at more than $700, were distributed by Chairman Smith during the evening. Among the winners, in the order of their standing, were: Bernard Brennan, Joseph Wenckus, James Slater, Paul Buller, Anthony O'Donnell, John Hoie, John Geary, Edward DeSanto, Richard Griffin, Chester Toleson, Henry Juhrend, John Novello, Dennis Hart, Cyril Huck, Robert Pucin, Glen Allen, Peter Veit, Elmer Gerken, Robert Peterson, Paul Wohlbruck, Robert Mollenhauer, James Loizzo, Lawrence Rafferty, Edward Sordyl.

The grab bag winners were as follows: Charles Mornini, Al Glabowitz, Peter Veit, Joseph Cortesi, John Geary, Lester Rankin, James Rankin, Archie Vietch, John Mesec, Sam DeSanto, Woodrow Dill, Norman Peterson, Raymond Santi, Walter Debelak, Bruno Vitkus, Frank Dalla Valla, Henry Juhrend, Gene Grothman, Lawrence Rafferty, Robert Dolan, Teddy Pankiewicz, Cliff Lind, John Reynolds.

An even more generous array of prizes is planned for next year, Mr. Smith stated. The boys expressed their appreciation for his efforts in their behalf by a rising vote of thanks.
