

WILSON'S Weekly MEMO

by GEORGE RECTOR

All seasons have their high spots and Fall is among the richest. To some it means the pungent aroma of burning leaves on frosty nights. To others, the pumpkin and corn shock—the marvelous panorama of Fall colors. But to me the high spot of Fall is pork sausage—the appetite-inspiring smell of them sizzling in the skillet—the warm, satisfying joy of eating them with waffles or toast and coffee—on a morning with a nip of frost in the air. Here's to glorious Autumn! May you enjoy the matchless flavor of Wilson's Certified Pure Pork Sausage many times ere the tulips bloom again.

IT'S TIME FOR WILSON'S CERTIFIED PORK SAUSAGE

Wilson's Certified Pure Pork Sausage Links, creamed peas and carrots and a plate of piping hot corn bread is a good enough meal for anyone, but my suggestion is to combine them all into one big happy family by serving them as a casserole dish, with a bowl of spiced crab-apples on the side.

Sausage Casserole

10 Wilson Certified Pure Pork Sausage Links, 1 cup each canned peas, diced carrots, white sauce or gravy, Corn bread batter.

Drain peas. Cook carrots for 5 minutes in the pea liquid. Combine with the white sauce or gravy. If convenient add some diced chicken, ham or other meat. Place in a 1 1/2 quart casserole and spread thinly with corn bread batter made with Wilson's Certified Pure Lard for shortening. Partly cook the sausages in a skillet, drain and arrange on top of the corn bread. Bake in a moderate oven (375° F) for 45 minutes or until the corn bread is baked. Serves 5.

CIDER'S IN!

The best cider of the year is now on the market, made from firm juicy apples. Drink all you want but do, I beg of you, save out a couple of cups for giving your next Wilson's Bone-In Tender Made Ham a delightful cider-y flavor.

TENDER MADE HAM IN APPLE CIDER

Have the ham at room temperature. Place in an uncovered roaster, add 2 cups of sweet cider and heat in a moderate oven (350° F), allowing 5 minutes to the pound for a whole ham. Take ham from oven, remove skin, score fat and spread the top with mixture made from 1 cup of soft, stale bread crumbs, 1 cup brown sugar and enough lemon juice to make a paste. Return to the oven, at 450° F, for approximately 15 minutes, basting frequently.

A QUICKEE LUNCH DISH

Bake acorn squash, cut in halves, in a moderate oven, until tender. Brush cut edge and inside surface with Wilson's Clear Brook Butter. When thoroughly cooked, fill the cavities with Wilson's Certified Chili Con Carne, piping hot. Serve with hot rolls and cole slaw. For dessert cinnamon apples may be baked in oven, while the squash are cooking.

Pontiac for 1940 features distinctly new front end design but still retains the famous silver streak which has identified it since 1935. As exemplified here in the Torpedo Eight four door sedan, all Pontiac models for 1940 are marked by more liberal use of chromium for decorative effects, double bar front bumpers, parking lamps mounted directly above the new sealed beam headlights, chromium belt moulding and chromium trimming around the windshield.

Manager Believes Ford Car Finest of Modern Build

By A. S. Hatch, Manager, Chicago Branch, Ford Motor Company. Perhaps never before in motor car history, have we had the opportunity to present our new models to a more discriminating public, and a public in a more buying mood. With increased purchasing power at his command, the motorist is not content with his present model, once he has seen the refinements and improvements which give him the safety and comfort he has dreamed would some day be at his disposal in a motor car he could afford. While with the world disturbed by war and the uncertainty of national existence facing many peoples, no one can say that prosperity will continue to bless us here in America, but it is clear that the American public is ready to buy a better motor car and sales should certainly maintain an upward trend far into 1940, if not through the entire year. With that expectancy we have tooled up to meet first, the demand for the finest motor car modern engineering can build, and second, delivery of the volume we believe the American public will demand of us.
