TRADITIONAL THANKSGIVING

Thanksgiving Day had its beginning with the Pilgrim fathers. It was instituted by the Pilgrims who forsook the shelter of organized society, staple government, and advanced living conditions for the sake of a principle. They left the roof-top of civilization; they allowed the hand of their material progress to be turned back a thousand years; they came to America to wrestle with untamed nature for that principle.

The first Thanksgiving was celebrated by the Pilgrims who rendered thanks to God for the bounteous crops produced in the wilderness. Governor Bradford sent out men to bring wild fowl in to help the feast along. Handed down from generation to generation, it has been essentially a feast in grateful celebration of the harvest, a November feast at which time all grains, all fruits, all vegetables have been safely garnered and stored. In great cities Thanksgiving has gone far afield from its first hand significance because people are removed from first-hand contact with nature. The observance continues, but very often its deep spiritual significance has fled after the manner of all things of the spirit, and left only the empty husk.

Only on the American farm does Thanksgiving come in all its original virility. There, it still marks the close of the summer's unflagged industry. There it is still the festival, at the end of the harvest.

Inklings from Neighboring Towns

The thirty foot flagpole on the campus of the Methodist Deaconess orphanage at Lake Bluff is now graced by a large American flag presented Sunday afternoon by the Hearst Square squadron, Sons of the American Legion, Chicago.

The flagpole, until several months ago, had a flag, but because it had become badly tattered and faded the practice of raising the flag each morning was abandoned.

The absence of the flag attracted the attention of W. E. Timms, of Chicago, during a visit to the orphanage.

When the late Henry C. Edwards of Waukegan, shortly before his death, drew a will disinheriting three grandchildren, he was mentally incompetent and the will is therefore invalid, a circuit court jury decided recently.

The jury voiced its findings in a sealed verdict, to be opened Friday morning before Judge William L. Pierce.

Six members of the Libertyville Lions club have volunteered to finance the purchase of spectacles for needy children in local schools. The action was construed as the first concerted effort of the local chapter to carry out one of the chief aims of the national Lions organization, namely, the project of "sight conservation."

O. A. Newsom, chairman of the sight committee, reported a survey made in local grade, parochial, and high schools revealed a total of 20 cases where persons who need glasses are doing without them for lack of funds.

Vernon street between the Glencoe limits and Tower road is to be made a through street under the terms of an ordinance introduced at the meeting of the Winnetka village council Tuesday evening on the recommendation of the public safety committee.

The proposed ordinance provides for the erection of stop signs along Vernon street at Tower road, Edgewood lane, Asbury avenue, and Scott avenue.

From several sources, it is announced, a rumor has reached the attention of Winnetka officials that the bonds issued in the latter part of 1938 to finance the cost of construction of the Winnetka grade separation project were found to be invalid, and required the enactment of special legislation at the last session of the Illinois general assembly in order to establish their validity.

This rumor is entirely without foundation, Winnetka officials explain. The bonds were issued by the village in accordance with the approving opinion of Chapman and Cutler, of Chicago, well recognized bond attorneys, and no question has subsequently been raised as to their validity, either by the village, the federal government or the syndicate headed by Halsey, Stuart and company who purchased the general obligation bond issue.

It is presumed that this rumor is based on the fact that at the last session of the Illinois general assembly, two bills were passed for the purpose of validating bond issues, these bills being designated as Senate bill No. 589 and House bill, No. 890. The former bill validated bonds issued by the down state cities of Pekin and Macomb, and the latter, a bond issue of Cicero.

The Hubbard Woods Improvement association, it is announced, has had many inquiries from its members regarding the desired bicycle-pedestrian path along Hibbard road, southward from Tower road.

Harold J. Ross, president of the association, in discussing the subject, Tuesday, said:

"This project has had the consideration of the directors for several months. The board feels, like most of the parents in the community, that this facility should be provided at the earliest possible time, before, not after, a tragedy occurs. There has been heard no dissenting voice concerning this improvement and were it entirely within the possibilities of this organization, the work would be under way.

"Unfortunately, the cost of installing a cement walk, or path, of sidewalk width from Tower road to Oak street (approximately 3500 feet) would be from $3,500, to $4,000. Our problem is to secure from one of the governing bodies an appropriation of this amount.

"Growing Pains" to Be Presented Nov. 17 at L. F. High School

The Lake Forest High School Dramatic Club is putting on the play "Growing Pains," an amusing play typical of American home life written by Aurenia Rouveral. The curtain will rise at 8:30 p.m. on Friday, November 17, in the high school auditorium.

The story concerns the McIntyre family. Professor McIntyre, an absent-minded don, awakes one day to discover that his 17-year-old son George wants a car and that with amazing determination he has been making life miserable for Mrs. McIntyre, who heretofore has had to manage the children's affairs single handed.

Terry, their 15-year-old daughter who has been playing baseball with the neighbor boys regularly, is rudely awakened to the fact that the boys don't want her on their team. Even her hero of the hour, Brion, suggests that she become ladylike.

Just as Mrs. McIntyre breathes

a sigh of relief at having the situation well in hand, Prudence, a sophisticated from the city, comes to town. She literally sweeps the boys off their feet while the town girls sit helplessly on the sidelines. Mrs. McIntyre's rescue of the girls and worsting of Prudence provide one of the most hilarious episodes in the play. Tickets are on sale now and may be purchased from members of the Dramatic Club.

Tibbetts Wins Award in "Ad" Competition

M. C. Tibbetts, general manager of the Hawthorn-Melody Farms Dairy, which serves the North Shore area, returned last week from San Francisco, Calif., where he carried off first honors at a national dairy-men's convention with his display of advertisements. Mr. Tibbetts competed with several hundred dairy-men from all parts of the country. With Mr. Tibbetts on his visit to the West Coast were Mrs. Tibbetts, their son, James, also associated with the Hawthorn-Melody Farms concern, and Mrs. James Tibbetts.
