"Ninotchka" With Greta Garbo as Star at Deerpath Theatre

"Henry Goes Arizona" and "Nancy Drew and the Hidden Staircase" will be shown together in a double feature program on Thursday and Friday, February 1 and 2, at Deerpath theatre.

Frank Morgan romps through hilarious adventure as a timid tenderfoot in the toughest of western towns in "Henry Goes Arizona", thrill-comedy of the great open spaces, with little Virginia Weidler as the heroine. Players include Slim Summerville, Douglas Fowley and Owen Davis, Jr.

"Nancy Drew and the Hidden Staircase," presenting Bonita Granville as the juvenile heroine of Carolyn Keene's stories of a girl detective. The cast includes Frankie Thomas as Nancy's boy-friend, John Litel as her father and Frank Orth as the police captain.

"Ninotchka," Greta Garbo's first picture in two years, and the Swedish star's first venture into gay, sophisticated romantic comedy, is the attraction coming Saturday, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, February 3, 4, 5 and 6 to the Deerpath theatre. Based on a story by Melchior Lengyl, "Ninotchka", while filled with comedy situations and brilliant dialogue, also has moments of gripping drama for Garbo.

Number one picture of the year playing a return engagement at the Deerpath theatre Wednesday, February 7, presents Robert Donat again as the lovable school master of "Goodbye Mr. Chips."

Quaint characters of a quaint village in a poignant human drama are seen in "Bad Little Angel," romance of childhood playing at the Deerpath Thursday and Friday, Feb. 8 and 9. Featuring Virginia Weidler and Gene Reynolds as a new juvenile team, the picture tells the story of a little orphanage waif whose faith and courage so affect the lives of those about her that their problems are solved. The cast includes Guy Kibbee, Ian Hunter, Reginald Owen, Henry Hull and Elizabeth Patterson.
