BUILDING PERMITS

June has been a good month for new homes in Deerfield. During this past week two more permits were issued for homes and one for remodelling. E. F. Nelson, president of the Deerfield Civic association, is having a two-story residence built on Oakwood place, costing $8,700; and Virgil E. Hagie, a one story frame residence at 502 Elm St., costing $4,000. One remodelling permit of $3,000 was taken out by John Picchietti for the bowling alley. This is an addition to the $2,000 permit issued to Peter J. Juhrend in the same building for his office at the north end.

RELIEF GARDEN

The plot of ground on Deerfield road west of C. C. Kapschull's home has been ploughed and is ready for use for gardens for those who have not enough garden space in their own yards and who will take an interest in the planting and caring for it. Those desiring space in this plot are asked to notify Supervisor Ross R. Sherman.

Miss Martha Milinowski, professor of music at Vassar college and the former head of the Lake Forest School of Music, recently published "Teresa Carreno," a biography of the famous Venezuelan pianist. It is interesting to recall that Miss Milinowski was a pupil of Miss Carreno and that, therefore, no one is better fitted to write the life story of that great pianist.

Miss Carreno was a virtuoso unexcelled in her own day by other musical performers. Her life, so humanly absorbing with its tempectuous marriages and lively friendships with the great muscians, Rossini, Greig, Rubinstein, MacDowell, and others, also throws light upon the development of concert giving and the change in musical taste and appreciation during more than 50 years.

Deerfield Civic Group Disbands for Summer Months

The Deerfield Civic association met Tuesday evening at the Town Hall for the closing meeting of the season and will resume its activities in September. Kenneth Ross of the membership committee reported that former members and new residents were being contacted in the membership drive. James Flanagan and Walter Metcalf Jr. were appointed by President E. F. Nelson to work on this committee. For the publicity committee to assist Arthur Pearson, Earl Knaak and Lynn Brenne were made members.

Edward B. Crush and Clarence Wilson told of the progress made on the sale of tickets for the Deerfield model home.

It was announced that the Milwaukee Road had completed the safety fence between the two tracks at the depot. Victor Carlson of the safety committee has been instructed to see that warning signs at the village limits be placed properly. It was reported that since the state had moved the signs from the actual limits and put them closer into the village that more accidents had occurred.

The citizenship committee will continue to function and all organizations who helped the Civic association to put on the Flag Day program, wil receive reports at a later
