LET'S KEEP AMERICA, "AMERICAN"

"... That all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness..."
 One-hundred and sixty four years ago tomorrow the immortal Declaration of Independence was adopted by the United States of America.

We are incalculably grateful for this imparishable document... it severed us from the times that bounded us to European ideas and form of government. It released us from outside intervention in our affairs and barricaded nations across the sea from controlling our government and people. We became a free nation over night.

Men such as Washington, Jefferson, Hale, Monroe and Lincoln have carried on the spirit of an indefatigable people. In this generation, we have men who are endeavoring to continue this spirit of freedom in a war crazed world.

We have also many newly coined words such as "fifth column" and "Nazi" which in a sense are synonymous and are a threat to the doctrines uppermost in the minds of the makers of the Declaration of Independence.

We are now aware that the five columns in the papers are not in any way connected with the seven pillars mentioned in the Bible. Americans commemorating this great day should loath any subversive canons expounded by international blackguards, who have no interest in the United States save that it protects them from their foreign enemies.

Why should we harbor these dissenters to American ideals? Because in the famous document adopted on this day, it says that we have "certain inalienable rights." Agreed that it is an American ideal to think and speak freely... but was it an ideal of the men in 1776 that we should tolerate mass meetings and sub rosa cliques that are the converse of Americanism?

On this famed day we should think twice before enduring huge demonstrations and propaganda which are imperiling our freedom and retarding our isolation from European affairs.

Let's keep America American. Let's work toward a common goal... that of nonintervention in foreign and internal peace and unity.

AMERICANISM — "FAIR PLAY"

"They have the right to censure, that have the heart to help: the rest is cruelty, not justice."
 —Selected.

Adverse criticism of an innocent victim is far from true American ideals. If in these trying days of "propaganda" we are to promulgate American principles, let us seal our mouths and ears to gossip, until we have a firm foundation of established facts.

True that a "fifth column" has caused devastation to many of Europe's countries, and at the present time, seeks to undermine our own government. This does not, however, warrant condemnation of every individual of foreign birth.

In the spirit of Americanism which calls for fair play, we do not believe that any of our citizens would willingly take any action to harm a fellow citizen because of unconfirmed or unsubstantiated gossip, circulated in regard to his loyalty to our government.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation is a government agency qualified to handle all subversive activities. If you have any actual evidence of such activity, write a letter to the F.B.I., which is located in the Bankers Building, Chicago, Ill., giving them a full report.
