

Lt. Edward Crandall U.S.N. Speaks At Rotary Meeting

"The newspaper publicity on a two-ocean navy is not in harmony with the wishes of the Navy High Command. The United States needs a single navy and its allocation is a question of navy policy under a united command."

This was one of the highlights in the talk by Lt. Edward Crandall before the Highland Park Rotary Club at their meeting of July 29th at the Sunset Valley Golf Club. An unusually large attendance of members and friends was on hand despite the heat because of the interest of everyone in Lt. Crandall's talk, "What the Navy has to offer Young Men." Lt. Crandall spent considerable time outlining the conventional opportunities which the Navy offers to young men of American birth and good education, and then he called attention to the new and special features and the special fields of training.

The latter part of his address was devoted to the opportunities developed by the Navy with Naval Aviation and the new methods of cramming naval methods into highly qualified men with two years college training. Over 5,000 new ensigns are wanted for the United States Navy and are being developed in a special program. The policy of sending them to a naval school has been slightly altered. They are being given a preliminary cruise on one of the older battleships of the Navy and then turned over to a corps of trained instructors to qualify them for immediate naval service.

In addition to these opportunities for unmarried men, there are special forms of training being offered for those who cannot leave their home because of family ties while they are doing their training. These are particularly in the field of naval reserve training and in radio station and naval station work. Lt. Crandall requested the co-operation of Rotarians in spreading the information and the new opportunities which the Navy has developed.

Those young men who are fortunate enough to fall within the proper educational brackets and are American born and between the ages of 19 and 26 will be given a probationary enlisted status for 30 days. They will be given clothing and equipment but not pay. Thereafter, if the navy regards them as suitable timber they will receive a provisional rank the same as a midshipman at Annapolis and the same pay as an Annapolis man, or $780 per year, plus a ration allowance. In addition in time of peace, midshipmen will be issued necessary articles of uniform, bedding and equipment. In time of national emergency or war they will receive such additional articles as the Secretary of Navy may prescribe. On graduation they will have the rank of Ensign.

Rimsky-Korsokoff's "Scheherazade" Suite To Be Heard Aug. 7th

The exotic and fanciful "Scheherazade" Suite by the great Russian composer Rimsky-Korsakoff will be the featured symphonic work on the fifth program of "Starlight Symphonies" by the Illinois Symphony orchestra at the Wilmette Amphitheatre, Wilmette, on Wednesday evening (August 7th).

The story of this composition is drawn from "The Arabian Nights." Each of the four movements of the suite represents one of these tales: "The Sea and Sinbad's Ship," "The Narrative of the Kalender Prince," "The Young Prince and the Young Princess," and "The Festival at Bagdad."

Ralph Rose, who conducted last week's concert, will again be guest conductor of the orchestra and Agatha Lewis, soprano, will be the featured soloist. Mr. Rose was formerly director of the Oklahoma City Federal Symphony Orchestra and former musical head of the Texas State Network. He was a scholarship student at the Julliard and the Curtis Schools of Music, and studied violin and conducting with Michael Press in New York.

Miss Agatha Lewis, beautiful Chicago-born artist, is no stranger to Wilmette audiences, having appeared previously at the Wilmette Amphitheatre with the Illinois Symphony Orchestra. She has been soloist several times with the orchestra and last year sang at the Worcester and Cleveland Music Festivals. Her most recent achievement was a recital at Town Hall in New York.

Conductor Rose will open Wednesday evening's concert with Mendelssohn's sparkling Overture to "A Midsummer Night's Dream," and continue with the "Scheherazade" Suite. After the intermission, Miss Lewis will sing two famous operatic arias, "Hymn to the Sun," from Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Le Coq d'Or," and "Comme autrefois dans la nuit," from Bizet's "The Pearl Fishers." The orchestra will then play Three Dances from Smetana's rollicking folk opera, "The Bartered Bride," and conclude the concert with Chabrier's colorful Rhapsody, "Espana."

Heluiz Washburne Tells of Her Work at Writers Conference

Mrs. Carleton Washburne, wife of the superintendent of the Winnetka schools, was introduced as the important member of the family, at the Writers' Conference in Lake Forest last week for she has four books to her credit and is working on a fifth. Taking the audience into her confidence Mrs. Washburne told of the four years of work which has gone into the preparing of "Anauta," the story of an Eskimo woman in Baffin land, which will be published by John Day. It is a story for adults whereas the previous books by Heluiz Washburne have delighted children. The Whitman Co. of Chicago sent out copies of her gay "Little Elephant Catches Cold," "Little Elephant's Christmas" and "Little Elephant's Picnic," also the story of "Rhamon, a Boy of Kashmir" full of the color and customs of far India.

A photographer from the Chicago Daily News came out to the Conference to get a picture of Mrs. Washburne, and the other two speakers on "Writing for Children" Day who will also have new books off soon, Elizabeth Orton Jones, author-illustrator of Highland Park and Frances Cavanah of Evanston. Miss Jones' book to be published soon by Macmillan is a Czech story "Mamirka's Children" and Miss Cavanah's is an anthology "Told under the Christmas Tree." Conference attendants were delighted with the opportunity of seeing color proofs from Miss Jones' book.

The conference as a whole aroused so much interest that Rowena Bennett, leader, and Elizabeth Fontaine, secretary, announced that a plan for a more comprehensive summer session was already under way for July 1941. Guests from a distance included a Hollywood writer, students from Union, Iowa and Topeka, Kansas, the director of radio for Indianapolis schools. The 60 guests at Mrs. George K. Bowden's Musicale included representatives from college poetry groups in Leland Stanford, Bennington, Wellesley, University of Washington, and University of Iowa.

Highland Parkers who signed the registrar's book included Mrs. Frank Peyraud, Hazel Crow Ewell, Mrs. Roy Nereim and daughter Nancy, Mrs. Harold Rosenheim, Mrs. Arthur Durand, the Misses Joan Goodman, Elizabeth Bredin, Katherine Imig, Carol Imig, Jane Scarbrough, Dorothy Vaaler, Ruth Slown and Aurelia Gastfield of Deerfield, Mrs. George K. Bowden, Elizabeth Orton Jones, Mrs. Eugene Hotchkiss of Ravinia who came down from Nashota, Wisconsin for the week. Many registrants were from Oak Park and the far south side of Chicago. Mrs. Russell Dean Comfort, playwright and poet, in charge of the P.E.N. group of the Chicago Women's club, and Mrs. Ralph Merriam, retiring president of the Northern Illinois Branch of Penwomen of America, were among the interested listeners who journeyed daily from the south side of Chicago.

Athlyn Deshais had a daily feature story in the Waukegan News-Sun and all Chicago and suburban papers cooperated in spreading the news of this first Writers' Conference in the Chicago area. Her serial story now opening in the Chicago Daily News has much interest for those who heard Graig Rice, author of mysteries, talk at the Conference. Alice Wescott Marks was registrar and in charge of the display of writer's magazines sent by publishers from all parts of the country. Rowena Bennett, Conference leader, will re-open her course for listeners or writers on October 3 at the Highland Park Y.W.C.A.
