The old column is dedicated to those local golf aspirants who know very little about the lingo of the game... and maybe a few facts concerning the functioning and implements used therein. Let's hope this doesn't seem too naive... which it will undoubtedly be to golf participants. Usual paraphernalia concerning forthcoming events on the local links will be found in the latter section of the column.

Now for this little game called golf. When one sees action pictures of good golfers in the news, one thinks how really simple the game is... if one knows how to swing. I think swinging is the most important part of the game. Every time I swing the club, clouds of turf accompany the ball. When the rotund, white missile ascends in the air, most new golfers find that it invariably curves one way or the other... a hook or a slice. One is as bad as the other. The green player endeavors to overcome a hook and develops a violent slice... that's my experience.

Finally when the ball has been dubbed, sliced, hooked and topped... the player naturally becomes slightly exasperated. Another four strokes and the poor sweating golfer finds himself on the green... quite at loss as to what the next move may be. He hauls out a rusty putter... puts and screams in rage when the ball rolls gently into a convenient sand trap. After bashing clouds of sand into the air... he finally connects with the long lost ball, and sends it whistling over the green onto another fairway. About this time, clubs begin to fly through the air... oaths are being flung through foamed lips and hankerchiefs are wiping watery foreheads. Yes, this funny game seems easy, but it really fools one.

The hook is the greatest pitfall for the new golfer, in my humble estimation. It is the most baffling problem in this popular pastime. Slicing can be overcome, as can hooking, simply by altering the grasp on the club, so I've been told. Better take lessons, and start out on the right path. They call golf fun, but I get the biggest kick out of seeing so many unhappy, worn-out, hungry looking faces while out on the links. Golf is improved by frequent practice... and requires much perseverance and patience... little progress can be made without any of these qualities in the player.

Well, I'll point out a few more facts concerning the game next week. Bye the bye, this peculiar game was anciently known as Goff, or Goff and was a game of Dutch origin, but generally identified with Scotland, where as early as 1457 the local Parliament inveighed against its abuse... and whence it has become popularized throughout the English-speaking world.

Now for schedules and forthcoming events in the local clubs. Exmoor is planning a match play against par on the 10th, and its usual mixed foursome event for Thursday the 15th, according to Joe DePalma, Exmoor golf authority. On the 17th a best ball twosome event will be given at Exmoor, while on the same day the third round match play of the Fullerton cup tourney will be played, DePalma reported.

Currently attending the W.G.A. derby at Westmoreland Country club, Exmoor women have a full schedule on deck for the residue of the summer. Included in these planned events is a unique tournament to be held August 12. The arrangement in this event will be as follows: Most 4's in class A; most 5's in class B; most 6's in class C, and most 7's in class D. Mrs. Newby and Mrs. Peterson are in charge of arrangements.

Sunset Valley will have a medal play handicap tournament on Aug. 11th, Jerry Parsons, Sunset authority, pointed out today. Parsons commented on the huge success of Sunset's Bump-along-day held Wednesday.

Lakeshore nabbed top honors over Northmoor in their recent golf team competition, John Brooks, Lakeshore golf expert, announced today. Mrs. M. J. Spiegel Jr. won the recent ladies' handicap tourney. H. E. Foreman Jr. and John Coleman tied for first place in the men's most pars with handicap event held recently at Lakeshore. M. M. Drefus of Lakeshore won the men's closest to hole tournament staged last week at the club.

August 10 will be the first round of the men's 72-hole medal play handicap tournament, Brooks said. On the 13th, the ladies will hold a match play against par, with handicap, event. The Sunset tournament with a ladies' choice of nine holes will be given on the 15th.

Hole-in-one honors go to a certain Mr. Klein, guest of Mr. D. Goldman of Lakeshore, who made a "one" on Lakeshore's 6th hole (120 yards) recently. Have received reports that Eddy Loos, ace pro at Lakesore, is still clicking off par with no trouble at all. He recently shot a 67... with an enviable 31 on the first nine. Oh for the life of a pro.

More next week... until then keep your eye on the ball... head down... arm stiff... completely relaxed... and by all means follow thru.

The Glencoe public library was one of 52 libraries cited for outstanding library publicity, it was announced at the annual convention of the American Library association held recently at Cincinnati, Ohio.

The awards were made public at a meeting of the Public Relations committee and mark the beginning of a three-year plan sponsored by the H. W. Wilson company and a committee of the American Library association to select and exhibit annually notable examples of public, school, college, state agency and special library publicity.

The selection which includes newspaper feature articles, rotogravure pictures, book lists, leaflets for new borrowers, etc., will take a journey throughout the entire United States stopping at state and regional library meetings, schools, and college and public libraries.

Work was started last week by the Cook County Highways department on the improvement of Lake avenue, Wilmette, east from Hubbard road to Ridge road. The contractor is the Milburn Construction company of Mount Prospect.
