Released on Bond Following Assault On Two Policemen

Wallace Loverin Clark, 39, 276 Cedar avenue, was released on bond Monday and bound over to the grand jury on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon, as the result of an attack with a pistol on three Highland Park policemen.

Police officers James Berube and Jack Ohlwein responded to a call to Clark's home Monday morning about 1:40 o'clock in answer to a disturbance call. When the two entered the residence Clark hid behind the front door, took the officers by surprise and seized their guns. While holding the guns, Officer Berube's gun was accidentally discharged, but no one was hit.

Hearing the shot, Policeman Lehr who was waiting outside in the squad car, rushed into the house. As he entered the door, the police say that Clark fired a shot at Lehr, which missed. Lehr threw himself at Clark, knocked him to the floor, and with the aid of the other two officers, disarmed him.

Clark who is a real estate broker, has resided in Highland Park since 1933.

Report Car Stolen; Owner Suffers Lapse of Memory

Pio Roggians, operator of a pool-room in Highwood, suffered loss of memory, or perhaps it was the heat, after parking his car in the business section of Highland Park last Friday. Returning to the spot where he thought he had left the vehicle, he was amazed to find it missing and called the local police to inform them of his loss. He then returned to Highwood.

A short time later, the car was found, yes in the same location, between Sheridan and St. Johns avenue, but not on Central avenue in front of Pease drug store as he thought, but in back of the pharmacy.

The Highwood police were notified that the car had been found by the local officers, who in turn advised the local boys to hold the car until its owner was able to call for it.
