The Deerfield village board is sending out the following letters this week in the water bills asking citizens to trim trees and bushes that hang over the walks:

To You, Our Citizens. From Your Village Public Works Committee.

Subject: Shrubbery and Trees, Their Interference to Pedestrians. We have an ordinance in our village making it incumbent on the part of the property owner to keep his shrubbery trimmed so that no part of it hangs out over the sidewalk. The law also provides that branches from trees shall be trimmed so pedestrians may walk under them without fear of being scratched, having their hats knocked off, etc. In fact, a pedestrian walking with an umbrella should be able to have perfect clearance from interference from trees.

It is your duty as a citizen to see that your shrubbery and trees are trimmed in accordance with the above. In the past, it has sometimes been the practice to send a police officer to the home of a violator of these very fair rules, to warn him. Many people resented this action. Therefore, we take this opportunity of informing you. In those cases where no heed is taken, other action will be taken in order to enforce an ordinance which every fair-minded person undoubtedly favors.

We know you will cooperate by immediately seeing that your bushes and trees do not violate your village laws.

Your Village Public Works Committee.

Deerfield Citizens Asked to Trim Trees

Richard Hein, age about 55, was fatally injured at 9 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 7, when he was struck by a car driven by Oswald E. Bruske, 45, of 2813 Lincoln Ave., Chicago. Hein was walking in Deerfield rd. near the Briargate Country club on the eastern edge of the village of Deerfield at the time.

Bruske told the police that Hein, who was apparently intoxicated, stepped directly into the path of the auto.

Deerfield police rushed Hein to the Highland Park hospital where he died at 1:30 a.m. Thursday without regaining consciousness.

Hein, while known by a number of people in Deerfield and Highland Park, did not have any steady employment, police said, and got along by doing odd jobs. He had no known address in either Deerfield or Highland Park, but was frequently seen in both communities. The police of both places are attempting to locate relatives of the dead man or find some friends. He was known as "Sailor Dick."

An inquest has been set for 10 a.m. Friday at Kelley's mortuary in Highland Park by Dr. John L. Taylor, Lake county coroner.

As no relatives claimed the body, Seguin & Logan gave him a burial at Mooney's cemetery on Ridge road, Highland Park, for the county.

Former Deerfield Woman Buried in Franklin Grove

Mrs. Henry Helmershausen (Frances Loy) died of a heart attack early Monday morning at her summer home in Franklin Grove, Ill. Funeral services were held on Wednesday afternoon (yesterday) at a Franklin Grove Funeral Home and burial was in that city. She is survived by her husband, a teacher in the Chicago Public schools; and by three sisters and four brothers in New Bremen, Ohio. As Miss Loy she worked in the office and home of Dr. C. Johnston Davis after the World war and until about 10 years ago. Later she moved to Chicago and about five years ago married Mr. Helmershausen.

Model Home Is Attracting Many From Far and Near

Do you have a guest from one of these states?

Deerfield Board Changes Building Code; Approve Levy

The August meeting of the Deerfield Village Board on Tuesday evening was brief. Mayor C. M. Willman presided and all trustees were present except Edwin H. Palmer and Marshall Pottenger. At the special meeting held the previous week the following took place:

The trustees approved the annual tax levy, which had been read at the July meeting. They also passed a resolution for the approval of a sewer project on an arterial highway, Elm street, funds for which are to be supplied from the motor fuel tax.

Trustee Homer Casel announced that the 1,100 square feet of sidewalk on Waukegan road from Central avenue south to the Easton property, which was damaged by the E. A. Meyer Construction Co. while repairing Waukegan road, is to be repaired and he instructed Clerk Chester Wessling to read the letter from the state highway department stating that they would reimburse the village for damages.

For the regular meeting on Tuesday evening reports of all committees were heard. There will be a special committee meeting of the water department at a later date to take action on delinquent accounts. If the water meter reader cannot get into the house to read a meter he will report it for an "average" bill, such bills can be rendered for three successive times, before an actual reading is made.

Water commissioner William Johnson reported that from 30 to 35 homes cannot be entered each month to read meters and that they have to go back two or three times before they get a reading. The action of the board to send "average" bills was prompted by this trouble in repeat calls. Many of the water pipes which have been found to be too close to the concrete pavement and caused water to freeze all winter have been lowered this summer so that consumers will not have to keep faucets open and this will reduce the village's water loss.

Trustee John Schneider, chairman of the license committee, reported about 100 delinquent dog licenses and about 75 vehicle tags not as yet collected. Mr. Schneider was authorized by the board to order the 1941 licenses to be delivered on December 1, 1940, and billed for January 1, 1941.

Carl E. Olson has given to the village a strip of 8 1/2 feet wide for roadway at the side of his house on Greenwood and Oakley so the side property on Oakley will have access to the street. The board accepted the offer, which increases the regular width of the street.

The board appropriated $90.00 to pay Clifford Hammer to get the ordinances in such form that they can be easily accessible for reference.

The building code was changed to allow persons to build garages attached on their homes without having four fireproof walls, but having a fireproof wall only where it is attached to the house. This refers to homes where no rooms are above the garage.

Fred Stryker, acting for the heirs to the William F. Plagge estate, protested against the ditch on Central avenue which has made the property useless without an approach into it. He requested a bridge and the matter was referred to the road and bridge committee. E. F. Nelson protested against the holes and ruts in North avenue.

This is the dividing line between Bannockburn and Deerfield and action will have to be taken by both village boards to make it an arterial highway. It connects Wilmet road with Telegraph rd. A special meeting will be held for this discussion.

No mention was made of the tavern question which is now a paramount issue. Although only two taverns are permitted by the village ordinance in Deerfield, the Deerfield Liquor Commissioner, C. M. Willman, is reported to have issued three licenses. The vote of the board for months has been 4 to 2 in favor of two licenses. Village Attorney Milton O. Olson has appealed to the Illinois Liquor Commission and will be granted a hearing to determine the issue.

Cashier's checks from the tavern owners are being held by the village treasurer pending the outcome of the State Commission's decision. The ordinance is not a new one and for years three taverns have operated. It was generally understood that when one of the three owners went out of business that the ordinance would then be upheld. One owner passed away this past year and new owners are operating that tavern. Whether or not this is legal will be one of the questions for the State Commission to decide.

Attorney Olson is also taking care of the suits pending against the village for mis-application of special assessment funds, prior to 1932.
