

150 Attend C.A.R. Meeting Sunday

Community Center was the scene of a meeting of some moment to members of the Blackhawk society, C.A.R., as it brought together over 150 persons, the parents and grandparents of its members at a meeting held Sunday afternoon. Thirty-eight children received these honored guests at a reception and informal meeting preceding a fine patriotic lecture by Dr. Dudley Crafts Watson.

At the door to receive, were Janet Ingram, David Maley, Jane Wilson, Helen Saret and Alice Hopkins. In the receiving line were: Philip Stokes, Donald Bingham, Ann Speed, Marie Helms, Edmund Andrews and Robert Weddell. In opening the meeting, at which the president, Philip Stokes, presided, a brief out-line of the aims of the society was made. On behalf of the Blackhawk society, the president greeted the parents and grandparents of members with wishes for good health and happiness throughout the coming year, and expressed the hope that the meeting would set a precedent for future years.

Helen Saret, color bearer, led the assembly in prayer, after which the Salute to the Flag was made. David Maley read the C.A.R. creed. Jane Wilson read excerpts from the bylaws. Nancy Newman read "The Story of Our Charter." Janet Ingram read the "Story of the Blackhawk Society." Alice Hopkins announced the projects. The secretary then introduced Mr. Edwin Hinde, of Chicago, and on behalf of the Illinois Chapter, S.A.R. an emblem flag was presented to the children by Mr. Hinde, who accepted the thanks of the president.

The meeting was then turned over to the program chairman, Ann Speed, who introduced Dr. Watson, guest speaker of the occasion, who delivered a music-picture-symphony, "Our Capitol, Past and Present," which was most thoroughly enjoyed. Many motion pictures and stills, in color, showing the entire District of Columbia, with the Capitol building, by night and day. All government and other buildings of interest, including art galleries, museums, hotels, were shown.

Dr. Watson told his listeners of the great progress which has been made in recent years, (since 1905) in modernizing the city surroundings.

Motion pictures taken from an Aeroplane brought out the fact that the plan, originally drawn by M. L. 'Enfant, at General Washington's request, is now being perfected.

In describing the art of the Nation's Capitol, Dr. Watson showed some fine reproductions of famous paintings and sculpture. Especially interesting were the stills of paintings of Washington, LaFayette, and Mrs. Ford. The views of the Cherry-blossom festival were beautiful and the aeroplane journey from Chicago airport to the landing field at Washington was most enjoyable. The lecture was enhanced by an appropriate musical setting. Daniel Cobb Jr., accompanied by June Whitworth led community singing.

Youth Hurt When Store Window Is Blown Out Monday

The 50 mile gale which struck Highland Park and the North Shore shortly after 11 o'clock Monday morning, played considerable havoc, caused much property damage, and one youth was reported hurt when he was cut by flying glass from a broken window.

Jimmy Hart, 13 year old son of the George B. Harts, 815 S. Sheridan road, sustained cuts about his hands, as he was entering the Central Ave. door of Gsell's drug store, where a plate glass window was forced out by suction, caused when the west door was opened simultaneously with the north door.

Another plate glass window in the store formerly occupied by Sears store, in the McKillip building at the corner of Central Ave., and Green Bay road was forced in by the west wind shortly after noon, Monday.

The roof of a ventilator located on top of the Highland Park Woman's club building was loosened from its moorings and tossed into the yard by the high wind. Being located above the stage or platform, it left this portion of the building exposed to the elements.

Many large trees were uprooted and damaged by the storm, while telephone and electric service was interrupted throughout Highland Park, Highwood and Fort Sheridan.

Utility wires in front of the Shoreline Bowling alleys on Railway Ave., Highwood, were downed by the storm, and city firemen and police officers were put on guard until the wires were repaired.

The west gate at Ravinia Park was completely demolished: Bill boards and signs along all highways were leveled, while shacks or stands were overturned. This was one of the worst storms witnessed in this vicinity in many years.

Francis C. Brown Resident Here for Many Years, Dies

Francis C. Brown, a resident of Highland Park for many years, who will be remembered by many of the older residents of this community, died November 1st at his home, 1035 Pine street, Winnetka. Funeral services were held the following day.

Mr. Brown, who was within five months of his 99th year at the time of his death, came to Highland Park around 1880, establishing a home at the corner of Dale and Hazel avenues. Here he resided for thirty-five years, when he moved to Winnetka, at the death of his wife.

Born in Philadelphia in 1842, he moved to New York in 1860. There he joined the 22nd New York Infantry and rose to the rank of lieutenant, then major by brevet. Both before and after the war he was in the shipping business in New York, working in the office of Howland and Aspinwall who built the first clipper. In 1870 the Inman line, forerunner of the United States lines, sent him to Chicago to open the first transatlantic steamship office west of tidewater, and he was manager of it for 56 years. In October of the same year he was married to Sarah Wetmore Whiteside of Champlain, N. Y.

They experienced the great Chicago fire, residing then at the northwest corner of what is now Grand avenue and Cass street. Previously they had lived where the Wabash avenue entrance of the Palmer house is located. Since Mrs. Brown's death in 1925, Mr. Brown had lived in Winnetka.

He was a member of the Chicago club and the Military Order of the Loyal Legion. A notice naming him commander-in-chief of the latter organization was received by his family only an hour after his passing.

Five children survive: Mrs. G. Tappan Francis and Mrs. J. Lewis Stackpole of Boston; Margaret and John Brown of Winnetka and Mrs. Augustus S. Cobb of New York; also 10 grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.
