open to argument. Commissioner Sharp in a recent address before the League of Women Voters Town Hall meeting was of the opinion that the latter method was the more practical one.

Increased taxes are always a bitter pill for the electorate of any community to swallow and your reporter believes that the present administration in Highland Park should leave no stone unturned in educating the public just why such a boost in the tax levy is necessary.

Just for a starter, one department that is perhaps closer to the average citizen than any other and one that is sadly in need of expansion is the Police Department. The current facilities of this important branch of the city's government are based on a city whose population is just about half of that of Highland Park. The laws of arithmetic in spite of what the economists might dry: 2 children. References required. Call tell us down in Washington still decree that two and two make four. The citizens of this community are going to get mighty little more in the way of police protection and operation than they pay for and at the current writing that is not very chauf. exp. Prefers living quarters. A-1 much. To even the most casual observer the police department in Highland Park is deficient in both personnel and material. It needs more men and it needs more equipment to do the important job of safeguarding the community in the manner expected in a city of this size and position. Nobody likes to spend any more money than is absolutely necessary but this writer is of the opinion that if the needs of the police department are driven home to the public in an intelligent and conscientious manner the members of the community will not fail to respond.
