

Christmas Story Reveals Need Of Community Tree

The following story was read to all school children in Highland Park by their teachers early this week and refers to the Community Christmas tree which is to be planted on park property this year.

"Once upon a time there was a town that had no Christmas tree. Of course most people had their own private trees and the merchants made the streets gay for the holidays.

But there was no tree where everyone could gather round and sing and just be neighbors together.

Other towns along the shore had had Christmas trees for many years, Evanston, Winnetka, Glencoe, Lake Forest, and they had fun with their trees. But this town, and maybe you have guessed that its name was Highland Park, never had had a tree that belonged to everyone.

Some people thought it was too bad Highland Park had no tree all its own and they believed that if the children of the town were told, something would be done about it.

So this is the message. If each child in Highland Park will give a penny our town can have a living tree this Christmas that will grow bigger and bigger each year.

It will be planted on the corner by the library where everyone can see it the year round. It will be called the Children's Tree because the children will have given it to the town.

And this year we can gather round our own community tree, little folks, middle-sized folks and big folks, and all of us Highland Parkers can sing together the Christmas carols you are learning now in school.

And this year and all the years to come we will say thank you to the children of Highland Park for the lovely Christmas present they gave to our town."
