Denounce Textbooks Of Public Schools

Wilbur Helm, lecturer for the Friends of American Public Schools in an address before the Evanston Woman's Republican club last week, charged that certain textbooks used in the public schools are designed to foster a new leftist social order.

The charges were aimed at the texts written by Dr. Harold Rugg, which according to Helm are subtly putting across the idea that executive dominance, a polite term for government control, is for the greatest good of the greatest number. It's underlying motive however, according to Helm's charges is to educate the youth of our country with isms as set forth by a certain group of progressive educators.

Mrs. Harry B. Roberts of this city is an old friend of Wilbur Helm, having attended DePauw university with him, and is an ardent advocate of establishing American principles in our schools.
