

FREDERICK ROCKWELL BOOKED FOR FEB. 25

Men's Garden Club Presents
Noted Author at the Woman's Club

With the announcement by C. Eugene Pfister and Irving Meyerhoff that Frederick F. Rockwell will deliver a lecture Tuesday evening, February 25, the Highland Park Men's Garden Club has scored another outstanding success in bringing famous personalities in the world of horticulture to the North Shore.

Mr. Rockwell is rated by garden enthusiasts as America's Number One authority on flower arrangement. In addition to being garden editor of the New York Times, he is the author of numerous books, principally on the art of floral decoration, his most recent volume being "Flower Arrangement in Color," which he wrote in collaboration with his wife, whose pen name is E. C. Grayson. Recently released by the publishers, it has become a best seller in its class.

In addition to being a writer of exceptional literary talent and a lecturer of dramatic force, Mr. Rockwell is an active promoter of the Men's Garden Club movement in the United States. He founded the Men's Garden Club of New York City, and is president of that organization, as well as holding the office of vice-president with the national association of Men's Garden Clubs of America.

Because of numerous requests, according to Secretary Meyerhoff, the Rockwell lecture will be open to the general public. Blocks of tickets have been reserved by both men's and women's garden organizations as far north as Waukegan and as far west as Aurora and Elgin. In order to accommodate a large crowd the auditorium of the Highland Park Woman's Club has been engaged, where tickets may be secured at the door. A nominal admission fee will be charged, to partially defray the expense of bringing the speaker from New York, the bulk of which has been underwritten by the Highland Park Men's Garden Club.

The subject of Mr. Rockwell's lecture, according to President Pfister, will be "Design For Living." The speaker will approach the garden movement from a philosophic standpoint, and while he will touch on the technique of growing things and what to do with them after the harvest, his major thesis will deal with Mother Nature in her more esthetic moods.

"Mr. Rockwell combines profound scholarship with the rare human quality of whimsical humor and a delightful informality to produce real entertainment," Mr. Pfister reports. "He has earned his place as one of the garden world's most popular personalities. No one should miss him, whether a gardener in fact or by proxy."

On Tuesday evening, February 25, all Ravinia parents are invited to the school. Come early, at 7:30, and enjoy dessert and coffee in the gymnasium as guests of the P.T.A. Then a leisurely jaunt through as many rooms as you wish to visit, and home whenever you please. There will be no business meeting, and no group meetings in the various rooms.

The teachers of each room, however, will be on hand for informal discussion, and if you have any problems here is your opportunity to get them settled. Here is also an opportunity to become thoroughly inspired with the work your children are doing by seeing the exhibits. If you have the time, it is fascinating to tour from the lower grades through the higher ones, watching the progress of development as shown by the work displayed.
