Release Pamphlets On "Defense Housing" and "Foreign Policy"

Released from Washington, D.C., office of the National League of Women Voters are two new pamphlets simply packed with information of quite general interest, and priced at only five cents each. One is a six-sheet memorandum entitled "Defense Housing," showing the progress to date of the Federal Government's emergency housing program. It covers the set-up, policies, and appropriations for the recently created Division of Defense Housing Co-ordination and explains briefly the parts played by seven Federal agencies concerned with defense housing.

Mrs. Marion A. Cheek Jr., National League economic welfare chairman defines the league's interest in housing as follows: "Our work in recent years has led to support of public housing programs designed to eradicate slums and provide decent, safe, sanitary, properly ventilated, adequately lighted houses for low-income groups. Now has come the pressure of defense needs, with thousands of workers suddenly concentrated in localities often unprepared to cope with their shelter. Experience in the last war showed that labor turn-over in vital industries was greatly increased by acute housing agencies already established and functioning in many communities."

The second bulletin is called "What Every Voter Should Know About Foreign Policy," a study quiz of 21 questions answered in 21 words, prepared by Mrs. Louise Leonard Wright of Chicago, National League Foreign Policy chairman. The questions deal with such widely discussed subjects as the powers of the President, of the Congress, and of the public; international conferences, organizations, and law; national and hemisphere defense; regional policies toward the Far East and Europe; commercial policy; war and sanctions. Since Jan. 15 Mrs. Wright has talked to 1,000 league members with weather eye on world events, thus enabling herself to compactly present the facts they want most.

Summing up the league's foreign policy, the pamphlet states: "The foreign policy program of the League of Women Voters is based upon the belief that isolation is neither possible nor desirable for the U. S. The league has always advocated international cooperation for the prevention of war and the establishment of an international regime based on law and order. As the opportunities for international cooperation have been reduced, the League of Women Voters has advocated that the U. S. discriminate in its policy toward those nations who are aggressors and those who are the victims of aggression, in order to gain observance of an international regime based on law and order. For this reason the league supported the repeal of the arms embargo provision of the Neutrality Act and the Lease-Lend bill."

Publicity Chairman for the League.

been hanging fire awaiting action by the state for some time

Another interesting feature that was brought out at the meeting was the ability of some municipalities to obtain local improvements at the expense of the Federal government by hooking them up with the national defense program. North Chicago has several street improvement projects under way on thoroughfares leading into the Great Lakes Naval Training station. It was the consensus of those present that communities in the vicinity of Fort Sheridan could obtain similar improvements at a minimum of expense to themselves if the government could be convinced of their worth. The community in question pays only a small part of the total cost. North Chicago's share in its improvements amounts to about 18 per cent.
