Mr. Sandwick Tells Of Rotary Business Conference Program

Richard L. Sandwick, superintendent emeritus of Highland Park and Lake Forest high schools, addressed the noon day meeting of the Highland Park Rotary Club, Monday.

He gave an account of the Rotary Business Relations conference held at Starved Rock, April 4th and 5th, which he attended as representative of the local club. At this meeting, Mr. Sandwick presented each member with an outline of the fourth chapter in Edward Bernays' "Speak Up for Democracy," with slight additions from Bernays' address on Feb. 4, 1941 to the Rotary Club of Chicago.

Representatives at the conference included one man from labor, one from management and capital, one from government (Labor Board) and the general public and their interest in capital and labor. It was the second meeting of its kind, in which capital and labor met in a common interest.

In addressing the club, Mr. Sandwick, made an appeal for the support of Democracy. Copies of the outline which Mr. Sandwick based his talk on were distributed to members of the local club.

TEEN TALK

by Tommie

Getting used to school again after a whole week away proved difficult for some of us. Imagine being greeted on a Monday morning after vacation with a bluecard!

It seems the town is still full of college students. Betty Murray was home last week. She's a freshman at Wellesley this year. Among the others home for the Easter holidays were John Heath from Hill; Bette Hobbs from U. of Iowa; Pauline Blume from Carlton; Gov. Shelton from Carroll; and Jo Lloyd from U. of Michigan. We certainly enjoyed seeing them back again.

Maybe having one's tonsils out isn't so bad after all. At least Jean Moroney found she could chew gum in school.

If Jeanne Becker, Betty Varner, Luise Haessler or Betty McClure should happen to ask you for a penny or two, contribute willingly. They tell us it's for a worthy cause.

Those broomstick dirndles are really getting popular. Lois Sunstrom has a gay colored one trimmed with dainty white lace.

It may be only natural to keep count of the school days left until vacation, but when someone took time to figure out the remaining class periods, he must be just "itching" to get out. In case you'd like to know too, he decided there were about 252 periods left.

The freshmen are preparing for their class party next Friday. It promises to be lots of fun and the class officers are urging all freshmen to attend.

Agnes Naughton seems to be rather unhappy about Jim's returning to school. The correspondence, however, should keep her going until next vacation.

Perhaps Mary McSweeney's family is making a mistake by moving so close to school next Monday. All of Mac's friends assure her they'll be over for lunch everyday. (It might even be profitable to open a cafeteria and say "Stop for a snack at Mac's shack").

Some of the second year French students will present a play with French dialogue at the Drake Hotel Friday night. The actors and actresses are: Dick Nelson, Tim Starrels, Anne McPherson, Hank Foreman, Alice Dorick, Jack Brachen, John Zeisler, Jean Goldman and Sue Lackner.

With the coming of the warm weather, one bright sophomore thought that to make her closed car a convertible, she could just go to work with a can opener. Not so easy as it sounds, Mary.

Gerry Golden and Barbara Morris had to postpone their week-end trip to Culver until next month because the academy was quarantined for measles last week.

The music department of our school is presenting their second spring concert on Sunday. It promises to be as successful as the last.

Miss Beverly Frisbie of 166 Lakeside Manor Road has been elected secretary of the Y.W.C.A. at Lake Erie College, Painesville, Ohio, where she will be a sophomore next year. She will take office in September.
