

New Traffic Code Gets National Rating

Highland Park was signally honored during the past week, when Mr. Edwin Gilroy, chairman of Traffic Commission, received word from the National Safety Council, that Highland Park's new safety and traffic code had been given one of the highest ratings in judging ordinances for cities participating in the National Traffic Safety contest. The state of Illinois and the state of New York also offered congratulations and requested additional copies.

The National Safety Council said they had reviewed the copy of the ordinance with a great deal of interest and added, "We wish to compliment you and the city of Highland Park for this progressive piece of traffic legislation. You will be interested in knowing that this ordinance covers practically all points checked in grading the ordinance of cities participating in the National Traffic Safety contest and this means you will receive what is practically the maximum number of points for this item."

Mayor Ronan when advised of the recognition accorded Highland Park stated that he was pleased to know of the successful accomplishment of another step in the program being conducted by the city for greater safety and civic betterment. Thanks, he added are due Edwin Gilroy, Edwin Steele and other public spirited citizens who donated their time and for more than a year worked in consultation with Victor Musser, city clerk; commissioner Arthur Swanson, Rex Andrews, chief of Police; Philip McKenna, city attorney; Daniell Davitt, chairman of the General Recodification committee; Harry Pertz of the Citizens Safety committee and others to accomplish a code which has received the complimentary endorsement of leading expert authorities.
