

71 BROWNIES HOLD PARTY FOR MOTHERS

The 71 Brownies of Highland Park joined together in entertaining their mothers at tea at the Braeside school last Thursday.

All the Brownies dressed in uniforms or costumes entered the auditorium singing. Standing in a circle they sang God Bless America followed by a song welcoming the mothers.

Troop 22 of Lincoln school put on a pageant on "International Friendship" that the troop has been studying all year. The girls searched the library for material on each country telling them the native customs in dress, habit, and food. Each girl represented a different country in her costume, and they met on board a ship coming to America and each told spontaneously what they did in their native country. One foreign mother said that she worked all day in the fields for food. The little American girl said: "In our country we get our food out of cans." The children planned the entire play themselves and had help from their parents or leaders only on the costumes. Mrs. Frederick Toof is the leader of this troop and Mrs. Malcolm Sproul is her assistant.

Troop 21 of Ravinia were dressed in Red Cross uniforms in their skit called "Helping Hands." The history of the Red Cross and its functions were described by each girl giving a sentence or two. Mrs. Fred Law and Mrs. Julian Harris are leaders of this group.

Troop 25 of Lincoln school called their play, "Safety and Manners with Apologies to Munro Leaf." Arline Barker gave the script as each member of the troop came across the stage acting out in pantomime good advice on safety or manners. Bandages and other "props" were used to demonstrate what would happen if you were not careful. Mrs. P. M. Randall and Mrs. A. H. Barker are leaders of this group.

Braeside Brownies of troop 23 had the doll house they had made on display and recited a poem about it.

Mrs. Leonard Davidow, Mrs. M. E. Blume, and Mrs. Hamilton Winton are leaders of this troop.

Mrs. A. H. Barker contributed flowers from her own garden for the spring bouquets that she arranged in attractive colors and vases for each tea table. Mrs. C. Eugene Pfister, Highland Park commissioner, and Mrs. Roy O. Nereim, the retired commissioner of Girl Scouts poured at the Braeside table. Mrs. John VanBergen and Mrs. Leo Sheridan poured at the Ravinia table. Mrs. James Watkins and Mrs. Ellsworth Mills poured at the Lincoln table, all being members of the Girl Scout council.

TEEN TALK

By Tommie

Aren't those senior boys who boast of their daring swims in the lake rushing the season a little? Maybe they're just breaking the ice for the rest of us.

Say, that spring dance of the sub-debs is really taking shape. If it's as much fun as planning it has been, it shouldn't be missed, members!

Our fair school is just buzzing with excitement this week. Skits, dances, and all kinds of talent are being rehearsed. Could it be that senior day is drawing near?

Pat Ludwig will be leaving us Monday to take a job with the telephone company. She is excused from exams but will be back to graduate with us.

Another fortunate senior is Agnes Naughton who quit school to accept a position at the Continental bank in Chicago. She also will be back for commencement.

It seems swell to have Luise Haessler back in school again, even with a cast on her nose. She broke it playing baseball last week.

It seems some of our freshmen have gone back to the balloon age. At least Betty Bennett and Pat Roach were trying to master several gay striped ones in Gsell's the other day—the girls insisted they were for a party!

Did you see Jean Moroney on the girls' athletic field Monday looking for lost arrows with a pitch-fork?

The selling of the "I Have Voted" tags on election day last week proved so successful that it has been decided to continue the new idea next year.

Scholarships, scholarships everywhere. They're so popular at this time of year.

Bill Meham was awarded the largest scholarship ever received by a Highland Park boy by Yale university, and Ruth Sloan won the Girls' club scholarship fund this year. Ruth will attend Illinois State Normal college.

Passing observations:

The "steadies" meeting at 8:25 for their morning stroll.

Kaki Watson vigorously studying history in the library . . . Fred Bangs trying to catch Ed Gilroy's attention in the library with disturbing Miss Teare. . . James Segneri watching for a chance to voice his political views. . . Ted Peters advertising the dance at his church Saturday night. The journalism class in an uproar while Mr. Peers talks on the phone. . . More students walking during lunch each day because of the favorable weather lately. . . Groups discussing how the shooting at Fort Sheridan nearly blew them out of their houses Monday night—well, that's one way to get out of a school night.
