George Szell, Noted Conductor-Composer, Wields Festival Symphony Baton Next Week

George Szell, renowned European conductor, begins his week as guest conductor of the Chicago-Symphony orchestra at Ravinia Park Tuesday evening (July 29), after Carlos Chavez concludes his week on the podium this week-end.

During the week Szell, a composer of note, will feature one of his own orchestrations, an arrangement of "From My Life," by Smetana.

Born in Budapest in 1897, and now a Czecho-Slovakian, Szell began the study of piano at the age of three under Professor Eusebius Mandyczewski, the famous Brahms scholar. When Szell was eleven, he made his first public appearance at the Grosse Musikvereins-Saal, as composer-pianist in a special concert with the Vienna Symphony. His debut as a prodigy was most successful, and was followed by other appearances, including a concert in Dresden and four concerts in London at the Albert Hall and Queen's Hall.

At seventeen the young musician gave up the keyboard to take up conducting as his major career. He was introduced in 1914 as conductor at a concert of the Berlin Philharmonic. The program included the Beethoven "Emperor" concerto, with Szell acting both as soloist and conductor.

Then followed two years' work under Richard Strauss as assistant conductor at the Royal Opera House in Berlin. At the age of 20, Szell was recommended by Strauss and engaged as successor to Otto Klemperer as principal conductor of the Strauburg Municipal theatre.

From 1924 to 1929 Szell was chief conductor of the Berlin State Opera and of the Berlin Broadcasting Symphony orchestra. From there he went to Prague as musical director of the opera house and the philharmonic concert. He came to the United States in 1931 for an engagement of three months as guest conductor of the St. Louis Symphony.

Szell succeeded Barbirolli as permanent conductor of the Scottish orchestra in 1937.

He conducted at the Hollywood Bowl during the past summer, and last winter directed the NBC symphony orchestra for an extended engagement. His appearance here for the fifth week of the Ravinia Festival will be his first in Chicago.

Following Szell on the podium at Ravinia will be Pierre Monteux, noted French conductor, who will have as soloist Helen Traubel, well-known Wagnerian soprano. The Budapest String Quartet will conclude Ravinia's season with a week of chamber music.

Ravinia concerts are held each Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday evenings at 8:30 and every Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Program for Chavez' and Szell's weeks at Ravinia follow:

PICNIC JULY 30 CHICAGO COMMONS

The Helen Taylor Carr auxiliary of the Chicago Commons in Highland Park has an enthusiastic working group of women who meet once a month at the homes of one of the members. The officers and chairmen are president, Mrs. John Cherry, 196 Central avenue; vice-president, Mrs. Philip Johnson; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Guy Finlay; chairman hospitality committee, Mrs. Barton Pope; librarian, Mrs. Armand McPhee; co-chairman work committee, Mrs. Dudley Hall and Mrs. A. F. Sturm; and chairman of publicity, Mrs. Arthur Raff.

Preparations are being made now for the most important activity of the year—the "Commons picnic" enjoyed by more than 125 mothers and children from the thickly populated district on West Grand avenue. It will be held, as usual, on the grounds of the Ravinia school, where members of the Helen Taylor Carr auxiliary aided by the philanthropic committee of the Ravinia Woman's club, with Mrs. J. Franklin Bickmore as chairman, will entertain the mothers and children, take them driving about this beautiful suburb, down to the beach, give them a tasty lunch, and send them back to Chicago with a bouquet for every mother and toys for the youngsters. For over twenty years, Mrs. Herman Black, Mrs. Leonard Rieser, Mrs. Frank Wicks, Mrs. Harry Sellery, the late Mrs. George Wallace Carr, Mrs. Harry Canmann, Mrs. Rollery, and many other philanthropically minded members of the community, including a number of local storekeepers, have made donations of flowers, ice cream, candy and toys so that the day might be one long remembered by the enthusiastic guests. This year the picnic will take place on Wednesday, July 30.

FELL'S SPONSOR FASHION SHOW

Fell's store will hold its second annual style show Friday evening, Sept. 5, at the Elm Place school auditorium. This year's show, according to Fella, will contain several new features in style show production. Local entertainers have already volunteered their services and local men and women will model fall fashions for school, play, and business. Door prizes will be presented. No admission will be charged.

WILL HOLD SALE TUESDAY

The Victory Workshop has chosen Tuesday, July 29, from 11 to 5 for its annual summer sale at the home of Mrs. B. E. Benzinger, 1441 Dean avenue, Ravinia. The Victory Workshop is fortunate to have such a beautiful setting in which to display the handicraft made by deaf and hard-of-hearing young people.

The sale of the craftsmanship produced by these handicapped youths enables them to earn money while learning useful trades. Many of the workers have become so skilled that they have been placed in remunerative jobs. Instructors, who are provided by the WPA, face a difficult task, because so many of the pupils are unable to speak as well as unable to hear.

The Board of Education donates workrooms at the Haven school, 1472 S. Wabash avenue, Chicago, and the Victory Workshop supports and maintains the shop through memberships and donations.

Fine workmanship is emphasized in the articles offered for sale, which include bed jackets, bibs, coasters, crumbers, dolly cases, cases, folding card table tops, garden aprons and garden baskets, handkerchiefs, lamps, hand woven knitting bags, toys, trays, travel accessories, and woden and cork novelties.

Miss Gertrude Hagen attended the Niemela-Maki wedding at Waukegan, Saturday.
