

12-MINUTE "COMPANY" MEAT
Broiled Ham Steak Fruit Platter
By George Rector

IF YOU were given short notice that a guest who knew and liked the very best in foods was to sit down with you for dinner, what meat would you serve? You would want a meat which could be quickly prepared, of course, but one that had banquet table elegance, too. Such a combination is rare indeed, but it is waiting for you at your neighborhood meat dealer. It's one of the new, modern, ready-to-serve hams you've been reading about. For in 12 minutes' time this meat dish turns out perfectly, even for an amateur cook; and yet it has impressive quality and "oomph" from the first tender, juicy morsel to the last bite. It is a thrifty buy, too, because you are saved the waste which comes from excessive cooking shrinkage. For you don't need to cook this meat, only heat it.

Recipe Have your dealer cut you a 1 or 1 1/4 inch thick slice of tender made ham. Cut this into pie-shaped wedges, each sufficient for one serving. Arrange these pieces symmetrically on a baking platter. Lay fresh peach halves between the pieces and brush both the ham slices and the peaches with melted butter. Run the platter into a broiling oven which has been preheated to 450° F. Broil for 7 minutes on one side, then turn and broil 5 minutes on the other side. You may find it easier to leave the ham slice whole, broil it on one side, then cut into wedge-shaped pieces, turn the pieces and arrange together with the peaches for 5 minutes more of broiling. Serve on the same platter on which it was broiled. Open this meal with cantaloupe halves and close it with cake or cookies and coffee, and you have a well-balanced meal ready in a short time.

Increased aid to China now will not only prevent Japan from attacking embattled Russia through the back door of Siberia, but will enable us, freed from Japan's menace in the Pacific, to concentrate more of our strength in the battle of the Atlantic.

Public Library Displays National Park Map

On display in the Highland Park Public Library is a large wall map. In gay colors are shown the National Parks, the Indian Reservations, the Game and Bird Reservations, the National Historical sites and monuments, State parks and recreational areas.
A quick glance gives the impression that most of these areas are in the west mountain regions or the southeast, but a more careful study shows that one does not have to travel far from here to enjoy the advantages of the parks in Wisconsin, Minnesota and Michigan.

Ignacio Martinez Jim McMillen Meet

When Ignacio Martinez, the giant Spaniard, climbs through the ropes at Peg's arena, Friday night, Aug. 8, he will be seeking to prolong his winning streak against Jim McMillen of Antioch in a 60 minute wind-up bout that heads the regular all-star weekly card at the Grayslake arena, located at routes 54 and 120. Martinez is the big youngster who raised the fans to a frenzy last Friday when he smashed all the opposition out of tough and rugged Gorrilla Grubmeyer in a record four minutes.

Martinez has made rapid progress since he started around these parts a few weeks ago and McMillen does not look forward to their coming match with any amount of glee. The Antioch farmer tried to give Martinez the go-by but Martinez altered this plan by merely taking the comers and removing them in short order so that the Spaniard's demands could not be overlooked any longer. The amount of strength and variety of holds displayed by Martinez is the most serious factor and there are many who feel that McMillen is in for the biggest surprise of his life.

In the semi-windup position, Michele Leone, Italian grappler of no little fame, will be taxed to the extreme when he faces powerful Seelio Samara in a thirty minute time limit bout. The Ethiopian has been aching for a chance at the speedy Italian.

One of the remaining preliminaries brings Gerard Lath of Naperville who has been bothering the promoters for a chance against Pete Schuh. The intention of bringing Lath against the veteran Schuh is to remove the pestiferous youngster who claims to have a good record around southern Illinois. The remaining bout takes Joe Millich against flashy Jack Claybourn that should be plenty speedy from start to finish.

Mrs. Holmberg Injured In Traffic Accident

Mrs. Florence Holmberg was injured about the arms Sunday afternoon when the car in which she was riding, driven by her husband, Edward Holmberg, 227 North Second street, ran the red stop light at the intersection of Skokie highway and Deerfield road, and collided with a car driven by Peder Kristensen, Chicago, who was also slightly injured. Holmberg was charged with reckless driving.

Birthday "Ham" Replaces Cake

This picture was snapped by a news reporter as George Rector, famous the world over as an authority on good eating, congratulated Mr. Thos. E. Wilson, chairman of the board of Wilson & Co., Chicago meatpackers.

The occasion was one of the many birthday parties being held throughout the country this month to celebrate the 25th anniversary of the founding of Wilson & Co.

What you see in the center of the picture is not a birthday cake. It's something new and really unique—a Birthday Ham, with candles and all, which is being used with great success as the piece de resistance at these silver anniversary celebrations.

No doubt it is one of those exceedingly tender and fine flavored "ready-to-eat" hams which Wilson's laboratory experts discovered and first gave to a ham-hungry world some five years ago.

We do not necessarily recommend that birthday "ham" replace birthday "cake" at all parties. It may not go quite as well as chocolate cake with ice cream. But when the great George Rector recommends food of any kind—you're sure to find it more or less of a glorious symphony of good taste and good eating.

Mrs. Mildred Haessler and daughter Louise, 1737 Rice street, have returned home from Black Oaks, Land O'Lakes, Wis. They were accompanied on the vacation by Betty McClure and Jean Becker.
