Prepare Dogs for Show November 2

Evanston High School Field House has been the scene of exceptional activity the past few Wednesday evenings, as members of the North Shore Dog Training Club have been preparing their dogs for the show at Onwentsia Country, Lake Forest, Sunday, November 2nd. Reason for the increased tempo is that William Schafer, Glenview director of training, and Oscar Franzen, 715 Sheridan Rd., Highland Park, president of the North Shore Club, are judging the obedience test classes of this event. The members are, therefore, more than ordinarily desirous of having their dogs give outstanding performances.

Looking beyond the November 2nd show, this rapidly growing association of amateur dog trainers is making plans for its own obedience show, which will be held in or near Chicago on Sunday, February 1st. Membership in the club is open to owners of purebred dogs who wish to train their own pets. Information may be obtained from Mrs. G. E. Murphy, 801 Harlem Avenue, Glenview, Ill.

Mrs. L. Cabonargi, 1317 Wade, is a member of the club.

Evanston Group To Present Play For Army Personnel

The three act comedy mystery, "Through the Night," will be presented by the Evanston Guild Theater on Wednesday night, October 15, at 7:30 o'clock, in the Highland Park High School Auditorium, exclusively for military personnel of Fort Sheridan.

Officers and their wives and soldiers and their lady friends will be admitted to the play by tickets distributed thru the Post Morale Officer, Major Herman E. Smith, and Nick Young, director of the Highland Park Service Club. Arrangements have been made to accommodate a crowd of 1,500.

Guy Colby To Conduct Barn Dance Oct. 17

The Braeside Parent-Teachers-Civic Association has announced an Old Fashioned Harvest Home Barn Dance for Friday, October 17th, 9:00 p.m. in the Braeside School Auditorium.

Master of Ceremonies for the evening will be Guy Colby, talented radio star of the WLS Barn Dance Program. He will be assisted by a WLS dance band of exceptional ability and additional entertainment.

Guy Colby is widely known on the North Shore for his extra-radio entertainment. An outstanding amusement-world personality, his Square Dance team won first prize at the 1934 World Fair.

The Braeside P. T. Civic Association in completing arrangements for its Barn Dance believes, according to Remy L. Hudson, Chairman of the Program Committee, and George Hadlock, dance chairman, that it has in this event one of the top entertainment features of the year in Highland Park.

Tickets are $1.00 each; $2.00 a couple; with a special half-price ticket for high school couples accompanying their parents. Prizes are announced for the best man's costume and best woman's costume; although all are urged to attend whether in costume or not.

Arthur Mason Elected Commodore

Arthur H. Mason was recently elected commodore of the North Shore Yacht club. He succeeds Edward Weeks.

Others elected were: Robert Carter, vice commodore; Arthur Gourley, Lake Forest, secretary and William Babcock, treasurer.

Plans for the Halloween party, November 1, were made. Prizes for the past racing season will be awarded at the annual dinner and presentation on November 6.

Temple Men's Club Stag At Moraine

The first get-together of the Men's Club of North Shore Congregation will open their 1941-42 season with a stag meeting at the Moraine On-the-Lake, tonight at 8:00 p. m.

Members are requested to bring their friends to the informal meeting which will be featured by a talk by Jimmy Conzelman, one of Chicago's greatest story-tellers and the coach of the Chicago Cardinals, Professional Football Team. Conzelman will bring his fund of sports highlights and parade them before the meeting. He is known as a great wit and humorist.

There are no formal speeches planned, but an address of welcome will be made by the President of the Club, Mr. Robert J. Koretz, and plans for future meetings throughout the year will be discussed. The remainder of the evening will be devoted to other entertainment, cards; and a buffet supper.

Charles Butterworth Opens in Chicago in Comedy at Studebaker

Charles Butterworth, the wistful comedian who has been in pictures for twelve years, returns to the stage at the Studebaker Theatre in Chicago next Saturday night, Oct. 19. The vehicle is called "Father's Day" and concerns a worthless parent who comes home after ten years as a Western Union messenger boy.

This is the comedy that Butterworth has been waiting two years to do. He first played in it last summer in New Jersey at a summer theatre. Early in September he rushed back to make a picture for Paramount, "The Morning After," and now he is free for the stage.

It has been twelve years since he appeared in Chicago. The last show was "Sweet Adeline" and the late Helen Morgan was in the cast. Since then he has been seen in more than forty films, including "Second Chorus," in which he was the outstanding hit despite Artie Shaw's band and the many stars in it.

Aldrich and Myers, who gave Chicago John Barrymore in "My Dear Children," are the producers.

Ruth Weston, Mabel Paige, Philip Faversham, Otto Hulett and Frances Reid are listed among the prominent players. As for Butterworth, he is assigned to a role he has made famous, that of a melancholy soul who stumbles through life.

There will be the usual Wednesday and Saturday matinees at the Studebaker and seats are selling by mail for the first four weeks. New York has yet to see the play, so this brings back the day when Chicago was a producing center, the days of "No, No Nanette" and "Forty-Five Minutes From Broadway." And it relights a famous Michigan avenue theatre.

"CAPTAINS of the Clouds" (Warner Bros.) brought the war right home to Hollywood. More than 100 pilots of the company who worked for a month in Canada are now in service overseas. James Cagney, Alan Hale, George Tobias and Dennis Morgan now would rather talk about the Royal Canadian Air force than about anything else. They have many friends in it!

By the time the picture is released, virtually every one of the Canadian fliers who appear in it will be overseas.

Jean Phillips has finally taken for granted that she'll have to change the color of her hair for each new picture. Naturally blonde.

JEAN PHILLIPS

It's been dyed four times for her last four films. She thought she could just be herself for "Sweater Girl," but June Preisser and Betty Jane Rhodes have the other top roles, and they're both blondes. Back to the hairdresser's for Miss Phillips!

Samuel Goldwyn has acquired rights to the famous "off to work we go" song of the little men in "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs." It will be used as theme music for the seven droll professors in "Ball of Fire," starring Barbara Stanwyck and Gary Cooper.

Twentieth-Century-Fox sort of faced a problem recently; Ginger Rogers was to make one picture for the company, and there just wasn't a good story for her. And Ginger's valuable property nowadays. So she's going to appear in a re-make of "Chicago," which probably will be called "Roxy Hart." She's also slated to start in "Self-Made Cinderella," Lubitsch's first one for Fox.

Too bad the off-stage dialogue of Myrna Loy and William Powell can't be used in "The Shadow of the Thin Man." The other day they made a scene in which Asta, the famous dog, had to sit on Powell's chest. Asta seemed to feel sort of silly. Powell retired to his dressing room for a few minutes, and when he returned they tried it again, and Asta adored sitting on his chest.

"I changed my necktie for a few strips of bacon," Powell explained, exhibiting a neat bow.

"Do you suppose Asta was interested in the bacon," asked Miss Loy, "or in the ham?"

The fourth picture dealing with the Burma road will be Metro's "China Caravan." Columbia plans "Burma Road." Fox plans "Over the Burma Road." Universal has "Burma Convoy" all done. Evidently everybody decided at the same moment that the Burma road was news.

To make factual, uncolored news available to the people of Central and South America, one of the big radio makers is sponsoring a daily program of press association news over local radio stations throughout Latin America; it's the first special news program for general distribution there to be sponsored by a United States company.

There are more ways than one to make an excellent living and a solid reputation in radio. Alice Youngman is doing it via the dramatized commercial route; she has assignments on "Are You a Missing Heir?", "Helen's Home" and the Lanny Ross programs.

ODDS AND ENDS—Radio's Dinah Shore, singing star of the Eddie Cantor show, has a new college degree—Doctor of Blues, presented to her by Harvard freshmen. . . Monogram's going to bring "Black Beauty" back to the screen. . . And Metro will do the same for the play, "Her Cardboard Lover," which was made way back in 1932 under the title of "The Passionate Plumber."

WILSON'S Weekly RECIPES

Uncle Sam asks you not to forget the importance of meat to repair body tissues, to provide iron for good red blood, to insure a daily supply of the B vitamins. But you in your woman's wisdom know that you must buy meat with an eye to flavor and thrift. And so I commend to you two meats with both these advantages: shank of Wilson's Certified Tender Made Ham and Certified Bacon, Family Style.

George Rector
Food Consultant
Wilson & Co.

Tender Made Ham gives richer flavor, greater tenderness. Ask for it by name.

THRIFT TIP FOR HAM

Do you know that the meat on the shank end of Wilson's Certified Tender Made Ham is as richly flavored, as tender as the choice center slices?

Tender Made Ham needs no cooking. In using the shank, slice enough delicious meat for a cold platter or (if you wish it hot) broil the slices together with slices of tomatoes and mounds of canned corn.

Rector Recommends for an economy dinner:—Shoulder Lamb Chops, broiled with Wilson's Certified Bacon.

See you next week. G. R.
