

WHAT'S ON YOUR MIND?

by Savant

This is going to shock some people but it has to be said because it is true. If you would like to be able to pick out an inept thinking person, here is the sign and symbol of that being: She or he, usually a she, will be detected using the words "it ought" or "ought not."

Much of the common and the unusual trouble of the world can be traced to the incompetence of people who cannot think in any other way but what "ought" or "ought not" to be.

Lady Astor, the American woman who has been a member of the British House of Commons, is one of these inept thinkers who has a very sharp tongue because she can think only in terms of "what ought to be."

Tuberculosis Christmas Seals Are Now On Sale

Mrs. Austin H. Niblack of Lake Forest, Seal Sale Chairman, reports that contributions to the annual Christmas Seal Sale of the Lake County Tuberculosis Association are coming in good so far.

Eighty-one per cent of the money invested in seal progress last year stayed right here in our own county; the other 19% went to our State and National Tuberculosis Association, but much of this comes back to us through research work, educational matter, etc.

Postmen have delivered seals to homes in Lake County. The money from them supports the Lake County Tuberculosis Association and its year-round campaign against Tuberculosis.

4,000,000 Men & Women Needed For Work

In the next eighteen months the United States will require an additional 4,000,000 men and women workers in defense industries, Aubrey Williams, national administrator of the National Youth Administration, told a conference here today of state NYA heads from the middle western states.

Illinois, he indicated, needs to consider immediately where it is going to get its share of these trained workers.

"A million and a half workers in defense industries will be required within six months," said Mr. Williams. "And 80 per cent of these will have to be semi-skilled or skilled workers."

"My purpose in making this trip through the middle west to the Pacific coast and northwest is to learn at first hand what the training facilities are at present to take care of this huge labor demand. The National Youth Administration is doing its share in meeting the situation. Right this moment a full half of the young people getting employment in defense work have gained basic skills and experience on NYA shop projects."

Most of the new workers required to keep the nation's assembly lines rolling next year will have to come out of the age group from 17 to 21, Mr. Williams declared. To give these youth experience in defense jobs is the immediate objective of NYA, he said.

12 Enlist In U. S. Army At Waukegan

The U. S. Army Recruiting Office located in the Post Office Building at Waukegan, Illinois, reports that 12 young men have enlisted in the United States Army at the Waukegan office during the month of November.

Joseph Gauranski, Raymond Griguts, Louis B. Vickery and Eddie B. Piktel all from North Chicago, Illinois have applied for the U. S. Army Air Corps and are at present stationed at Biloxi, Mississippi.

Wiley L. Cartwright of Minong, Wisconsin; Norman Lighthall, Robert J. Rowe and Edward M. Schierers of Waukegan, Illinois, and Albert L. Larsen Jr. of Zion, Illinois, have also applied for the Air Corps to be stationed at Randolph Field, Texas.

Howard B. Lund of Black River Falls, Wisconsin and Carl R. Bunde of Fox Lake, Illinois, have selected the Ordnance Corps and will be stationed in Puerto Rico.

Joseph Janowitz of North Chicago, Illinois has applied for the Infantry Army Recruiting Station, states that the U. S. Army Air Corps is being greatly expanded and young men who are ambitious and are high school graduates may now apply for the Flying Sergeants training course. This training course is the same that Flying Cadets receive. Young men with a lesser education may also apply for the mechanical training which the U. S. Army Air Corps offers to its enlisted members.

Checks Issued To Jobless Workers Good, Says Murphy

Benefit checks issued to unemployed workers under the Illinois Unemployment Compensation Act are not involved in the tie-up of State pay checks and so banks have no reason to refuse to cash them, State Director of Labor Francis B. Murphy said today.

"We have received hundreds of complaints in the past few days that banks and merchants are turning down the benefit checks issued to jobless workers," Director Murphy said. "This is due entirely to a misunderstanding."

Job insurance benefit checks, the Director explained, are drawn on a special Illinois Unemployment Compensation Trust Fund. They are in no way involved in the present court fight which affects only the pay of State employees who may be subject to civil service.

"Workers who are unemployed through no fault of their own count heavily upon their Unemployment Compensation checks," said Governor Green when advised of the situation. "Any delay in getting these checks cashed often may mean actual hardship to Illinois families in which the breadwinner is temporarily out of a job."

The benefit checks can be distinguished by the fact that they are printed on cards which have the upper left-and corner clipped. Across the checks are printed instructions "Do Not Fold." Below the State seal is printed "Not good after 30 days." The checks are perforated on the right-hand side. They are made out for even dollars and no one check is for more than $16.

A Lecture on CHRISTIAN SCIENCE Entitled "The Operation of Divine Power in Human Affairs" by Lucie C. Coulson, C. S. of London, England, Member of the Board of Lectureship of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

Christian Science, as its name implies, is not only scientific, but it is also Christian, and adheres strictly to the teaching and example of Jesus the Christ, the master Meta-physician, as Mrs. Eddy has called him. It is there, then, any justification in his life for the sense-testimony which Christian Science teaches? It is to be found all through his ministry. It started with his first demonstration of divine power at the wedding in Cana where, on hearing that they needed more wine, he told the servants to fill six water-pots with water. When they had done so, he ordered them to draw out the water and bear it to the governor of the feast. How absurd that must have seemed! Had the servants regarded the sense-testimony they would have disregarded his command, but they obeyed, and the water became wine. Then came the feeding of the five thousand. They were in the wilderness with the hungry multitude before them and no way of obtaining food, yet Jesus said to the disciples, "Give ye them to eat." They began to reason with him, saying they had only five loaves and two small fishes, and what good was that? But he replied, "Bring them hither to me," and when he looked away from the sense-testimony up to heaven, the loaves and fishes were multiplied. Again, at the bedside of Jairus' daughter, faced with the evidence of death, he denied the sense-testimony and changed it. "The maid is not dead, but asleep," he declared; and all their scornful laughter could not move him. Gazing steadfastly into the reality of Life, he told the child to arise, and she obeyed. Finally, when one day the Pharisees questioned his mission and referred to his youth, he made that tremendous statement, "Before Abraham was, I am," thereby proclaiming the infinity of his being.

Now in all these instances the interesting point is that the denial of the sense-testimony was followed by a change of evidence. The water was changed into wine; there was an abundant supply of food; the maid was restored to life and health, proving the Christ to be what Mrs. Eddy in her great book, "Science and Health with the divine truth," has defined as "the divine manifestation of God, which comes to the flesh to destroy incarnate error" (p. 881). For the wonder and beauty of spiritual truth is that, as we perceive it even faintly, as we correct our finite concept of man and the universe with the divine truth of their infinite nature, as we think and speak from the standpoint of absolute truth, something happens—our human conditions, our physical and mental problems, begin to change and to approximate in some measure the spiritual facts of harmony and dominion we are affirming.

WILSON'S Weekly RECIPES

At what even temperature do you bake meats? Ever try the new low temperatures (300° F. to 350° F.)? These temperatures prevent wasteful evaporation of meat juices. For the holidays, try a Wilson's Certified Smoked Ham, baked at 325° F. I believe you will say it is most delicious. It comes in a bright orange wrapper.

George Rector Food Consultant to Wilson & Co.

DO'S AND DON'TS FOR BAKING HAM

DO follow my special recipe enclosed with every Wilson Certified Smoked Ham. DO have ham at room temperature before baking it. DON'T forget that a cold ham requires about 5 minutes more per pound to bake. DON'T cover the pan, nor add water when baking.

Easy Ham Glaze Roast an average size Wilson's Certified Smoked Ham (12 to 14 pounds) 18 minutes per pound, or until meat thermometer registers 155° F. Remove skin. Spread ham with syrup, sift brown sugar over it, and brown.

Now! STAY-FRESH, STAY-CLEAN MEATS Just suppose that someone told you that you could now buy fresh beef, lamb and veal, any cut, large or small, immaculately protected against dust, handling, and evaporation of the juices—actually "Cooler-Fresh."

GELA SEALD LAMB You can tell Wilson's Gela Seald meats by the sparkling, transparent coating of gelatine that seals out dust and dirt and seals in freshness.

But why suppose? You can! For Wilson & Co. has perfected a way to take fine meats at the peak of their freshness, and seal them completely with a thin coating of crystal-clear, edible gelatine.

Ask your dealer for Wilson's Gela Seald fresh beef, lamb or veal. Remember, this process does not add to the cost of the meat.

BIG HEADACHE for Christmas shoppers this year is "the little gift that isn't there." Reason—defense needs. What to do? Well, thousands are giving this year "the gift that is there"—Wilson's Certified Meats. Practical to give or receive are tons of Tender Made Ham, Boned Chicken, Cocktail Sausages—and many other delectable Wilson Certified specialties. Back next week with Yale suggestions. G. R.

Lip Reading Class At Central YMCA

A 12-week course in lip reading instruction for the deaf will be offered by Central YMCA College beginning December 8, Dr. Edward J. Sparling, president, announced this week. Classes will be held on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 4:30 to 6:00 p.m. in the College building at 19 south LaSalle street.

Two instructors in Lip Reading of wide experience will be in charge. They are Miss Cora Elsie Kinzie, author of the Kinzie Method of Graded Instruction in Lip Reading, and Mrs. Medary S. Copeland, Principal of the Kinzie Institute of Lip Reading, Chicago.

The course will be open to adults with any degree of deafness having command of language, and is designed to give the student a working foundation in lip reading on which he may build indefinitely.
