Washington, D. C. NEW SELECTEES

It needed no mind reading to fathom what was behind that war department announcement of the purchase of 700,000,000 feet of lumber and 240,000 kegs of nails-the biggest order of its kind in U. S. history.

The materials are for the construction of numerous new army cantonments and the enlargement of existing ones. Army strength, down to 1,600,000 after the demobilization of 28 to 35 year olds last fall, is due for a big increase-at least another 1,000,000 after the next draft lottery following the February 16 registration of men between 21 and 44.

An estimated 24,000,000 will register next month, and on the basis of past experience only about 5 per cent will be rated 1-A; that is, subject to immediate call. Heretofore the army has inducted only men in good physical condition, with no dependents and not engaged in "essential" production.

However, as the need for military manpower develops, 1-A standards will be broadened and many thousands of 1-B, 2-A, and 2-B deferees by pre-war standards will be called

For the present, the army still is placing primary emphasis on youth. The February 16 registration is expected to list around 2,000,000 20-21 youngsters and the largest proportion of new inductees will come from this group. Registrants in the 36 to 44 group will have to be in top condition to get in the army at this time.

However, big scale inductions from this age group can be expected by fall, particularly those with no dependents and with previous military service.

For the present the army will take its older-age recruits from the 28 to 35 year olds who were exempted because of dependency or defense work.

REDTAPE BUSTER Ordnance is the haughtiest and most hide-bound branch of the army. So much so that it has been the object of much bitter private criticism by civilian defense chiefs.

But there is one notable exception to this Ordnance rule. He is William Van Antwerp Kemp, a tall, husky, dynamic engineer, who made a big success in private business and volunteered his services when the national emergency arose. Since then, as an Ammunition division executive, he has been making history, busting redtape in traditionbound Ordnance.

There are many tales of Kemp's unconventional exploits. The latest is one of the best.

Asked by a general to suggest a manager for a new government munition plant about to begin production, Kemp recommended a crack expert who had been loaned to the British to build a plant in England. "He ought to be finished with his

"If he is, get him," was the order. From the British, Kemp learned the expert had completed his work and was available. So Kemp picked up a phone and called the state department.

job over there by now," said Kemp.

"I want to talk to the guy," he said, "who gets guys back from Eng-

There was a gasp, but the operator switched Kemp to someone who asked him who he was and what he wanted.

"I'm Kemp of Army Ordnance," he said. "There's a guy in England we want to run an ammunition plant for us. Get him back here right away, will you?"

Six days later the expert reported to Kemp and left for his new job. A few days later the general again summoned Kemp, asked what had been done about the expert.

"It's all taken care of, general," said Kemp. "He's been on the job at the plant two days." "How did you get him back here so fast?" "No trouble. I just called up the state department, asked for the guy who gets guys back here and he arranged it."

"Kemp," said the general severe-"do you know who that guy in the state department was?" "No. sir."

"He was the undersecretary of Note: Kemp has persistently refused to accept an army commission. Finally, pressed by the general for the reason, he retorted: "Some day I may want to come in here and blow up. If I do, as an officer you could court-martial me. But as a civilian, all you can do is fire me. I'm remaining a civilian."

JAP SCHOOL LESSONS After three years' probing of subversive activities, it takes a lot to excite Rep. Martin Dies, but the other day the rangy Texan hit on a discovery that took his breath away.

His committee has been making a sweeping inquiry of Jap fifthcolumning on the West coast, including subversive teaching in Japanese language schools located all over southern California. Investigators found that from the primary grades up students in these schools are inetrinated with militarism and the logy of their Jap ancestors.

FOOD CONSERVATION

We hear lots these days about "food conservation" which means in plain every-day English that we should make every bit of food go as far as we possibly can. That we should save and use the little dabs of this and that which sometimes go into the garbage can. Notice that I said save and use because I think we've all seen women put away in the refrigerator various odds and ends from the table only to have them spoil before she got around to using them. Here are a few suggestions for keeping various foods in good condition until we can use them-and also suggestions for using the various bits of leftovers:-

To Keep Cut Citrus Fruit (Lemon, Orange, Grapefruit)-Place fruit cut side down on a saucer or plate. If you have several slices of lemon or orange left over, pack them together neatly and place the pile cutsurface-down in the same way.

To Keep Cheese Moist-Spread cut surface thinly with softened

To Keep One or Two Egg Yolks in Good Condition for a Couple of Days-Leave them in the half shell when you break it, and slip the other half of the egg shell over the top closely—placing it in a little glass or cup. To keep several egg yolks or egg whites in good condition several days, place in a tightly covered glass jar.

To Keep Green Vegetables Fresh-Wash them thoroughly when they come from the store—then place them in covered vegetable container in an automatic refrigerator or in a cloth bag (keep wet). Parsley and watercress may be kept in a glass of water in the refrigerator. To Keep Cookies Soft-Place them, when cooled, in a jar with a tight cover. A slice or two of orange, lemon or apple in the jar helps ness. To keep cookies crisp, place them in a can with a loose cover. Left-over Canned Fruits or Vegetables may be kept in the original tin cans with safety. A thin film of oil over pimiento pods left in the can will keep them from molding. Olives should be kept in their liquor. Save Butter Left on Butter Plates for cooking purposes-in white to keep the cookies moist. Change the fruit frequently to insure fresh-sauce, for butter on vegetables, etc. Use Left-over Meat or Meat Juices or Gravy and Vegetable Juice from cooked vegetables in stew, meat pie, hash, soups, gravies; etc. Use Left-over Garnishes of Parsley, Celery Tops or Watercress for garnishing a second time (they may be revived by washing under the cold water faucet). To Use Left-over Cooked Vegetables-Wash off butter-then use the vegetables in a salad-or leave butter on and use in combination casserole dishes.

Use Cut-up Celery Tops to flavor meats, roasts or stews, or to put in bread stuffings. Or combine with coarse ends of celery, cover with water, cook until celery is soft, push through a strainer, then use this celery juice and puree as a basis for cream of celery soup.

Use the Juice from Canned Fruit to drink, in gelatin puddings and fruit cobblers, as a sauce over cornstarch pudding, for basting meats, for sherbets and fruit tapioca puddings. Use Left-over Pieces of Canned Fruit as garnishes around meat and in puddings or salads Use Bacon Fat for frying potatoes and fish—for searing meats. Or clarify it for use in other cooking (such as spice cakes and cookies, gingerbread and other foods having a pronounced flavor). Use 4/5 cup clarified bacon fat in place of 1 cup butter or substitute shortening.

To Clarify Fat—melt fat, add raw potato cut in ¼ inch slices, and allow fat to heat gradually. When fat ceases to bubble and potatoes are well browned strain into pan through double cheesecloth, placed over wire strainer. The potato absorbs any flavors and collects to itself some of the sediment, the remainder settling in the bottom of the kettle.
