INSTRUCTORS IN MOTOR TRANSPORT SOUGHT THROUGH CIVIL SERVICE

Motor transport has assumed such a vital role in defense activity that the United States Civil Service Commission has announced an examination for instructors in over ten branches of the automotive industry. The instructors are needed by the Quartermaster Corps of the War Department. Salaries range from $2,600 to $4,600 a year. There is excellent opportunity for advancement, since the policy of the Quartermaster Corps will be to fill higher positions by promotion from lower grades whenever possible.

Instructors will conduct classes in the following branches: automotive parts; automotive electrical and carburetion; body finishing and upholstery; automotive machinist; tire recapping and sectional repair; fender, body, and radiator; Diesel engines; internal-combustion engines; motorcycles; blacksmith and welding; and general. They will plan the courses in these subjects, and prepare and revise text and related instructional material.

Certain background education or experience is required such as study in a college or Diesel engine school or experience as a journeyman mechanic. Experience as instructor of organized classes in one of the optional branches is also prescribed. Certain experience of a supervisory nature acquired in the automotive industry may be substituted for part, and in some cases all, of the instructional experience. For the higher positions ($3,800 and $4,600) the supervisory experience need not have been directly connected with the automotive industry. No written test will be given. The age limit is 60 years. Applications will be accepted until further notice and must be filed at the Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C.

REPORT OF CHRISTIAN SCIENCE LESSON-SERMON

"Mind" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, February 22nd.

The Golden Text was, "The Lord is a God of knowledge, and by his actions are weighed" (1 Samuel 2: 3).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Ye shall not therefore oppress one another; but thou shalt fear thy God: for I am the Lord your God. Wherefore ye shall do my statutes, and keep my judgments, and do them; and ye shall dwell in the land in safety" (Lev. 25: 17, 18).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "The history of our country, like all history, illustrates the might of Mind, and shows human power to be proportionate to its embodiment of right thinking. The despotic tendencies, inherent in mortal mind and always germinating in new forms of tyranny, must be rooted out through the action of the divine Mind. God has built a higher platform of human rights, and He has built it on diviner claims" (pp. 228, 229).

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON (Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

NEW YORK.—When we got into the First World war, Bush Gowdy, the ball player, walked into a recruiting station and asked "How No Big Name War, a man get Celebrity Insists, into this base Upon Joining Up" let him in, right on the ground floor, as a private, and that was all there was to it. Eddie Grant of the Glens also walked in, just like that—and got killed at the Argonne. There's a plaque in his honor on the center field fence at the Polo Grounds.

This is beginning to look like a name war, as they might say on Broadway. Without disparagement to the calling celebrities of the theater, sports, and politics, one may note that many of them, innocently, no doubt, march to a fanfare of headlines and outbreaks of chevrons in retrospective pictures. Conspicuous in contrast is Hugh Mulcahy, former Philadelphia pitcher, moving in with no chevrons and no bands.

This started out to be a piece about an actor of such eminence that we thought word of his enlistment as a private would make a story. When we telephoned him the other morning, he said: "I won't talk and I don't want you to use my name."

That sounded like big news, the same being "anything new, strange or unexpected." We can't use his name, but he was persuaded to talk and here's his story:

"The minute I made a move to enlist, my press agent was on hand to shape up a story. I couldn't get it through his head that that wasn't the big idea. This war is grim, desperate, dirty business and it isn't going to be won by hoodlums, bun fighters, actors, swing-band leaders, ball players or tennis players who happen to have top-billing in their particular lines.

"They'll help win it, and more power to them, but when they get their usual professional build up, everything gets out of plumb. The big mob is going to get the idea that their favorite supermen will fix everything nicely at the end. That's one trouble with this country. We pay the price of admission and let the main cast of characters work out the plot.

"Showmanship is all right in its place, but in this case it distorts the picture, dangerously, I think. Just take a turn around the New York night spots if you want to get what I mean. The way they rate the boys by their rank, and the way the gossip columnists work, you'd think this war was being readied by Flo Ziegfeld.

"I am enlisting as a private and I expect to be overseas in a combat unit. I am dropping my stage name and using my own, so I expect to be something less than anonymous for a long time to come. If anybody fans up a story about me, it will be over my dead body. I'm no hero. I just want to help win this war."

A DISTINGUISHED landscape architect visions the post-war landscape and sees a jungle that will take a lot of landscaping if we hope to live in it. He We'll Go Forward, is Charles W. Though Not Back Eliot, grand- To Normalcy—Eliot son of the famous president of Harvard, director of the National Resources Planning board at Washington.

Mr. Eliot says we are not "going back to normalcy" and that the chaos following the Axis downfall may be "almost indistinguishable from war." He insists, however, that we will keep on "going forward," and that we "propose to plan ahead."

He began the practice of his profession at Boston, after his graduation from Harvard in 1926. From 1924 through 1926, he was city planner for Arlington, Mass. From 1926 to 1930, he was director of planning for Washington, D. C., and its environs, as a member of the National Park and Planning commission. He has been a member of the National Resources board since 1935.

Mr. Eliot has extended his planning to the wider outreach of social and economic design. As an observer at the League of Nations crisis in 1928, he would perhaps now admit he was standing at a false dawn when he insisted the league was putting recalcitrants in place.

The British Tommy in Kipling's poem did a lot of grousing about "triumph" the colonel's badge" after a war. We're in for a much tougher job of drumming, thinks Mr. Eliot—there is to be any city and steady spaced world after this war.

About the appliances we advertise nowadays

The appliances we are now advertising are limited to those we have on hand, or those that are made available without interference with war production.

They have all been selected because their normal operation in the home comes at a time of day when our electrical facilities are more than adequate to meet present power requirements for both war production and civilian use.

Furthermore, we believe that their use in most cases will conserve energy and tend to release home labor for helpful wartime activities.
