Washington, D. C.

HOODOOD NORMANDIE

There is not much consolation to be had in connection with the virtual sinking of the S. S. Normandie—except for one thing.

The French had gone to a lot of expense to build the giant vessel so that she could be converted to an airplane carrier in wartime. To this end, special funnels were arranged on the side of the deck, to give space for runways; especially large elevators were installed at each end of the ship; and the top deck consisted of the biggest "sports" deck in the world.

However, U. S. naval engineers decided that despite all the French preparations, the Normandie's upper decks were not strong enough to hold a flock of planes. The French had sacrificed reinforcements below, for the purpose of beauty in the passenger salons.

As a troop ship the Normandie was considered useful, but not nearly so useful proportionately as a medium-sized vessel, such as the Manhattan. Reason: big ships draw so much water that they could not efficiently carry troops to Dakar or West African ports. Small boats would be necessary to take soldiers and cargo ashore.

Also the Normandie was too big to get through the Suez canal.

SINKING U. S. TANKERS

The navy is being more hush-hush than usual regarding the sinkings of oil tankers off the Atlantic coast. However, here are a few important facts about the situation which are not military secrets.

First fact is encouraging. The tankers sunk were old, small and slow. All of them were 20 years old or over, and the largest, Standard Oil's India Arrow, was 8,327 tons.

On the surface, this would indicate that oil and gasoline losses on the East coast would not be heavy. However, this is not the case. For all of the big, new American tankers have been taken over by the navy. This was under an arrangement whereby the maritime commission had lent the oil companies around $300,000 per vessel to build fast modern tankers making 19 knots. This is so fast that they can avoid submarines and also keep up with the fleet.

However, these new tankers, built in co-operation with the navy, are new with the fleet.

HEAVY LOSSES

Two other factors indicate the importance of the sinkings on the Atlantic coast. One is an announcement made by the British last week that sinkings for the entire Atlantic, including the East Coast of the United States, had been heavier in January than ever before. The other is the fact that comprehensive rationing of oil and gasoline for the East coast is now a certainty. In other words, oil and tanker losses have been very heavy.

Reason for these losses is easy to understand. It requires no official explanation. As everyone knows, especially the enemy, we had to rush various kinds of shipping to the Pacific to replace the damage done at Pearl Harbor. Also we had a large number of warships busy conveying vessels across the North Atlantic.

Hence we have been caught short-handed on the East coast.

Note: Most people don't realize it, but the oil shortage along the Atlantic could be relieved considerably by a curtailment of tank car rates on gasoline and fuel oil. Last fall the rail rates were reduced on crude oil but not on gasoline or fuel oil.

POLITICAL-GO-ROUND

Democratic insiders are predicting that Gov. Herbert Lehman of New York will be persuaded to run for a fourth term this year. Lehman has told party chiefs he doesn't want another term, but they urge him to be a candidate again on the ground of wartime duty. . . . Meanwhile, former District Attorney Tom Dewey is busy behind-the-scenes organizing his political fences for another try at the governorship. This will be the springboard for a second shot at the G.O.P. presidential nomination in 1944.

Wisconsin's Gov. Julius Hall will run for a third term this year to get himself in position to take on isolationist Sen. Alex Wiley when he comes up for re-election in 1944. Both are Republicans, but privately no love is lost between them.

Fiorello LaGuardia's ambition always has been to become a U. S. senator after he steps out as mayor of New York city.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

In Trenton, N. J., the giant General Electric company will be tried on charges of monopolistic control of electric light globe patents. It will be one of the most important anti-trust trials in history. If the government wins the case, the effect will have far-reaching consequences on all patent controls.

The treasury department has ordered customs officials to wear black silk neckties with their new uniforms.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

NEW VIEWPOINTS

A rather unusual viewpoint makes this a very successful picture. For more interesting snapshots try some new viewpoints in your own picture-making.

JUST as there are only a few major points to the compass, so there are just a few principal angles from which we photographers can picture a subject.

We can point the camera up, down, or straight ahead. We can take the picture from the front, from the side, or from the rear.

In one sense we may seem restricted, but in a greater sense the number of possible variations is infinite—and the skill with which we make the most of what we have to work with, is directly reflected in the quality and the interest of our pictures.

For instance, the picture which illustrates this column might have been taken in a number of different ways. The photographer could have looked down upon his subject—and probably would have secured a fairly pleasant effect. Or he could have made a very ordinary snapshot by approaching his subject from the conventional, all-too-common, straight-on viewpoint. If he had, flyer is a very pleasant appearing fellow, the chances are that the picture would have been of interest only to the aviator's friends or family.

But by making the picture this way—by pointing the camera up at the aviator and using the tail of a giant plane as background—the photographer seems to catch the spirit of all American youth. He has created a photograph which is more than just a mere picture—it is a symbol. And it is, in my opinion, a great photograph.

We can't all make pictures like this. Most of us may never have the opportunity. But that's no reason why we should stop trying to make all our pictures as fine as possible—and one way to do that, as this week's picture illustrates perfectly, is to keep our eyes open for new angles of view.

Don't be afraid to experiment with new viewpoints for your snapshots. At first you may have a few failures, but just as certainly you'll create many an outstanding success.
