Ethel Barrymore Extends Engagement To March 14

Because of the enthusiastic reception playgoers in Chicago and surrounding communities have given Ethel Barrymore in "The Corn Is Green," Herman Shumlin, producer of the prize-winning Emlyn Williams play now at the Harris Theatre, Chicago, has extended the Chicago engagement through Sat urday, March 14.

Few productions in recent seasons have elicited such unanimous praise from Chicago's dramatic critics as has "The Corn Is Green." Cecil Smith of the Chicago Tribune rated it "the best play of the season" and said that Miss Barrymore is "the queen of the American stage." Lloyd Lewis of the Daily News said that "it becomes a great pleasure to sit at her feet for three hours and watch her fill a packed house with enjoyment." Claudia Cassidy of the Sun declared that "there are times when the theatre is a wonderful place and last night at the Harris was one of them, Robert Pollak of the Times said that "with the coming of 'The Corn Is Green' to the Harris the theater again proclaims the reason for its being with trumpets and banners. It will compel the most skeptical of us to yield to the magic of the stage." And Ashton Stevens of the Herald-American, said that "never have I seen her act truer or straighter. She has lighted a lamp that will out burn my memory."

"The Corn Is Green" was first presented in London where it ran for more than a year until the bombins of the city closed the theatres. The American production was an immediate hit. The play closed recently on Broadway after winning the Drama Critics Circle Prize for the best play of the year and establishing a new record for a Broadway engagement for Miss Barrymore by virtue of its lengthy engagement (475 performances were marked up before the final curtain rang down on the New York run of some sixty weeks).
