TO KEEP GUNS, PLANES, TANKS IN ACTION

DETROIT.—To help keep the guns, planes and tanks of the United Nations at the highest possible fighting efficiency, General Motors has launched a new and vital war training and field program beyond the scope of its huge production effort.

1. Help train the enormous number of mechanics required to keep a modern armed force in motion by maintaining schools for Army and Navy instructors.
2. Place its own engineers in the field to expedite reports on operating experience, so that its war products can be improved constantly.
3. Assist the Army and Navy in having replacement parts on the spot when needed.

The training job alone calls for expenditures totaling not less than $5,000,000 for the current year. It will involve training thousands of instructors in scores of centers throughout the country.

According to John E. Johnson, director of the training program, the activity opens a new chapter in the relationship of war contractors to their government.

Some GM divisions, such as Allison and Chevrolet, have had schools for Army instructors in operation for some time. These will be expanded. Other divisions will launch schools of their own

Mrs. Silverman Will Address Jewish Congress

"South America—Nazi Playground" will be Mrs. Archibald Silverman's topic when she addresses the Chicago Women's Division of the American Jewish Congress at a meeting to be held in her honor on Wednesday, April 22nd, at 2 P. M., in the Sherman Hotel. Mrs. Silverman, a representative of the World Jewish Congress and a world traveler on behalf of Jewish causes, will repeat her address on Thursday evening, April 23rd, at 8 P. M., again at the Sherman Hotel, before an open meeting of the Congress to which the public is invited without admission charge. Mrs. Silverman has, within the past several months, returned from an extended visit with our Latin-American neighbors.

These talks will be in the nature of an opening volley in the rapid-fire "Unity Campaign" now being undertaken by the American Jewish Congress, during the course of which, an attempt will be made to align as many members of the Jewish community as possible with the newly re-iterated goals that the Congress has set for American Jewry. Among these goals or aims are all-out war effort and the building of a free, just and peaceful world.

This Unity Drive will be pursued with vigor for the period between now and the War Emergency National Convention which the American Jewish Congress will hold on May 16, 17 and 18, at the Sherman Hotel. On Sunday evening, May 17th, the $25.00 earning fund plate dinner will take place in the Grand Ballroom of the Hotel. At this convention, the Chicago Division of the Congress will be host to hundreds of delegates from every section of the United States, including many figures of national and international prominence.

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Moran returned home Thursday from Florida, where they spent the past four weeks.
