Forecast for 1942: From Jay Franklin's colyum in Richmond, Va.: "Walter Winchell will cease to write about Cafe Society because it won't exist. Walter Lippmann will write the best columns of his life and nobody will read them. Mark Sullivan will be drafted into Government service to help administer the nationwide food-stamp plan. Dorothy Thompson will fight it out with Clare Boothe Luce for the role of Julia Ward Howe or Florence Nightingale. David Lawrence will continue to do his stuff so long as he can find papers to print it, after which he will join the USO and work

Morning Mail: "Dear Walter: So chorus girls never become famousjust notorious, eh? The Winchell you say! Howz about Ruby Keeler, Barbara Stanwyck, Virginia Bruce, Gladys Glad, Ina Claire and Joan Crawford? Go stand in a corner, but don't get me wrong. I'm a former Hellzapoppin' chorine, and I have good reason to be nuts about W.W.-Margie Young, Banjo Eyes."

THERE ARE MANY examples of clever headline-writing. We think this is one of the best: When John Masefield arrived here from England where he was poet laureate, he refused to grant newspaper men an interview . . . So one evening paper ran this streamer: "King's Canary Refuses to Chirp"— which made a better story than the in-
