Although plans for the festival have been in the making all year by Ravinia chairman Percy B. Eckhart and his co-workers, the task of filling the Ravinia Park pavilion's reserved seats for the seven-week orchestra and chamber music season will be begun at the luncheon.

The beautiful wooded park on the North Shore, once a Mecca for lovers of outdoor opera, now the summer home of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, will offer a six-week season of symphonic concerts conducted by the world's most celebrated conductors, and a post-season week of chamber music by the renowned Budapest String Quartet.

The Festival will open on June 30 with Dimitri Mitropolous, conductor of the Minneapolis Symphony, making his Ravinia debut with the Chicago Symphony. Following last year's pattern, Ravinia concerts will be on Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday evenings, and on Sunday afternoons.

The second and third weeks will bring back the noted Hungarian Geo. Szell, whose appearance last year was one of the Festival's highlights.

Artur Schnabel, the great German pianist, who has not been heard in Chicago in several seasons, will be soloist four times during Szell's engagement. He will play on Saturday, July 11, Tuesday, July 14, Thursday, July 16, and again on Saturday, July 18.

CHILDREN'S DEPARTMENT

Spring has arrived and so quickly that we are still wondering about it. But the gardens, the fields and the woods are humming with activity. Keep your eyes and your ears open for all the amazing and interesting things which now are taking place.

Do you know that the bombardier beetle lays down a smoke screen and fights his enemies with poison gas?

Or do you realize that the caddis worm swims through the water in a submarine, and what about the lowly little earthworm who plows and drains and fertilizes your garden? Did you ever hear about a "doodlebug"? Or did you know that our birds are some of Mother Nature's best housekeepers?

There are still beautiful and thrilling things left in this world in spite of wars and sorrows, and we are better for discovering that.

May we tell you about some of our children's books which will help you to listen and see:

About Spiders—Emans.
