Headliners of '42 To Give Three Matinees a Week

After a week of experimenting with daily matinees, "Headliners of '42" at the Grand Opera House decided to eliminate all afternoon performances excepting those on Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday. The Saturday midnight show is also to be erased from the calendar.

Frances Faye has retired from the cast due to a throat ailment. She left for New York yesterday. The show was 15 minutes too long, and she was released by mutual consent.

It is likely that new acts will augment the program from time to time. Several topnotch circus acts are eager to join the bill. This may be arranged because of a short circus season resulting from transportation difficulties. Bert Lahr intends to add several new sketches within the coming week.

Chicago has welcomed "Headliners" and indications point to a summer run. The finest actors in the dramatic field may be seen in later programs, doing short sketches. Alfred Lunt wrote from Genesee Depot, Wisconsin: "It would have been appearing in 'Headliners,' but we are up to our ears in the new Sam Behrman play." Which indicates that Messrs. Bloomington and Karson, producers of the show are reaching out for the best there is for their restoration of a popular form of entertainment.

July 26th Field Day For Marksmen

CUE TO BARBECUE

Max O. Cullen, nationally famous barbecue expert, shows Muriel Barr, young M-G-M starlet, how simple it is to barbecue meat. Pete Smith, producer of short subjects bearing his name, looks on as Cullen illustrates the correct method for turning a steak during the filming of "Barbee-Cues."

Backyard Barbecue Solves War's Entertainment Problem

With the entire nation seeking simpler means of entertainment because of war time requirements, the old-fashioned barbecue is rapidly growing in popularity. Backyard barbecues are becoming quite the style from California to Maine.

Old timers at this business of barbecuing have developed it into a fine culinary art, and in this connection Max O. Cullen, nationally known barbecue and carving expert, has brought out some new wrinkles for the handling of those old stand-bys, hamburgers and frankfurters.

Why does a frankfurter curl? Well, that's a problem that has bothered many a host, but if you're having a barbecue party and you want your franks to lie slim and straight as they nicely brown, try Cullen's little trick, as taken from the M-G-M. Pete Smith specialty, "Barbee-Cues."

First, slice the frank lengthwise down one side without cutting entirely through the casing, turn it over and slice parallel to the first slice. Then it opens up like an accordion and will not curl and fall through your grill.

Anybody can barbecue meat, Cullen points out, if they will only remember these pointers: live coals, not a flame, should be used as a source of heat—charcoal briquettes are good. Steaks and chops should run an inch or more in thickness, and need be turned only once in cooking. Surplus fat should be trimmed away so it will not drip into the coals and flame up.

If you'd like a hamburger barbecue, take another hint from Cullen's repertoire and satisfy everybody's taste. Make your hamburger into a ball and barbecue it slowly until the outside is well-done. Then, slice it into three parts and you have two well-done pieces for those who like it that way, and one rare piece—the center—for those who like their meat rare. Cullen personally guarantees that barbecue fans will go for hamburgers prepared this way.

Bluejackets Are 97% Strong For Insurance

"Now, Mom, you needn't worry about all that money your sailor's coming into since Congress passed the pay bill."

Penny-wise recruits at the U. S. Naval Training Station here are well aware that "he who spends all he gets is on his way to beggary."

Statistics released yesterday by the Station's Insurance Division reveal that better than 97 per cent of those Bluejackets passing through the world's largest naval training station voluntarily make application for National Service Life Insurance.

The government low-cost insurance, available only to those active in the Nation's armed land and naval forces, is heaven-sent to these recruits eager to erect a first-line of financial protection for parents and dependents.

Through an instructive program, fashioned by Ensign C. P. Slater, Insurance Officer, for the creation of an "insurance-conscious" attitude, the recruits, like their thousandfold predecessors, are educated—not high-pressured—into the wisdom of making a worthwhile investment.

Adequate testimony to the soundness of this program is the coverage that the Insurance Division writes per week, frequently exceeding $23,000,000. This staggering weekly coverage figure was achieved by the recruits applying for an average $7,000 policy.

"You can see, Mom, that the 'fool and his money' adage does not apply to your sailor boy.

"He's thrifty and wise!"

'Captains of the Clouds' at Glencoe Starting Sunday

Canada's heroes of the air, flying headlong to Victory, are the heroes too, of "Captains of the Clouds," the Warner Bros. picture which will be the new screen fare at the Glencoe Theatre starting on Sunday. James Cagney stars at the head of the cast which includes Brenda Marshall, Dennis Morgan, George Tobias, Alan Hale, Reginald Denny as well as many actual members of the RCAF.

Filmed in glorious Technicolor, "Captains of the Clouds" tells an heroic story of some bush pilots from the woods of Northern Canada who enlist in the Royal Air Force after they hear Churchill's "We Shall Never Surrender" speech. A three-cornered romance involving a vixenish but lovely French-Canadian girl and two of the pilots is the human interest background against which the story of the heroic flyers is played.

Central figure in the drama is the character portrayed by Cagney. A hard-flying, hard-fighting guy he enlists in the service expecting to be sent out immediately to fight the Axis planes in the sky. Instead he is assigned to a teaching job on the ground. His attempts to prove that he is an able sky fighter only serve to get him dismissed from the service. He gets his chance, however, when he volunteers to ferry a bomber over to England, and through his heroism is able to save the rest of the squadron when they are attacked by a Messerschmitt.

"Captains of the Clouds" was directed by Michael Curtiz.

METRO'S "Mrs. Miniver" will probably be one of the best remembered war pictures that have reached the screen, not merely because it is well directed (by William Wyler) and superbly acted, but because it deals with a typical family, facing the war at home. It vividly presents the sort of situations that we might have had to deal with in this country. Incidentally, a "Mrs. Miniver" rose has been developed, named for the one in the picture; it is dedicated to "the unselfish and sterling qualities of American women in the war," women like the one whom Greer Garson plays so movingly in the film. Don't miss "Mrs. Miniver!"

Buddy Clark, young baritone of radio's "Hit Parade," has an important role in RKO's "Sweet or Hot," starring Lucille Ball and Victor Mature. His comedy specialties and songs last year won him one of the highest individual ratings on radio listener polls, but in the picture he'll do more than sing; with Peter Lind Hayes and Arnold Stang he'll play an army buddy of Mature's.

Alan Ladd attracted plenty of attention and favorable comment during his stay in New York; as part of the campaign to introduce this new leading man to the public Paramount can consider the trip a success. But all the girls who eyed him admiringly realized that it was a case of "Hands off!" Mrs. Ladd (the former Sue Carol, once a movie star) was with him, and they're devoted.

Joan Crawford is one screen mother who wants her daughter to follow in her footsteps. Looking at golden-haired Christina, now three, she remarked: "If she isn't an actress I'll be the most disappointed person in the world."

Russell Hoyt, handsome 24-year-old North Carolina traveling salesman signed by RKO, reached Hollywood without an iota of dramatic experience. A friend, an agent and a talent scout were responsible, and he got a contract without even making a test.

Gary Cooper can spend his vacation traveling with the San Francisco Seals as the ball team's assistant manager if he wants to. He was invited by Lefty O'Doul, the manager, who taught him to bat and throw left-handed for "The Pride of the Yankees."

As part of his war work, Ronald Colman is making three films this year; during the past six years he's made only one a year. The bulk of his income will go to the government in taxes. During the last war he served with Kitchener's "Contemptibles," saw action at Ypres, was wounded at Messines, and he holds the Mons medal with 1914 bar. His next picture is "Random Harvest."

Eric Blore celebrated his 50th picture role when he began work in Paramount's "Happy Go Lucky," which stars Mary Martin and Dick Powell. Once on the London stage, with time out for serving in the last war, he's been in demand in Hollywood since 1934.

Warren Hull, Parks Johnson's new "Vox Pop" partner, is instantly recognized by young radio followers as "The Green Hornet," a role he played in a screen serial. He was besieged by juvenile autograph hunters in an Alexandria, Va., store.

Phil Baker ought to be happy; the one thing that visitor to New York seem to want more than anything else is tickets to his "Take It or Leave It" broadcasts.

ODDS AND ENDS—Edward G. Robinson of "Big Town" has taken up horseshoe pitching at his ranch behind Beverly Hills. No actor changes leading ladies more often than Tim Holt; his new one, in "Son of the Saddle," is Ann Summers, a newcomer. Khaki-clad Staff Lieutenant Hopper puzzles audiences when she aids the treasury department in selling war bonds—still they recognize her as Marsha Hunt; she now has married name when in uniform. Holy Lamarr does a stirring routine in "White Cargo"—is a serving girl. Keep your eye on Halimat Dostina, who gives an outstanding performance as a German flir in "Mrs. Miniver."

Modern Youth Smokes - Is Taller

New York—Dr. Louis E. Birsch, noted New York physician-psychiatrist writing in the July issue of Click magazine, says that smoking does not stunt growth and proves it by citing the fact that collegians of this generation are a full inch taller than their equivalent a generation ago. In the photo, Elin Carlyle, a Mt. Holyoke alumna, and Danny Roche, who's going to Fordham in the Fall, illustrate the idea. Picture was taken in New York on a day too full of Spring to permit much studying.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Laegeler and children are vacationing in Northern Wisconsin.

William Jones Gets Scholarship At Dartmouth

William M. Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Jones of 310 North Linden Ave., Highland Park, a senior at Dartmouth College, has been awarded a $500 Justin H. Smith Fund Scholarship "for proficiency in studies, sound morale, and physical health." It was announced here today by President Ernest Martin Hopkins. Six other undergraduates were the recipients of special scholarships, among them Shih-Yueh Wang, a junior, of Shanghai, China.

Mr. Jones, who entered Dartmouth from Highland Park High School, is majoring in actuarial mathematics. He is advertising manager of Jack-o-Lantern, humorous undergraduate monthly magazine, a member of the Gile dormitory committee, and vice-president of Delta Upsilon fraternity.
