ALL-ARMY FOOTBALL GAME AT DYCHE STADIUM

Though Northwestern university's football team will be away from Dyche stadium on Saturday, Oct. 31, sports fans of the North Shore towns are, nevertheless, assured a football event that will at least match in thrills and interest anything the Big Ten could offer. The Camp Grant-Fort Knox football fracas at Dyche stadium on Saturday, October 31st, is the only all-army football classic in this area for the season.

The Fort Knox team boasts one of the fastest and most versatile squads in the country today, while the Camp Grant Warriors have shown exceptional strength while winning their last two starts against strong college opposition.

Joe Bach, former Notre Dame star, coaching the Fort Knox Tankmen will be depending greatly upon Quarterback Sam Putterbaugh, former star of the Cleveland Rams in the National pro league; and Lieutenant John Persky, full back from Hardin-Simmons who left the Philadelphia Eagles to join the colors.

Grant Coach

Coping with these aces Lieutenant Glen Rose, former coach at the University of Arkansas and now coaching the Camp Grant Warriors, has some of the nation's top-notch gridgers. The Warriors' starting forward wall averages 212 pounds per man. Some of the better known stars with the Rockford eleven are Sam Goldman, former Washington Red Skin, a mere 220 pounder, 6 feet 4 inches tall who generally plays the full 60 minutes at his right end position.

The pre-game ceremonies and half-time entertainment should be the most colorful ever seen in Evanston. In addition to Camp Grant's military band, the championship drill team from Camp Grant will be on hand as well as special glee club offerings.

Tickets are available in ticket offices in every one of the North Shore towns from Evanston on the south to Zion on the north.

Biggest Army Man Serving At Fort Sheridan Now

One of the biggest and heaviest men ever to don an army uniform is at Fort Sheridan. He stands 6 feet 6 inches tall and tips the scales at a wee 320 pounds. His name is Pvt. William Ford.

The 21 year old husky hails from Janesville, Wis., where he was the biggest "kid" in school. He won three letters as a crack tackle for the high school eleven.

He graduated with honors and at the age of 17 entered Notre Dame university, where he played on the varsity squad as a sophomore but left school before he could cash in on any great publicity.

Special Clothes

When he came to Fort Sheridan on Thursday, the men at the clothing warehouse moaned and groaned. After dragging out the largest sizes, they agreed that special clothes would have to be made.

Study Group To Report On Projects

Members of the study group of the department of government and social welfare of the Highland Park League of Women Voters, who have been learning about the prevention and treatment of delinquency in Lake County, will report on their projects when the group meets on Wednesday, Oct. 28, at 1:30 in the upstairs room of the Public library.

Individuals in the group have been visiting the Detention Home in Waukegan and the Juvenile court there, as well as talking with officials of public and private agencies who deal with delinquent and pre-delinquent boys and girls. Those reporting will be able to present a first hand picture of the local situation when they make their reports.

'Spring Again' Comedy Hit At Selwyn Theatre

Grace George and C. Aubrey Smith, beloved and distinguished stars of the theatre, opened a limited engagement of four weeks last week in their hilarious comedy success, "Spring Again," at the Selwyn Theatre, Chicago, in the roles they created in New York last season.

The Chicago engagement of the Broadway hit, which ran for nine months last season, comes to a close on Saturday, November 7. Produced and staged by Guthrie McClintic, "Spring Again" by Isabel Leighton and Bertram Bloch won wide-spread approval from the Chicago critics. Wolfe Kaufman of the Sun hailed it as "charming, escapist fun." Lloyd Lewis of the Daily News called it "a genial, richly good-humored comedy. You'll be endlessly relaxed and amused by its cleanly diversions."

Grace George, considered by many authorities to be the leading comedienne of the American theatre, is enjoying her happiest hit of a decade with "Spring Again." On Broadway she has starred in such notable productions as "Kind Lady," "The Circle," "The First Mrs. Fraser," "The Divorcés" and "Major Barbara." C. Aubrey Smith, whose rugged features are familiar to moviegoers the world over as the symbol of British courage, returned to Broadway in "Spring Again" after an absence of thirteen years. He has scored in literally dozens of Hollywood films, including "Clive of India," "Lives of a Bengal Lancer" and "Lloyds of London."

Featured in the cast is Ann Andrews, noted for her acting in "The Royal Family" and "Dinner at Eight." Jayne Cotter, Richard Stevenson, Ben Lackland repeat their original roles while others in the large supporting cast include Michael Rosenberg, Douglas Gregory, Charlotte Bemis, Edmon Ryan and Robert Alvin.

"Spring Again" tells the laugh-provoking story of Halstead Carter, son of a fire-eating Civil War General, who had more than his share of heroism, prejudices and eccentricities. For forty years the scion of the Union General has been basking in the reflected fame of his bellicose sire. Nor has he been content to bask! He's spent these forty years in an incessant recital of the fabulous feats of his forebear to his wife, and her patience is worn thin. The devices by which Mrs. Carter makes profitable the oft told saga of the defunct General, the strategies by which she makes his memory an asset rather than a family blight, fuses into three uproarious acts in the modern theatre.

N. W. Military Cadets Win Over Wayland

A Highland Park boy played a leading part in the victory of Northwestern Military Academy over Wayland Military Academy at Lake Geneva last Saturday. He is Ellsworth Mills, son of the Ellsworth L. Mills of 413 S. Sheridan road, and is a senior at the academy.

Playing center and backing up the line on defense, he smeared many plays before they reached the line of scrimmage. In the third quarter, a vicious tackle caused the Wayland right half to fumble. The ball rolled over the Wayland Goal line with Mills following full charge. He fell on the ball behind the goal line for the first touchdown of the game.

Final score was Northwestern Military 13, Wayland 0.

Art Class Will Open Monday At U. S. O.

Ann Landau, well-known artist, is starting an art class Monday night, from 7:30 to 9, at the Highland Park USO club. Portrait drawing and landscapes will be emphasized in the course.

Ex Libris... By William Sharp

ESCAPE FROM TERROR

Six of the men are caught and crucified on a row of plane trees in the prison courtyard... The Seventh Cross awaits the capture of Heister...

Hiding in ditches and gullies, with the Gestapo hot on the trail, George Heister and six companions flee from a Nazi Concentration Camp...

But the pursuing Nazis fail. Aided by friends and sympathetic countrymen, on peril of their lives, Heister at last makes his way to freedom, out of the darkness, into the light...

Dance To Be Given By Service Center

The Masonic Service center will sponsor a dance in the Masonic temple, 19 N. Sheridan road, Saturday evening, Oct. 24, at 9 o'clock. All service men are invited.

Music will be provided by the Waukegan Melodiers. The Evanston Girls' club will act as junior hostesses and the ladies of Antioch chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, will be senior hostesses and serve refreshments. Mrs. O. E. Hachmeister is chairman, assisted by Mrs. Robert J. Wilton, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Horton and Mr. and Mrs. William Anderson.

Art, Craft Class To Start At Center

Community center is starting for its third year an art and crafts class for grade school age boys and girls. The class meets on Saturday morning starting at 9 o'clock. Miss Ella Rasmussen is the hobby instructor.

Hobby activities in wood, leather, plastics and other available craft materials will be featured. A small class fee plus cost of materials used is the only charge. Call the Community center, H. P. 2442, for more information.

Homecoming Dance Given By Students At High School

Highland Park high school's homecoming dance, the "Little Giant's Jump," was held Saturday evening. The dance was under the direction of the Boys' and Girls' clubs of the school. Decorations were in step with the war situation and music was provided by Dick Lewis, his trumpet and his orchestra from Northwestern university.

Featured in the floor show were Carol Johnson singing two songs, a monologue by Helen Sarett, a jam session by Hap Murphy, Jon Erickson, Bill Livinson, John Bowden and Bob Lillienfield, and a dance by Shelby Brown. A door prize of $5 was given away during the course of the evening and chances on the prize were given free with the purchase of a 10c war stamp. The prize was won by Mr. Stunkle, a teacher at the high school. He declined to accept it and it was given to Mary Livingston.

A total of $61 worth of war stamps were sold and 196 couples attended the dance.

Patriotic Spirit Shown By Local Woman

Mrs. S. E. Timpe of 4 Sheldon lane showed her patriotic spirit Sunday when she entertained 200 guests and asked each one to bring a piece of copper or brass with them to be donated to the Highland Park salvage collection.

Girl Scouts took down names of all the donors and Boy Scouts hammered all the material into scrap for the army. Mrs. Timpe baked 650 cookies which she served to those present. She was assisted by Mrs. Sidney Brandt.

C. D. Office Must Pay For Postage

For about two and one half months the Highland Park office of civilian defense has been permitted to use the Franking privilege for its civilian defense mail.

The United States government, by a general order, has now so limited this privilege that it is of very little help, it is stated, and the local office now has to pay for stamps for mailing its letters, bulletins, questionnaires, et cetera.

IF YOU happen to be anywhere near where one of the Vox Pop programs is being broadcast, spare no effort to attend it — you'll have a lot of fun, maybe make some money, and see one of our better radio programs in action. Maybe you'll have the pleasure of meeting Parks Johnson, who's a swell guy; you may be lucky enough to meet Mrs. Johnson, who goes along. Before the broadcast Johnson stages stunts with members of the audience, and pays them well for participating. Mrs. Johnson buys the gifts for the women on the program, and rounds up good places for the company to eat. As part of the audience, you'll be part of the program, and have a grand time.

Rosalind Russell's sponsoring Janet Blair with a vengeance! First she convinced Columbia Pictures that Janet was perfect for the title role in "My Sister Eileen"; then she waived the exclusive star clause in her contract so that Janet could share star billing. Next she took Janet for a tour of the army camps, with the purpose of interesting her soldier brother, George Russell, in the young actress.

Alan Reed spent two months in Hollywood waiting to make a picture that never was started, though he was paid regularly. He collected a typical Hollywood wardrobe — slacks, sports shirts, Mexican huaraches, silver-trimmed belts. Ezra Stone, till recently of "Henry Aldrich," ran into Reed in his Hollywood togs, in New York. "Gee," said he, "you're not even a civilian!"

Young Russell Hoyt, RKO actor, has been trying to make people forget his striking resemblance to Alan Ladd. Now it's got him a job. RKO used him in bits in "Seven Days' Leave" and "Here We Go Again," then had no role for him, so lent him to Paramount for "Lucky Gordon" — he'll play a Ladd henchman who, because of his resemblance to the star, can create alibis for him.

Claudette Colbert probably set a record recently by being a bridesmaid once and a bride twice all within 24 hours. It was all for Preston Sturges' "The Palm Beach Story"; Claudette's bridegrooms were Joel McCrea and Rudy Vallee, and her stunt as bridesmaid took place when Joel married someone else. She's working now in "No Time for Love!"

In "Somewhere I'll Find You" Keenan Wynn, of the radio's "Shadow" programs, played a soldier who operated a 1918 machine gun which had been blown from its tripod; because of the kickbacks, his shoulder was strapped for two weeks. When he saw the picture in New York, a soldier in front of him said: "Fak! You can't fire a machine gun from that position." Keenan leaned forward and tapped the young man on the shoulder. "Yes you can, brother," said he. "I did it."

When Jack Benny and Mary Livingston first met she was 12, and Jack, calling on her sister, disliked Mary as heartily as she loathed him. He was appearing at a local vaudeville theater, and Mary bribed her pals to maintain complete silence all through his act!

Claudia Morgan, recently signed to play "Andrea Reynolds" on the air serial, "We Love and Learn," couldn't escape the theater; she's the daughter of Ralph Morgan, the niece of Frank, and made her stage debut on Broadway while in her teens. A few years ago she was playing lead roles simultaneously in two Broadway stage hits and in a radio series.

ODDS AND ENDS—Bing Crosby postponed his return to his radio program for a week in order to complete his golfing tour for the benefit of the Red Cross... Metro's released "ATCA," a one-reeler depicting the work of the Air Training Corps of America, which is training some 500,000 high school boys in the elements of aeronautics... Olivia de Havilland, born in Tokyo, couldn't accompany the "Princess O'Rourke" company in the airport at Lockheed for location work; all players had to have their birth certificates, and Olivia's happened to be missing.
