

What's Doing In Deerfield

The marriage of Miss Olga Petersen, daughter of the Oswald Petersens of Racine, to Andrew Huhn, son of John Huhn of Deerfield, on August 26 at Kahoka, Mo., is being announced.

On October 21, Mr. and Mrs. Hans Petersen, aunt and uncle of the bride, gave a reception and shower for the couple at their home in Racine. Mr. and Mrs. Huhn will live on the Elmwood Farm.

Rev. and Mrs. Bernard E. Vanderbeck are entertaining the elders of the Presbyterian church and their wives this evening (Thursday) at the manse.

Many Deerfield housewives have not as yet begun to clean and save tin cans for the salvage work. Mrs. Robert Johnson, co-chairman of the Salvage committee, has asked all her district chairmen to make another house call on the women of each territory to impress upon them the necessity of saving tin cans.

The eighteen chairmen are making personal calls this week and each will have with her a sample of a properly cleaned and folded tin can. All housewives are urged to save their tin cans.

T. M. Saxa has been transferred to Camp Mc Coy.

Aviation Cadet Almon Frost is now at Anacostia Field, Washington, D. C. He was home last week on leave to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Frost.

Large Audience Hears Talks By Democratic Candidates

Macrowski, for County treasurer and John Stanton, for sheriff were unable to be present because of speaking before a similar meeting in Waukegan.

Congressman Raymond S. McKeough, Candidate for United States Senator and State Representative Benjamin S. Adamowski, Democratic candidate for Congressman-at-large, being unavoidably detained by other important speaking engagements, arrived too late to address the meeting as planned, but were introduced personally to many of those in attendance at the rally and expressed pleasure that so many voters of Highland Park were taking such keen interest in the issues of this campaign.

Civilian Defense News

The practical usefulness of trial blackouts was stressed by Mrs. Raymond Flinn, chairman of the civilian defense committee on family shelter and child care, in discussing the organization of her committee. In these "dress rehearsals" for air raids, she explained, it is possible to uncover minor deficiencies that might result in major disasters in case of a real raid.

There are 15 division chairmen under Mrs. Flinn and her vice chairman, Mrs. T. L. Osborn, and each is responsible for the problems of housing and feeding the people affected by raids in her area. With the help of questionnaires returned by individuals willing to cooperate in an emergency, said Mrs. Flinn, the members of the shelter committee are prepared to supply immediate housing and food in various private homes for a week or more, depending on the extent of damage. After that, with the promised cooperation of churches, schools, clubs and local merchants, dormitory housing and community feeding would be supplied.

Functioning Tested
The smooth functioning of this organization is tested after every blackout, stated Mrs. Flinn. She and Mrs. Osborn reached all fifteen of their division chairmen on the telephone within a period of 12 minutes on the morning after the last blackout, and received the report that they were ready to perform their duties if needed.

The boys who serve as messengers under Mrs. Kent Wonnell's committee of emergency communication and transportation (telephones might not work after a real raid) reached all but one of the 15 chairmen by bicycle and reported back to headquarters within an hour and a quarter. The one chairman had moved and neglected to report that fact to Mrs. Wonnell. It is small problems such as this, Mrs. Flinn pointed out, that practice blackouts serve to bring to light.

ON HIS RECORD JUDGE PERSONS SHOULD BE DEFEATED

Judge Persons Ignores Evidence in Election Contest

Katharine Keeler, Northwestern University crime detection expert, in her examination of the ballots in the Hendee Alford election contest found embossings on other ballots from crosses which had been pressed on ballots after they were stacked up and gave her opinion to the court that the ballots had been altered. The photographs to the left are court exhibits 14 and 15 from Wauconda Township. The County Judge, in rendering his decision, paid no attention to the testimony of Katharine Keeler and said: "The character of the markings mentioned by the witness (referring to Katharine Keeler) retracings in some instances and marks by different lead pencils for candidates on both Republican and Democratic tickets to which she testified, are not sufficiently convincing to permit the Court to invalidate the ballots mentioned." And, he said further: "Assuming her opinion to be well founded that certain ballots were tampered with after the same were marked by voters, I see no reasonable theory under the record by which this could have been done unless it occurred while the ballots were in the polling places and before they were recorded, folded and sealed in the sacks in which they were returned to the then County Clerk." Although the markings were apparent to the naked eye, Judge Persons did not see them and held that the ballots should be counted in spite of the alterations.

The Court Renders A Political Decision

In 1941, a petition by citizens of Lake County was filed before Judge Persons asking annexation of the territory, forming a pocket between Waukegan and the lake front, to the city of Waukegan. The big Johns-Manville plant is located in a pocket between Waukegan and Lake Michigan on the north side water-front. It obtains assistance in police and fire protection from Waukegan and most of its employees live in Waukegan and send their children to Waukegan schools.

However, the corporation pays no taxes to help defray municipal expenses and to help maintain the city schools. Need for more money for education purposes in Waukegan is urgent.

Judge Persons insisted on holding a long hearing on the petition, despite the fact that the points of issue raised by the Johns-Manville corporation and the Bonnie Brook school district, had already been argued and over-ruled in circuit court. Corporation Counsel Bairstow argued that inasmuch as the petition was properly drawn and the signers were legal property owners, the court should certify the petition to the city council for action. Then, if the objectors insisted, a special election could have been held.

During the ten months while this case was pending before Judge Persons, Jack Bairstow obtained the Democratic nomination for representative in congress from the Tenth Congressional District. He was the one who was carrying on the actual trial of the case before Judge

Persons. Rendering a political decision, Judge Persons, defending it said: "We are not interested in or influenced by the politics (to which some reference has been made) or personnel of counsel or litigants herein." He further said in the decision that "such petition must reflect the voluntary, deliberate, earnest, sincere plea of the signers at the time the signatures were affixed thereto; what they may have learned about it after it was filed in this Court, through the press and otherwise, is not now material."

In rendering this decision, he ignored the fact that each signer of the petition had ratified his signature by his appearance in court after wide publicity had been given to the case, testifying to substantiate the petition. In spite of the fact that everyone of the signers, except those who were in the armed services, appeared in court and identified their signature as genuine, the Court said that the petition "was not the voluntary, independent expression of the wishes of a majority of the property owners in the territory sought to be annexed." This decision was rendered on August 21, 1942.

The Judge Disregards Violation of Election Laws

Four days later the question of the confirmation of judges and clerks in Precinct 5 Libertyville, was before the same Judge on objection to their reappointment. The Judge found that two violations of election laws had been committed by these judges and in his decision said:

"I hardly think it is necessary to ask you gentlemen to discuss the evidence here. There were two irregularities, as shown by the evidence: one, the failure to lock the ballot box in accordance with instructions, and the other is as to the specimen ballots furnished by the County Clerk. I think it is conceded, even by the witness Suter, that no name should be inserted in a specimen ballot. It should be exhibited and posted as other specimen ballots, unchanged as it comes from, the County Clerk; but when all is said and done, those irregularities and failure to comply with the statute I think are insufficient to warrant the Court in refusing confirmation of the two judges, Suter and Burnett."

What, we respectfully ask, would be a violation sufficiently serious to warrant refusal to confirmation of election officials?

The Judge Fails to Transfer Mothers Pension Cases to Aid to Dependent Children's Rolls

Although requested by the State Welfare Department on September 2, 1941 to transfer Mothers Pension cases to A. D. C. rolls, 28 cases (representing the majority of these cases) were still before the Judge on July 1, 1942 when he lost jurisdiction by law—at an expense to the tax payers of Lake County of $6,185.00 in pensions paid by the County from October 1941 to July 1942—to say nothing of the benefits these pensioners would have received under the new law. The pensions in these cases if they had been transferred would have been paid by the federal and state governments.

The Judge Plays Politics with Inheritance Tax Matters in Awarding Fees

H. B. Gaston, Editor of the Antioch News, a Republican Paper, in his signed news story of October 22, 1942 said: "The News has reason to believe that the Judge has played politics in Inheritance Tax cases and awarded his friends and political favorites, $14,438.10 in fees during the past sixteen months for their services as appraisers and security and Real Estate experts." The picture at the right shows how the Judge disregarded the intent of the law in awarding $900.00 in traveling expenses to his appraiser. The laws says (Section 385, Chapter 120, Revenue Act) "The County Treasurer shall pay on certificate of the County Judge, such compensation as such Judge may deem just for the services rendered by an appraiser—not to exceed $10.00 per day for each day actually and necessarily employed in such appraisal—and in no case less than $10.00 nor more than $300.00, and in addition to such compensation such appraisers shall also be entitled to receive his actual and necessary traveling expenses."

A study of the photograph (the court order in the Charles Burrell Pike Estate) shows the award of $900.00 not only for traveling expenses but for office rent, postage, etc., which the statute does not allow. To use up $900.00 of traveling expense this appraiser would have to spend $30.00 a day for the 30 days set forth in the order.

Elect PHILIP W. YAGER County Judge
