

Garden Club Of Illinois Presents 5th Judging School

Members of garden clubs from all over the state are enrolling for the fifth judging school of the Garden Club of Illinois, which is to be held Thursday and Friday, Nov. 5 and 6, at the Palmer house in Chicago. Mrs. J. Wilson McAllister, of Kenilworth, is chairman of judging school this year.

The course, which is primarily for flower show exhibitors and the judges of exhibits, will offer timely information on the subjects of "Judging Horticultural Classes" and "Judging Artistic Classes" in flower shows. These subjects will be covered by the foremost authorities in the country.

The examinations, which are optional, will be held on Friday morning, November 6, 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. A member must pass the examination for three years in order to be placed upon the accredited judges list.

The purpose of the judging schools which are given by the Garden Club of Illinois and other garden club organizations in the country is to raise the standards of the community shows, —the local flower show. The judging school aids these local flower shows in two ways—it provides accredited judges so the shows will be fairly judged and teaches the exhibitors of the show how to grow and exhibit their plant material in the best possible manner.

HIGHWOOD USO CLUB

Operated by N. C. C. S. 428 Railway Ave., Highwood, Ill.

Fortune-telling, ducking for apples and a costume contest were the highlights of the Hallowe'en party given last Wednesday at the Highwood USO club, 428 Railway avenue, for the service men of Fort Sheridan.

Mrs. Harvey Reber of Highland Park and Miss Elizabeth O'Brien of Chicago, both in appropriate dress, were the seers while Miss Nora Mahoney of Highwood, disguised as a negro "mammy," presided at the wash-tub where the "bobbing" went on. Coins were inserted in the fruit as added incentive.

Miss Mahoney, Miss Florence Bellei of Highwood, a gay Spanish senorita, Sgt. Leo Tremblay, a negro also, Miss Pauline Costo of Highwood, a French maid, and Miss Helen Baldrini of Highwood, an angel, won mention for their getups.

Flying witches, huge black cats and jack o'lanterns adorned the walls of the ballroom, which were covered with autumn leaves to give a woody appearance. Across the stage stretched a row of lighted pumpkin faces, flanked by two stuffed scarecrows. The decorations were the work of the Misses Nora and Nellie Mahoney, Florence and Lennie Bellei, Marie Leonard, Maria n McLeran, Bea Thomas and Costo.

Mrs. Roy E. Wyle of Highland Park was chairman of the affair. Fred Ehrens served as m.c. He is chairman of the operating committee.

Mrs. Margaret Dean, canteen hostess, was honored Friday with a birthday cake from the Service Mothers' club. "Happy Birthday" was sung to her by the dance crowd Saturday, on which date the Mothers' club of the YWCA entertained, serving cider and doughnuts. Mrs. Thomas P. Clark was chairman, assisted by the Mes. William Dorick, Alice Jacobs, R. F. Seiffert, Catherine Rohr, Cora St. John and Gust Norren.

Meet Marge Lyons At Lincoln School Friday Night, Nov. 6

For that jaded appetite, for cooks who can't think of anything good for the next meal, we recommend reading "And Green Grass Grows All Around," Marge Lyons' new book which she will autograph at Lincoln school, Friday night, Nov. 6. Victory gardens and food conservation are really practiced in the Ozarks!

How meagre our Highland Park store-filled shelves seem compared to the typical cellar with over 700 jars of peach preserves, apple butter, spiced carrots, watermelon pickles, corn relish, succotash, tomatoes, catsup, chili, sauce, beans, beets, peas, grapes in syrup, blackberries, plum jelly, canned fried chicken, sausages, just to mention a few varieties. Then in "that little room off the kitchen" are jugs of sorghum, gunny sacks of sweet Spanish peanuts, bins of apples and per strings, dried corn, pop corn, hick-turkeys, sweet potatoes, pumpkins, pecory nuts, butter nuts, black walnuts, and other stores against a rainy day. Truly Marge finds her neighbor's kitchens overflowing with honey from wild bees and Jersey cream whipped on hot gingerbread if you want to think of milk and honey as evidences of a promised land. For the skeptical the author even has a practical chapter on how to treat your soil so your truck patch will flourish in the Ozarks!

"And Green Grass Grows All Around" gives full recipes for such delicacies as strawberry shortcake, cracklin' corn bread, fried salt pork, molasses cake. No wonder Marge reports she has trouble keeping her "figger." Food, folks, fun, appreciation of nature's grandeur and peace, homey philosophy that is good for these times, are part of the well-stocked riches found in the pages of this cheerful book. And there will be plenty of copies of "Take to the Hills" at the Lincoln school Book Fair for those who wish to have this favorite by the same author personally inscribed.

No better Christmas gift for any man or woman can be found if you shop all over the city than "And Green Grass Grows All Around" it is made doubly appropriate because of its beautifully written last chapter on "Christmas in the Ozarks." Marge really cooks up some grand recipes for living in her books. She's holding open house for you tonight, Friday, at Lincoln school.

Food Dealers Against Prices

Instructions for retail food dealers for adjusting ceiling prices of 11 groups of food are now available at the Local Boards, Michael F. Mulcahy, O. P. A. Director of the Chicago Metropolitan Area announced today. These instructions are contained in "Retailers' Bulletin No. 2," which explains Maximum Price Regulation No. 238.

This regulation became effective October 15. It permits retail food dealers to adjust prices on the following foods: breakfast cereals, canned fish, cooking and salad oils, sugar, canned vegetables, coffee, rice, shortenings, dried fruits and lard.

Before being permitted to change prices, dealers must file statements with their local boards, containing the new prices determined by using the formulas in the regulations. The new formulas may increase prices slightly in some stores, but will permit many others to restock items which they could not handle before, because of the small margin of profit. Housewives will be able to buy these items in low-priced stores. The increases in most cases are not expected to be more than one to three cents on most items.

Charles Johnson of 102 High street, Highwood, told Highwood police Wednesday night that as he entered his home by the rear entrance, he heard someone prowling around the house. When he slammed the screen door, the intruder locked himself in the bathroom.

As Johnson attempted to break down the door, the prowler fled through the bathroom window.

Several hours later Leslie Godie of 609 Kimball road, Highland Park, heard someone in the yard at his home. When he looked out of the window he saw a trespasser fleeing. He told police he shot at the man, who was identified as James A. McCauley, 18, of 319 Euclid avenue, Highwood. McCauley was hit in the left shoulder and the bullet glazed his jaw.

McCauley admitted to Highwood and Highland Park police that he had entered the two homes. He was charged with attempted burglary and taken to the County jail and will be bound over to the grand jury.

Two-way radio contact between field units and headquarters aids in the mapping of strategy and instant movement of fighting forces on far-flung battlefronts.

Electric screw drivers and electric soldering irons on the mass production line help to turn out an ever-increasing rate radio equipment vital to modern warfare.

Women skilled in the operation of electric soldering irons assemble essential military radio units in one of the large radio factories in the Northern Illinois area.

War Production and Electric Power in Northern Illinois

In today's lightning warfare, instant communication is vital to fighting units on land, on the sea and in the air. Radio factories in Northern Illinois that produced home radios during peacetime are now working day and night to fill the needs of our armed forces with vital communication equipment. Because electric power and light are needed in almost every phase of manufacture, radio factories in this area depend upon a constant flow of current. It is our first responsibility to provide and maintain this supply of electric power to these factories and all plants engaged in war production.
