

Advisor To Army Officers Will Speak At Woman's Club

Entry of the United States into the shooting war has given added significance to statements on American military strategy by the student writer and lecturer on military science—Brigadier General Henry J. Reilly—who has accepted the invitation of the Highland Park Woman's club to be its guest speaker at an evening meeting to be held Tuesday, Nov. 17 at 8 o'clock in the club house.

Gen. Reilly, the former editor of the Army and Navy Journal will discuss "America's Grand Strategy in the Present War." Recently he was called upon the United States army—the only man not on active duty to get such a request—to lecture before the General Staff Officers school at Fort Leavenworth; the Field Artillery school at Fort Sill; the Cavalry Officers school at Fort Riley and the Infantry Officers school at Fort Benning.

During the first World War, Gen. Reilly was the youngest American brigade commander. He is at present a high ranking member of the Officers Reserve corps. Years ago he forecast modern blitzkrieg warfare, and has long been an advocate of sweeping military reforms of a conservative character to "modernize America's armed forces and the supply lines of industry in time of war. His first hand observations during the past year in Europe as Fortune magazine's military analyst and in the fighting of the Spanish civil war, Poland and China has increased the stature of authority with which he speaks.

Son of a soldier and grandson of a sailor, he himself has had 35 years of military experience—observing for twenty years the armed forces of Europe and Asia. He knows intimately most army leaders in America and many military leaders of the great powers now at war. During the past four years he visited every country in Europe with the exception of Russia, from which he was excluded.

Club members may invite adult members of their immediate families as guests for the evening. Members of the community interested in hearing General Reilly's analysis of present day war strategy are welcome for the usual guest fee.

Hostesses for the social hour following the lecture are: Mrs. Aaron S. Bauer, Mrs. George J. Kirkpatrik, Mrs. C. Eugene Pfister, Mrs. Frank B. Wales and Mrs. Earl Wallis.

Applications for Fuel Oil Received By Ration Boards

Applications for fuel oil and kerosene rations are now being received by the local war price and rationing board 4-1 of Highland Park at 538 Central avenue and 3-1 of Deerfield from all consumers living in West Deerfield township except those within the limits of the city of Lake Forest.

Applications may be mailed or delivered to the office of the board and consumers are urged to file them promptly. The board is prepared to give prompt attention to fuel oil applications, in order to be able to issue rations as soon as possible after the necessary supplies are received. Applicants will be notified when their rations are ready.

In the meantime, because of the delay in receiving materials, the office of price administration has announced that dealers may continue to sell to consumers on coupon credit up to and including Nov. 15. Don't Disappoint 'The Boys' for Xmas; Mail Parcels Now

The Post Office department now is starting the most gigantic task in its history—the movement of a deluge of Christmas parcels, cards and letters while maintaining the regular flow of millions of pieces of mail daily to and from our armed forces all over the world.

Indications are that the volume of Christmas mail will be the largest on record. Already in September, latest month for which figures are available, retail sales had reached a level second only to the record month of December, 1941, according to the Department of Commerce. And sales are rising. Such heavy purchases always presage heavy mailings.

If thousands of soldiers, sailors, marines and civilian friends are not to be disappointed at Christmas time, the public must cooperate by mailing earlier than ever before and by addressing letters and parcels properly. The best efforts of the Post Office department alone cannot be enough, in view of wartime difficulties faced by the postal system. The public must assist.

At Work Now

About 25,000 experienced postal workers already have been taken by the war services. Arrangements are under way to add thousands of temporary personnel to postal staffs, but this man power is hard to find and is inexperienced. Facilities of railroads and air lines are heavily taxed by movements of huge quantities of war material and personnel. Extra trucks are almost impossible to obtain. Winter weather, hampering transportation, is beginning.

The free-mailing privilege granted to members of the armed forces has raised their mailings some 30 per cent, it is estimated. Expansion of those forces also is adding rapidly to the postal burden.

The deadline already is past for mailing gifts to army and navy personnel overseas with assurance that the parcels will arrive by Christmas. The New York post office reports that in late October, 350,000 such parcels were handled in that office alone.

The Post Office department is making strenuous efforts to avoid such a terrific jam as it faced in 1918 under similar conditions, during the First World War. It can succeed in those efforts—and avoid many heartaches for its patrons—if the public will cooperate by mailing early.
