

MOVIES AND AMUSEMENTS

HIGHWOOD U. S. O.

The Saturday night dance at the Highwood N.C.C.S. operated U.S.O. club brought out a new sponsor from Chicago, who were the St. Mel High School auxiliary from the west side.

Father Gleeson, Pastor of St. James Church in Highwood, was a former resident of this Chicago parish, and it was a happy reunion, for many of these girls who came out were taught by Father Gleeson when at St. Mel's.

The group of girls were chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. John E. Wilson, Mary Johnson and Elinor Brett. They also furnished home made cakes and an assortment of sandwiches for the boys. Upon their arrival they were surprised to see such large numbers of men, and after checking up the supply of food they at once went shopping for more, and the additional food was enough to care for all.

Mr. Wilson acted as master of ceremonies for several mixers much to the enjoyment of both the boys and girls. The confusion that followed some, made for a great deal of laughter and hunting for the girl.

Our check room certainly was well-manned on this occasion due to the presence of Edward Moroney, retired chief of police of Highland Park, and his brother, Father Moroney. The efficient manner in which they handled this work was the reason the large crowd was out of the building within twenty-five minutes after the last dance.

Others who acted as chaperons on this evening were Mrs. Sam Bernardi, and Mrs. F. Ugolini, with Mrs. and Sgt. William Brown.

Camp Grant Five To Meet De Paul February 6

What was just another basketball double header in the Chicago Stadium on the night of Saturday, February 6, became one of the season's top bills, when Butler University cancelled its game with DePaul and the Warriors of Camp Grant, the Nation's top Service team in the won and lost column became the adversary of the Blue Demons for that evening. In the other game on the card Northwestern University and Purdue, old and respected rivals, who play the type of basketball the fans like, meet in a regularly scheduled Western Conference game. This Camp Grant team has amazed the middle west, with its performance. They've walked thru a schedule comparable to that of the major college teams, and since dropping a practice game with a pro club in November, have won 19 out of 20 ball games and their only setback was a 38 to 36 defeat at Madison by the Wisconsin Badgers.

Included in their record is the only defeat Illinois has suffered this year, and they've also beaten Loyola, Illinois Wesleyan, Oklahoma U., Augustana and Bradley, in their steady march and before the game with DePaul on Saturday night meet Loyola at Rockford.

Players who made their mark in company as well as in college ball forms the nucleus of Lt. Harris' fast breaking five. Ray Adams of DePaul and Don Blanken of Purdue, both All-Americans during their college days and pro stars with the Chicago Bruins are the forwards. George Hogan of Loyola and Mickey Rottner of DePaul, both All stars are the guards and Joe Frivaldsky of Baylor, and Ernie Herbrechtsmeier, of Iowa State Teachers, both over 6 ft. 4 in. alternate at center. They've got fine reserves with two professionals, Stan Szukula of DePaul and the Bruins and George Hosik of Marquette and Sheboygan, lending the group along with Paul McCall of Bradley.

N. U. Astronomy Professor to Give Lecture February 7

Dr. Oliver Justin Lee, Director of the Dearborn Observatory and Professor of Astronomy at Northwestern University, is the speaker for the free Sunday afternoon lecture on February 7, 1943, 3 p.m. at the Chicago Academy of Sciences, Lincoln Park at Clark and Ogden. Dr. Lee, an authority on Solar phenomena, will present an illustrated talk entitled "The Solar System," describing the possible origins, actions, and appearance of our planetary neighbors.

The author of some sixty-five scientific publications and of the popular book, Beyond Yonder, Dr. Lee is experienced in the exposition of astronomical topics to both the layman and scientist. His investigations at Yerkes and Dearborn Observatories have particularly enriched scientific knowledge in the fields of solar physics, spectral classification, and the study of faint red stars. Rachmaninow to Appear with Chicago Symphony Feb. 11-12

Sergei Rachmaninow, outstanding composer-pianist of the generation, returns to Chicago next week to appear as soloist with the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, and to play again a program which brought him tumultuous acclaim in his appearance with the symphony three years ago.

Rachmaninow will play the Beethoven Concerto for Pianoforte, and his own composition, "Rhapsody on a Theme of Paganini." He appears Thursday evening (Feb. 11) at 8:15 and Friday afternoon (Feb. 12) at 2:15.

In addition to the two concerts at which Rachmaninow appears, the Symphony, under the baton of Hans Lange, has scheduled a Tuesday afternoon performance (Feb. 9) at which Robert Quick, assistant concertmaster and principal of the Symphony's first violins, will be the soloist. This program begins at 2:15. Lange will conduct the orchestra at its popular concert Saturday night (Feb. 13) at 8:15.

Since his initial appearance in Chicago in 1909, Rachmaninow's concerts have become stellar events on Chicago's musical calendar. Born and educated in Russia, he there gained his first fame. He fled Russia with the fall of the Czar and since has lived in the United States of which he is now a citizen.

The Arena management also announces that public skating will follow the game.

H. P. Public Library

"A Little List with Comments"

"Is there anything new that is not about the war?; we want to snatch a moment of peace to fortify ourselves so that we may better serve in our country's defenses." The following list of new titles recently added to the Highland Park Public Library is in answer to this request:

"Dictators of the Baton"—David Ewen
Here is a deep searching analysis of thirty of the leading conductors in America's orchestral scene—in biographical, critical, and personal traits. This is truly a friendly book. On the Historian.

"Francis Parkman"—Mason Wade.
A splendid biography of one of America's greatest historians. The book is divided into two sections—The earlier section is devoted to his years of travel and exploration on the Grand Tour and the Oregon Trail; the second section is his personal life. Here is truly an unsurpassing picture of frontier life.

On Syrian-American life.
"Syrian Yankee"—Salom Rizk.
This autobiography tells of the Americanization of Salom Rizk, a Syrian orphan who came from a land of poverty and oppression to a land of opportunity and freedom. A timely bit of reading. On the Negro.

"No Day of Triumph"—J. S. Redding.
A personalized portrait of America, the America of a young Negro who believes in democracy and freedom. The autobiographical section is splendid and poignant. Worthwhile reading. On New Orleans.

"Port of New Orleans"—Harold Sinclair.
A biography of the most romantic and exotic of America's seaports. The story of this fabulous city is entertaining as well as accurate. On the Journalist.
"The Man Who Made the News"—James G. Bennett.
An exciting biography of the man who revolutionized American (the world) journalism.

Star Dust

STAGE SCREEN RADIO

By VIRGINIA VALE

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

IT IS difficult to know just which bouquet to toss at "In Which We Serve"; people agree that it is a really great picture, but they praise it for different reasons—for its direction, the excellence of the production, the remarkably good acting, by a cast in which Noel Coward's is the only well-known name. I think that it is great because of its sincerity—watching it, you don't think "That's a good performance"; you feel that you are actually watching real people, taking part in their lives.

Signs of the times: An announcement from Metro's New York office that the theater where "Tennessee Johnson" is being shown is heated with coal, so patrons will be assured of comfort while viewing this picture about the 17th President of the United States.

The glamour girls who are sweethearts of the armed forces have nothing on Baby Snooks; she's the land-based mascot of the officers and men of the submarine U.S.S. Snooks, the enlisted men wear insignia presented by her on the backs of their overcoats. And Fanny Brice, Baby Snooks' originator on the "Coffee Time" program, has a standing invitation to dine aboard the Snooks the day the war's over.

Don't blame the navy for the shortage of zippers; they don't use 'em. Glenn Ford found that out when he arrived on the set of "Destroyer" at Columbia in a brand new sailor's uniform equipped with zippers. Lieut. Com. Donald Smith ruled the uniform out; he's technical adviser. Seems they don't use zippers in the navy because, if a gob has to go over the side in an emergency and must get rid of his pants so that he can swim, buttons are much easier to open in the water than zippers are to unzip.

Dorothy Lamour's first male protegee has red hair and freckles and is 6 1/2 years old. He's the son of Dorothy's secretary, and Dorothy's grooming him for important child roles. You'll see him making his slim debut with her in "Dixie."

A screen role became a real one for Fay Bainter the other day, when her only son, Reginald S. H. Venable Jr., announced that he had enlisted in the army and was about to begin officers' training. In "The War Against Mrs. Hadley" she portrayed the mother of a boy who enlisted in the armed forces. She's working now in "Salute to the Marines."

Whoever gets the rights to film Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker's life will know that he's won out over stern competition; even before Captain Rickenbacker's recent and famous adventure in the Pacific the major studios were interested in his life story.

Dick Martin, the young RKO actor, was discussing "Bombardier" with photographer Ernie Bachrach. "I sure hope I can get a part in that picture," said Martin. "It's going to be terrific." "I understand that Walter Reed has a good role," said Bachrach. "Good role!" exploded Martin. "Why, he kills off Kandy Scott, bombs Tokyo, and gets Anne Shirley—what more could an actor ask?"

Henry Travers, who played the rose-growing station master in "Mrs. Miniver," has been cast to portray Dr. Eugene Curie, father of Pierre Curie, in Metro's "Madame Curie," starring Greer Garson. It's the third consecutive film in which Travers has appeared with her—he played the country doctor in "Random Harvest."

ODDS AND ENDS—Dinah Shore's been signed to appear with Danny Kaye in Samuel Goldwyn's "Fish Flying Colors" . . . Lesley Woods of the "Joyce Jordan, M. D." air show, has been dishing about New York during the cold weather in sequin trimmed waruffs . . . Sheldon Leonard plays a racketeer in "Lucky Jordan" because Hollywood thought him the ideal gangster type—but when he appeared in "Margin for Error" on the New York stage the minions of the law voted him the ideal policeman . . . Allen Warner's the latest moving waitress on the screen in "Henry Aldrich Gets Glamour"—she's had experience as one.
