Braeside Play Circle Stars Bradford Macy In 'Lost Horizon'

Remy Hudson, director of the Braeside Play circle, announced today that Bradford Macy has been selected to play the part of Conway in "Lost Horizon." Mr. Macy, who has studied under Hope Summers, has attracted the attention of Hollywood, and this may be his final appearance in North Shore dramatic offerings.

He will be supported by Kay Bingham who recently appeared in the Winnetka Drama club play, "What A Life." Miss Bingham will play the part of Helen.

J. David Dickinson will play the part of Chang and the High Lama will be played by Robert Glasgow.

Gordon Holland has been cast in the role of Mallinson. The American business man, Henry Bernard, will be played by Donald Robinson. Mr. Robinson will be remembered for his portrayal of the dictator in "The Queen's Husband" and Mr. Holland for his characterization of Spencer Grant in "Here Today."

The amusing part of the missionary woman, Miss Brinklow, will be played by Dorothy Douglas.

Accenting the beauty and high drama of the production are the parts of two Chinese girls and a Tibetan maiden. These portrayals will be given by Mary Holland, Marty Strubel and Emogene Hudson. The role of the Tibetan will be played by Bruce Robinson.

In addition to these principal characters, members of the Braeside-Ravinia Choral society will present special musical numbers.

Ione Straub, well known Highland Park pianist, is in charge of all music to be used in connection with the show.

George Straub, vice president of the Braeside Play circle, announces that audiences may "expect the unusual in both stage sets and sound effects in connection with this show."

Jane Erikson and Bruce Robinson are in charge of lighting and sound. The play will open with an airplane crash and during the performance there will be an electrical storm.

My brother's in the thick of it

That's one reason why I'm doing what I am. When he became an air cadet, I started my training with the telephone company. I picked what seemed to me the most useful work I could do.

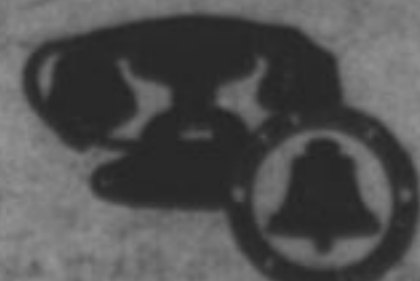

I'm a regular telephone operator now. My job is interesting. And important! Millions of war calls must be handled these days. Calls that help make munitions and move troops and keep them fed and clothed and supplied. And, lots more calls that help keep people safe and healthy and on the job, here on the home front.

Of course, our switchboards are a long, long way in miles from our battle fronts. But we're in the thick of the war just the same! I'm proud to be doing my bit — and my best.
