

LET'S NOT BE PENNY WISE AND POUND FOOLISH

Dr. Irene Josselyn, well known psychiatrist and member of the Elm Place School Board told the Lincoln Parent Teachers Association the other day that Highland Park is already facing serious teen-age problems due to the war.

We may have bitter cause for regret if we are too smug and self righteous to do anything about the problems arising now in our community.

Americans who have seen the havoc wrought to the youth of England by not providing more recreation outlets in wartime have urgently warned us not to make the same mistakes.

Transportation to recreation centers is becoming increasingly more difficult. Children and young people are dependent on the resources of our community for their fun. So are the grown-ups.

The recreation tax to come on the ballot in the municipal election will not increase any tax bill appreciably. But it will give the city an extra much needed $6,000 to open school gyms and craft shops during vacations and weekends, to direct project and play classes, to help with family field days and community picnics, to stimulate and coordinate the leisure time of the entire city. You, Mr. Citizen, will then have the opportunity to help plan what is needed in your own part of town.

Municipally directed recreation is in line with the most enlightened and progressive community development. Civic-minded men and women in Highland Park in promoting this tax have studied the situation for years, consulted national sources, made surveys of Highland Park's needs, looked into the set-ups of other towns our size. This has been unselfish service in behalf of the greatest good of the greatest number and especially our children.

The Office of Civilian Defense considers adequate recreation a national emergency. Many communities are far ahead of Highland Park in planning for present and future needs. We have an opportunity on April 20th to give Highland Park a better deal by voting "yes" for the recreation tax. We will not have it again for four years and that may be too late. Let's not be penny wise and pound foolish.

Roddy McDowell, English Film Star, Helps Easter Seal Sales

The Easter Seal campaign to provide special services for crippled school children, have received the personal aid of a young English film star, Roddy McDowell, known for his fine work in "How Green Was My Valley."

When Roddy arrived in Chicago, Saturday, April 10, on his first tour of the United States since he went to Hollywood, he was met at the Northwestern station by an honorary escort of two boys and two girls chosen from the public schools of Chicago, where rivalry in selling Easter Seals is keen. With this special escort he went to the University club for a luncheon given by the Easter Seal committee, with Mr. Howard Willett as chairman, to a small group of representative Chicagoans interested in sponsoring the public school children in selling seals.

Under the auspices of the Illinois Association for the Crippled, 35 East Wacker drive, Roddy continued his help to Easter Seals on Monday morning, by appearing at the Spalding School for Crippled Children, 1628 W. Washington boulevard. On the auditorium platform he met the representatives from 40 high school papers for a "press interview," at which Mr. George Jennings, Radio Council, Board of Education, was the moderator. This personal appearance and interview was followed by a preview of Roddy's new picture, not to be released for another month, "My Friend Flicka."

If you BUY EASTER SEALS, Roddy states, you help the crippled children of Illinois.

Chicago Symphony To Present Lenten Music

Music appropriate to Good Friday and the approaching Easter season will distinguish the Thursday-Friday (April 22-23) concerts of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra in Orchestra Hall this week.

The Wednesday afternoon Young Peoples' concert and the Saturday night popular concert will be the last of those two series for the year. Hans Lange will conduct the four concerts.

At the Thursday-Friday concerts the orchestra will play the Stock arrangements of Bach's Chorale Prelude, "O Mensch, Bewein Dein Sunde Gross" in memory of the late Joseph Adams, for many years a member of the board of trustees of the Orchestral Association. The program also includes the Beethoven "Pastoral" Symphony, and Wagner's Prelude and Good Friday Spell from "Parsifal."

The Tone poem, "Ecco Homo," by Dr. Felix Borowski, prominent Chicago composer-critic, follows the intermission on the program for the two concerts.

Compositions by two members of the Symphony—David Van Vactor and Floriam Mueller—highlight the program for the Saturday night (April 24) Popular concert.

This week's only soloist will be ten-year-old June Kovach who made her debut with the Chicago Symphony at the Young Peoples' concert two weeks ago, playing the Mendelssohn "Concerto for Pianoforte," which she will repeat Wednesday.

The annual election to select one member of the board of trustees of the police pension fund will be held Monday evening, April 19, from 4 to 5 o'clock in the court room of the city hall. The candidate for election is Harry Lehr.

Spaghetti Dinner Given Last Week At Local U. S. O.

High spot of last Tuesday's party for service men at the U.S.O. was a spaghetti dinner provided by the Italian families of Highland Park, who acted as hosts for the evening.

A complete Italian style dinner was prepared and served to more than 600 service men and their wives and girl friends. Between courses, the guests were entertained by members of the Italian families and their friends, and later danced to music which they also provided.

Because of the enthusiasm for the party expressed by the service men, the Italian group hope to be able to repeat the affair at an early date. The dinner and evening entertainment were patterned after the spaghetti dinner parties sponsored by the Italian Business Men's association each month at the Chicago Service center, under the chairmanship of William J. Curotto, who also was leader of the local affair.

H. P. Library

Pan-American day, April 14, which was first celebrated in this country in 1931, has unusual significance this year. Good neighbor policy is highly important.

The twenty-one republics which constitute the Americas produce every variety of agricultural, mineral and animal products.

"All the western hemisphere nations, they they have venerable traditions to the south more venerable than our own, are new countries and therefore lands of hope." Carleton Beals.

In spite of the fact that these countries are our closest neighbors, the average person knows less about them than about the countries of Europe. This is probably due to three reasons. First, many of our people or their parents came from Europe to settle here. Second, travel to Europe has been much more common than to South America. Third, our newspapers do not adequately handle Latin American news.

It is important that we inform ourselves in regard to the Central and South American countries. The Highland Park library has a collection of books about them. A few of the suggested titles are:

- South American Primer—Katherine Carr.
- Latin American Republics—D. G. Munro.
- Argentina—J. W. White
- Discovering South America—L. R. Freeman.
- Good Neighbors—H. C. Herring
- By Pan-American highway through South America—H. C. Lanks.
- Journey to the World's End—Hakon Mielche.
