ROGER WILLIAMS AVENUE BEACH CLOSED

The board of Park commissioners feel that a statement concerning Roger Williams avenue bathing beach is due to the people of Highland Park at this time.

For several years, the Park district has operated Central avenue and the Roger Williams avenue beaches. This year it has been extremely difficult to obtain the personnel necessary to operate the beaches in a manner that will be satisfactory to both the Park district and the public.

Central avenue beach was opened to the public June 26 and it was the intention to open Roger Williams beach at the same time. However, the personnel necessary for the proper supervision of this beach was not available on that date. Neither has it been since then although every effort has been made to open the beach to the public. It now appears to be practically impossible to get the help desired, a condition which is beyond the control of the Park district, and it has been decided not to open the beach.

The beach is now posted to the effect that it is closed and not under the operation of the Park district, that there is no guard protection and that anyone going in swimming does so at their own risk.

Procurement Drive Opened In Chicago For Air Cadets

Chicago's busy loop was bombed with paper leaflets Tuesday afternoon by civil air patrol planes. The paper bombs heralded a new army air forces procurement drive for aviation cadets, and inaugurated a new Treasury "Buy a Bomber" bond campaign.

At 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, three CAP planes streaked across the loop releasing a smoke screen. The leaflets stressed the fact that any man, between the ages of 17 to 26, inclusive, could take his qualifying mental and physical tests at the Chicago Aviation Cadet Examining board offices at 166 West Van Buren street, to qualify for the aviation cadet training that leads to a commission as second lieutenant or appointment as flight officer.

Inauguration of this army aviation cadet procurement drive takes place Thursday evening, July 15, at the RKO Palace theater, before the showing of the new army air forces picture "Bombardier," when Major Lauris M. Eek, air corps, the air liaison officer of the Sixth Service command, will assign Major Charles W. H. Schuck, Illinois wing commander, civil air patrol, to the procurement effort. Combat veterans of the South Pacific and European theaters will participate.

Lake County Residents Offered Free Canning Facilities

Grease Collections Reach Highest Point In Six Months

More grease-conscious housewives, an increased consumption of pork, or the summer opening of three country club contributors has brought Highland Park's grease collection for June to its high point of the past six months.

Mrs. Nathan Corwith Jr., acting chairman of conservation, reports collection figures:

January	3,590 pounds
February	3,887 pounds
March	4,146 pounds
April	2,027 pounds
Meat rationing started	March 29
May	3,397 pounds
June	4,480 pounds
Total	21,527 pounds

Pound a Family

Four ounces of grease saved per person per month, or one pound for a family of 4, is the quota set by the Office of Civilian Defense in its campaign for more grease for munitions.

Two pounds of grease will make five anti-aircraft shells—"Every spoonful helps," says an O.C.D. official. The grease should be strained, put in large mouth metal containers, and when one pound is collected, sold to a butcher.

Highland Park stores handling the grease collection are the Sunset market, Jewel Food stores, Blue Goose Food market, National Tea company, Community Service market, Picchetti Brothers, Deerfield Produce company, Williams market, Rapp brothers, and the A. and P. company. Ravinia collectors are the Jewel Food stores, Winter's grocery and the National Tea company.

A free canning center for residents of Lake County who wish to can Victory Garden and other fresh vegetables has been established at 1107 Lincoln avenue, North Chicago, and will be open Monday with Mrs. Emmett McShane as supervisor in charge.

The project was established after conferences with the County Superintendent of Schools William C. Petty and the cooperation of the county board of supervisors. Supervisor David Van Patten of Wadsworth is chairman of the finance committee and has contributed his energies towards the success of the project when it appeared destined to be abandoned. Supervisor Carl Staben of Waukegan is responsible for the equipment which includes pressure cookers from the old WPA project. He kept the canning equipment in Lake County in defiance of the U.S. department of agriculture when the government wanted to move it elsewhere.

Registration applications can be secured at the Deerfield Township Supervisor's office at 394 Central avenue, and any further information may be secured at that office from Supervisor W.W. Steele.

The rules are as follows:
1. Instructors will be on duty to advise on technique and to operate the mechanical equipment. Accepted commercial standards in processing, safety and sanitation will be followed.
2. All work of preparation and can filling must be done on the site by a member of the family benefiting. A paid person cannot represent the family.

6. Appointment time is not transferable. If it is not possible to meet it, cancellation must be made a day in advance by telephone.

7. The cannery is operated on shifts. There will be no canning on Sunday or legal holidays. Should a breakdown of any kind occur you will be notified by phone.

8. Produce should be gathered at the proper stage of maturity on the day of canning for best results.

9. Cans will be furnished at project site.

10. Participants must bring their own salt and/or sugar.

11. Storage instructions will be given.
