Music under the stars! How many ideas, thoughts and emotions that suggests; and how many hours filled with beauty and joy.

From times immemorial comes the echo of shepherds songs around the open fires in the old worlds. The Indians sang in the New World, the settlers and the pioneers sang, whether they were building a home in the wilderness or digging gold in the west. The voyageurs sang, padding their furladen canoes down the rivers.

America still sings and listens! Music under the stars now also brings the great symphonies of Beethoven, Brahms, Tschaiikowski, operas from Wagner, Verdi and other great masters, the whole, deep world of musical enjoyment.

Volunteers Needed For Home Service of Red Cross

Every hour out of the twenty-four, the Red Cross stands alert, ready to assist the families of servicemen in any emergency. This branch of Red Cross activity is called home service. It has been named by Congress as the official medium of communication between members of the armed forces and their families.

Last month more than thirty thousand people turned to the home service Chicago chapter for help. Anxious fathers, mothers, wives trying to get in touch with sons and husbands captured, wounded or ill. Worried people with no idea of where to turn or what to do when confronted by emergency. Contrast these 30,000 requests with the pre-war average of about 200 a year—chiefly concerned with claims of ex-servicemen from World War I and their dependents for Government compensation.

Due to this increase in the number of calls for service the Red Cross, for the first time, is offering volunteers an opportunity to join the home service corps. Requirements are few—United States citizens between the ages of 22 and 60, in good health, with good, average education, are eligible.

Interested persons may call at 616 S. Michigan avenue, Room 918 for a personal interview or phone Harrison 5910. The home service office is open from 9 to 5 on week days and from 9 to 12 on Saturdays.

Here's a BOOK that may NEVER be WRITTEN

IT would have to be a big book — and it would be as exciting as a "best seller." There would be action on every page — with plenty of suspense that makes a good story.

It would begin before the war, when, in spite of the depression, the railroads spent money to improve their service to peacetime America — buying new, more powerful locomotives — building new, more efficient rolling stock — laying new and heavier track — meeting spirited competition with traditional American enterprise.

It would tell how every dollar spent for those improvements was a priceless advantage to this country, when suddenly America found itself plunged into world conflict.

There would be chapters telling how the greatest transportation system in the world buckled down to its war job of moving armies and equipment fast and far, while continuing to handle essential civilian travel. And the way shippers have cooperated, and people generally have adjusted themselves to the inconveniences of war-time transportation — that would be a thrilling story in itself.

Yes, the book may never be written. But we predict that the achievements it would cover will live in the grateful heart of America long after the Axis tyrants have crumbled into forgotten dust.
