Soldier Field Offers Opera Under Stars At Popular Prices

"Aida," Verdi's immortal masterpiece, and "Carmen," dramatic and colorful Spanish opera—called the world's most popular opera—will be presented under the stars at Soldier Field on Saturday evenings, July 24th and July 31st at popular prices.

Under the luminous sky how glittering these great spectacles can be. "Aida" is a gala originally written for a great state celebration. "Carmen" is a story of Spanish love and hate, of Gypsy smugglers and the violence of the bull ring. Both are best seen in the glory of out-of-doors. Under the stars they gleam in every facet.

Singing in "Aida" will be glorious Stella Roman as "Aida," Giovanni Martinelli as "Radames," Alexander Kipnis as "Ramfis" and George Czaplinski as "Amonasro." In the name part of "Carmen" will be the fiery Italian contralto, Bruna Castagna, thrilling Licia Albanese as "Micaela," Alexander Sved the "Toreador," Kurt Baum, "Don Jose." Ruth Page is ballet director. Here are singing stars whose performances at the Metropolitan and Chicago Operas command double the popular summer prices now asked. (Mail orders are received at the office of Harry Zelzer, Manager. Because of the great demand a downtown ticket office has been set up at the Hub Store, State Street at Jackson.)

British War Relief Society Wants Books For Fighting Forces

The British War Relief Society of the U.S.A., has launched a campaign to collect 500,000 books for the men of the fighting forces in North Africa, the Near East, and the Middle East. Mrs. Bernard Baruch, Jr., who heads the national Book Committee of the British War Relief Society, reports that 30,000 books have already been contributed as the result of a limited campaign in the Greater New York area. The need for books is so great that her committee is now extending the drive to all parts of the country. In addition to the books shipped to the Mediterranean area, the committee plans also to furnish books for men of the British naval and merchant ships.

Books should be addressed to the Book Committee, British War Relief Society, 30 N. Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Illinois.
