Country Dancing Each Week At Local U.S.O. Club

Through the efforts of a G.S.O. girl, Miss June Whitworth, of 2387 Deere Park drive, the Highland Park U.S.O. has a band to play for country dancing each Monday night. Miss Whitworth, who donates her time to assist in dance instruction each Monday night, is an enthusiast of country dancing. The country dance program at the Highland Park Club has developed until now almost 200 men appear regularly each Monday night for dancing.

As this group grew, a band was needed, and Miss Whitworth took it upon herself to provide an orchestra. She contacted five Highland Park business men, each of whom play a musical instrument, and these men were organized into an orchestra by Harold Pfister, who plays the piano and directs the group. Mr. Pfister lives at 2322 Indian Tree drive and is a purchasing agent in a defense plant. The other members of the orchestra are James A. C. Kelly, 2277 Lakeside place, who is a lawyer in business in Chicago, and who plays the violin; Carl G. Howard, 2271 Lakeside place, who is an engineer with the Fansteel corporation at North Chicago, plays the banjo; Roy H. Olsen, 2731 South Deere Park drive, who is a patent attorney with his office in Chicago, also plays the banjo; Robert W. Bridges, 319 Oakland drive, is another pianist. Mr. Bridges plays piano duets with Mr. Pfister and substitutes for Mr. Pfister when he can not appear.

"Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow" is the title of a motion picture that traces the development of science throughout the world. This picture will be shown at the Highland Park U.S.O. at 8 o'clock on Thursday, Oct. 14. Archery as usual on Thursday's program at the Highland Park club is carried on under the supervision of the Highland Park Archery club.

The post band of Fort Sheridan will feature the entertainment on Friday, Oct. 15, under the direction of Sgt. Tom Jackson and Corp Harold Kelbe. Girls of the Kappa Kappa Delta sorority from Northwestern university will present a twenty minute "spot" program on Friday.

Clearing the way for invasion

Before our invasion forces can make their landings, the lanes of approach must be swept clean of enemy mines. And this job is being done by the Navy men aboard minesweepers.

To provide for the United Nations' invasion plans to date and those of the future, American ship builders have achieved mass construction of these minesweepers by drawing on the tremendous energy of Electric Power. Portable electric skill saws, drills, grinders and welders are all used in the cutting, shaping and fitting of these sturdy seafaring craft. Powerful electric cranes are employed to install the engines and lift aboard the heavy unit parts.

Yes, Electric Power speeds the construction of minesweepers just as it speeds the production of planes, tanks, guns and the hundreds of other implements that are turned out in Northern Illinois.

Electric Power Speeds War Production

While YMS 179 slips down the ways to join the Navy, Electric Power is speeding the completion of other minesweepers under construction.

Electrically operated drills make quick work of boring holes. Like the skill saws, these portable drills can be carried to wherever they are needed.

Portable Electric skill saws help to cut days from production schedules of minesweepers which are constructed almost entirely of wood.

Electricity has gone to war—don't waste it!
