We like the thought expressed by Fred Waring on his radio broadcast on Thanksgiving evening. He said "We are thankful for the things we have, but the things we have now are less important to us than the things we believe."

The best War Bond sale talk we ever heard came from a workman who was born in Italy. This man was one of 16 children who with his parents and grandmother obtained their entire living from a rented acre farm in Italy. Mussolini was responsible for his departure from Italy several years ago after which this worker came with North Shore Gas Co. His son and son-in-law are in the U. S. Forces and all his spare cash goes into war bonds. We are glad to be associated with John Filicini and other gas workers like John.

Jode Huff, a K. C. Mo. machinist, recently gave his 5th pint of blood to the Red Cross. He has been an addict for 6 years.

"What War time occupation are you pursuing?"
"Well, right now it's a Second Lieutenant."

Steam pressure canners that have been on duty all summer are likely to need an end-of-the-season cleaning: stains removed with whitening and water, petcock and safety valve taken off and soaked in vinegar, ball-and-socket valve cleaned with silver polish, and the rubber gasket scrubbed free of grease.

If you are not in an essential industry, we shall be glad to consider your application for employment.
