Trickles waste water. 60 drops of hot water from a leaking faucet is over 200 gallons a month or a 5 days supply for the average family.

Incidentally, a baby requires TWICE as much hot water as a grown-up.

We like this scronette clipped from Printers Ink—
 "Both Management and Labor must recognize that there can be no power without duties, no privileges without obligations; that neither can be healthy or prosperous unless the community as a whole is healthy and prosperous. The advantages of wholesome competition can be safeguarded only if we learn to find the point at which competition must give way to co-operation."
 —Eric A. Johnson, Pres. Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

Our service men attend regular Service Schools conducted by our General Foreman Frank Keller. These sessions help them to give more intelligent service to you, and the service man helps himself to prepare for a better job in the future. Training is one of our most important activities.

The following incident is said to have occurred in an Army training class.

The sergeant-instructor called on a rookie to explain to the class the purpose of a bolt with a left handed thread.

This was the bewildering reply: "A bolt with a left handed thread is a bolt which the tighter it is screwed, the looser it gets."

H. P. Library

The use of animals for war work has come to play an important part. The Highland Park Public library has several new books which tell of these animal heroes on the battle fronts of the world.

Animal Reveille by Richard Dempewolf is a stirring report of the devotion and courage of animals in war areas. The book describes in detail the work of dogs, mules, camels, pigeons, horses, elephants, llamas, canaries, and a host of other less important animals who are performing endless helpful chores. Some interesting tales of mascots of the service men have also been included.

The thrilling story of a German dog who becomes a K-9 comado is told by Bertrand Shurtleff in AWOL, K-9 Comado. The training of these dogs is combined with an exciting war story.

Marion B. Cotheren presents the history of homing pigeons through the ages in the book Pigeon Heroes. What these birds did at Dunkirk, Guadalcanal, North Africa, and Italy is told.

The interest in dogs for war work has brought controversy over the various breeds of dogs and their merits. What Dog is That? by Walter E. Blythe will probably be able to answer some of your questions. It is a recognition manual of the purebred dogs with the highlights of each dog emphasized so that the average person may readily identify the different breeds.

Scouts' Court of Honor Monday Eve At School

Deerfield can justly be proud of its Boy Scouts. Since the first of the year there has been an average attendance of nearly fifty boys at the weekly meetings of Troop 52 and under the guidance of Scoutmaster "Jack" Lige the boys themselves are showing unusual talent in the way of organizing patrol meetings, at which progress is made in learning those things necessary for advancement through the various scout ratings and for the awarding of merit badges.

On Monday evening, May 29, at 8 o'clock at the school gymnasium, the Deerfield-Bannockburn Scout council will hold a court of honor, at which promotions and merit badges will be presented to all of those who have earned them.

The Girl Scouts and the Cub Scouts have been officially invited to be present and it is hoped that the parents and friends of the boys and the girls and the Cubs will make every effort to attend.

This meeting is preliminary to the annual Memorial day exercises which will be held at the Deerfield grammar school at 10 a.m. Tuesday, followed by a parade to the cemetery. These exercises also call for the support of all Deerfield residents.

The court of honor will be presided over by Harold Peet and it is expected that all of the various committee members will be in attendance.
