Readers may miraculously, or may not remember the poems dedicated to Buddy Bligh on the occasion of her "Making the Line," entitled "Remarks from the Gallery."

Due to her absence from town, her answer comes belated:

War Correspondents to Address the Highland Park Woman's Club

The story that has been unfolding in everyone's minds and hearts these last few months, and of the invasion of Europe, will be told in all its full drama by one who has been on the spot, at the meeting of the Highland Park Woman's club on Tuesday, Nov. 21, at 8 p. m.

The speaker is Bruce Thomas, war correspondent, who in less than three years, has become one of the most widely sought speakers on the platform. He spoke at one meeting of the club last year and the members were so impressed that the program committee made plans to present him at the evening meeting this year so that husbands and friends might benefit.

Mr. Thomas is a vigorous, inquisitive young man from San Francisco, a graduate of the University of California, class of '28, with a nose for news, and has packed into his years enough adventure to fill several lifetimes.

To see the world during college and high school days, he shipped as a sailor on all sorts of craft plying the seven seas. In 1941, as a correspondent of the San Francisco Chronicle, he shipped to England on a Dutch ship in convoy.

Under the auspices of the British ministry of information, he lectured in more than 50 British cities; lived in Scottish highland training camps with the commandos, then virtually unknown; and crossed the English Channel and the North Sea on several raids as a press observer. Returning to America, he became the first man to write, to broadcast, and to tell about these already legendary fighters.

In the fall of 1943, he returned from Alaska with another great "I Was There" account of military action in Alaska and the Aleutians.

During the summer of 1944 he was again overseas to see the invasion of Europe and brings that glorious story of Dunkirk in reverse to audiences here under the title "We Return to Conquer."

Mr. Thomas is fearless, inspirational, stimulating, and he does not sidestep facts. Whenever he appears at war production plants—and he is doing so constantly—it has been proven that production speeds up and absenteeism decreases.

It is hoped that members will give their friends the opportunity of hearing so vital a subject presented by a speaker so stimulating.

The hostesses will be Mrs. Geo. W. McSweeney, Mrs. Geo. O. Strecker, chairman and vice-chairman of the social committee, assisted by Mrs. Wm. C. Melohn, Mrs. Oliver E. Weed, Mrs. Geo. B. Dana and Mrs. Harry M. Limback.

Highwood Man Serves as Interpreter in Italy

Recently promoted to corporal, Mario Carnafi, 38, 217 North Avenue, Highwood, has completed his sixth month of service overseas, with a Liberator bomb group commanded by Col. Arnold L. Schroeder, Glendale, Calif.

Caraffi is in complete charge of the Italians that labor on the base, besides being the official interpreter of his unit. "We have a lot of Italians employed here," said Caraffi, "and there is always a misunderstanding. I've been gotten out of bed at night to straighten out some trouble."

Caraffi was formerly a chauffeur before entering the army in June, 1942. Overseas since last April, he has been authorized to wear the European-African-Middle East theater ribbon with one battle star. There IS a Santa Claus

A certain young reverend of this town, abroad at 5:30 one morning about two weeks ago, was startled to see three folorn-looking figures, clad only in p.j.'s and bathrobes, plodding along the street. His natural impulse was to play the good Samaritan and set their feet in the right path. He even stopped his car. But something, probably his guardian angel, stayed his hand.

Imagine his consternation, therefore, upon learning that the pajama'd three were mental cases escaped from a Great Lakes hospital, really desperate characters, who undoubtedly would have welcomed a chance to bop their benefactor over the head and make their get-away in his car. He is still gasping.

HPHS Secures Speakers To Give Talks to Pupils

Through the Rotary club and Mr. Knox, Mr. Wolters, principal of the high school, has secured various speakers to come to the high school and give vocational talks to the juniors and seniors.

The subjects for these talks were chosen by the juniors and seniors. Some of them are on radio, engineering, chemistry, aviation, and cadet nursing. The speakers for these talks are local authorities on the subjects.

These talks are to be given at the rate of about two a month, except for February, and the sophomores will be permitted to attend them if there is enough room. At the end of the talk, the students will be given a chance to ask the speaker questions.

The Rotary club has co-operated with high schools all over the country in this vocational guidance.

The Little Giants scored in the first quarter when Art Eisenbrand carried the ball across, and Bob Flocchi kicked the extra-point. From there on both teams played a good offensive and defensive game. The score was kept low until late in the game when Highland Park scored again on a pass from "Braza" Fiore to "Twin" Morelli, who lateraled to Art Eisenbrand to "Jeep" Peterson, who scored, making a final score of 13 to 0.

In the locker room after the game, Mr. Floyd, the coach, told the squad they had completed a very successful season.
