Lectures on The Prophets of Israel

Beginning this Friday evening, and during the month of January, Rabbi Wax will deliver a series of lectures on the prophets of Israel. There has been a great interest in this subject shown by the members of the congregation.

A proper understanding and a true appreciation of Judaism can come only through a familiarity with the great men who helped to form the religious heritage of the Jewish faith. This series of lectures will help familiarize the principles of the religion and the times and conditions under which it developed and flourished. The first lecture, this coming Friday evening, will deal with the Prophet Amos.

A social hour follows the religious service. Visitors are cordially invited.

Services are at 8:15 at the Temple, Lincoln and Vernon Sts., in Glencoe.

REDEEMER CHURCH INSTALLS OFFICERS

Redeemer Evangelical church members will install the new officers of the congregation for 1945 during the morning service on Sunday, Jan. 7, at 10:30 a.m. This annual custom calls both the officers of the congregation and the executives of each church society to present themselves before the altar for installation. The executive officers of the congregation for 1945 are Mr. Milton Voigt, president; William Wurm, vice-president; Leonard Eichler, secretary; Harry Eichler, treasurer.

Highland Park Public Library

The following new books are at the Highland Park public library:

Railroads at War. S. K. Farrington.

This shows how the railroads have aided the United States government in the war effort by efficiently transporting men and supplies of all kinds.

Cartels. Wendell Berge.

The facts stated in this book cover an investigation extending over a period of years.

The Bible and the Common Reader. Mary Ellen Chase.

The author has written novels with her own New England as a background—now an inspirational book about the Bible.

Everybody's Political What's What. Bernard Shaw.

There are five main directions in which civilization can go wrong, mostly by falling out of date and being overgrown with superstitions through not weeding out the garden. The five are economics, its politics, its science, its education, its religion.

Mexico, Magnetic Southland. Sydney A. Clark.

All enthusiasts about Mexico should read this book.

Pottery and Porcelain. Warren E. Cox.

This two-volume work whose publication was postponed for almost two years is for collectors and those who enjoy beautiful china. There are about 2,000 illustrations in the books.

Snowshoe Country. Florence Jacques.

The author and husband who illustrates the book, traveled by snowshoe and dog team through upper Minnesota and Lake Superior's north shore.

Marines Learn to Use 'Coconuts' for Survival

SOMEWHERE IN THE PACIFIC (Delayed) — Marine airmen undergoing rigorous training in methods of survival in the jungle are learning to use their "coconuts."

Not only a source of food and water, the coconut palm furnishes nature's woven cloth, shelter and illumination, Marines are taught.

The dried leaves make excellent torches and are used at night to attract fish for easy capture. From the green leaves, baskets, containers and mats are woven. The latter make waterproof shelters.

Most useful is the nut itself. When the nut is green, the meat may be eaten in large quantities without ill effect. However, when the nut is ripe, the meat or the concentrated milk is a natural cathartic. Copra, or dried coconut meat, can be used as an emergency food or as a source of light. Small pieces pierced with a stick will burn like a candle.

Sunburn Oil or Lamp Fuel

From the grated green coconut meat is squeezed a delicious cream used as a flavoring. When exposed to the sun, the rich coconut oil rises to the surface and can be skimmed off and used as sunburn oil.

Sections of the green husk tied on the feet with haw bark are comfortable makeshift shoes that will last two or three days on the sharpest coral. Dried, the husks are used to start a fire or keep a fire smoldering when an open flame is undesirable. The husk fibers can be woven into useful cord or rope.

Shell Makes Canteen

When extracted unbroken, the shell of the nut is a natural canteen. A small opening made in one of the eyes will let in the air and eventually the meat will rot and can be washed out. A wooden plug completes it. The very hard pieces of broken shells may be used as scrapers, spoons, or dishes.

With the strong branches as supports for his thatched hut, a bed woven from palm leaves, a fire of husks burning at the entrance of his hut, a blanket made of palm cloth, a shell-canteen full of coconut milk and a supper of soft palm sprouts and coconut meat and cream, what more could the castaway Marine want unless it be Lana Turner for company.

RATION PROGRAM

Jan. 3, 1945

Housewives are urged to destroy all food ration stamps that have been declared invalid, the OPA said today. Use of these stamps by consumers, as well as acceptance of them by retailers, is a violation of rationing regulations, OPA said.

At the same time OPA explained that red ration tokens continue good and housewives may use them for buying meats and fats. Grocers will continue to give them to housewives as change for the red 10-point stamps.

Blue ration tokens, however, have not been good since October 1 and cannot be used for canned fruits and vegetables. They are no longer needed as change for the 10-point blue ration stamps used for processed foods because point values for these items are set in multiples of ten.

Ration stamps which were invalidated as of 12:01 a.m., Tuesday, Dec. 26, 1944, and which are not good for consumer use are:

Red Stamps—A8 thru Z8 and A5 thru P5.

Blue Stamps—A8 thru Z8 and A5 thru W5.

Sugar Stamps—30, 31, 32, 33 and 40, along with all home canning coupons outstanding.

Stamps continuing to be good, and those soon to be made good, are:

Red Stamps Q5, R5 and S5, which became good Dec. 3. In addition, five more red stamps, T5, U5, V5, W5 and X5 will become good Sunday, Dec. 31.

Blue Stamps X5, Y5, Z5, A2 and B2. In addition, five more blue stamps, C2, D2, E2, F2, and G2 will become good Monday, Jan. 1.

Sugar Stamp No. 34, which became good Nov. 16. Another sugar stamp will become good Feb. 1.

Expiration dates have not been set for the stamps that still remain good.

Gasoline—A14 coupons good for four gallons.

Fuel Oil—2 and 3 coupons good for 10 gallons per unit.

Shoes—Airplane stamps 1, 2 and 3 in book three, good indefinitely.

A.F.L. Presents Adolescence Course

"The Timeless Teen Age: The Adolescent" is the subject of a course starting at the headquarters of the Association for Family Living, 209 South State Street, Suite 1426, on Jan. 10. The course will run for six consecutive Wednesday mornings from 10 to 11.

These meetings are planned to assist parents and leaders in gaining more understanding of the personality development and social and emotional adjustments of the adolescents with whom they are working and living.

"This process of growing up, of gaining independence from one's family, trying one's wings in various fields, at one time thrills and at another discourages the young person as he develops from his early teens to early adulthood," explains Mrs. Sora Barth Loeb, educational co-ordinator.

Among the topics to be considered are "Signposts and Dangers as Growth and Development Takes Place," "Helping Boys and Girls to Understand Each Other," "Changing Attitudes Toward School and Family," and "The Adolescent in the War Effort." One whole session will be devoted to resources for adolescent guidance such as personal counseling, group activities, tests, inventories, and rating devices.

Mrs. Walter Neisser, president of the association, says: "Adolescents present a perennial and ever fascinating question mark. Every age and every place has recognized a certain mutual awkwardness between old and young as these changelings grow into their adult responsibilities."

"The timeless teen age seen against the present social and economic background and in the light of these newer findings offers helpful new material to all of us who are responsible for guiding teen age people."

Sudden Death of Alfred L. Price

Alfred L. Price, 1721 Broadway, succumbed to a heart attack Jan. 1, while pushing a stalled car at the estate of Howard Fenton, Lake Forest, where he was serving, for the evening, as butler. He was regularly employed in the personnel department of the Commonwealth Edison Co., Chicago.

He is survived by his wife, Amanda, a daughter, Irene, and a son, Everett, the latter a midshipman at the medical school at Illinois university.

Mr. Price, 59, had lived in Highland Park for seven years.

Funeral Rites Saturday For Mrs. J. Gentilini

Last rites were performed on Saturday at the St. James church for Mrs. Joseph Gentilini, 66, of 4 Webster, Highwood, who succumbed to a lingering illness last week at a Waukegan hospital.

Born in Italy, Mrs. Gentilini came to this country in 1903, and for 24 years has been a resident of Highwood. She is survived by her husband and two sons, Charles, of Highwood, and Celso of Columbus, Ohio. Of the four brothers and sisters surviving, two live in Italy and two, Mrs. Mario Dinelli and Olindo Pasquale, are residents of Highwood. There are five grandchildren.

OBSEQUES FOR CHARLES MAKER

Obseques were conducted on Friday, Dec. 29, at Kelly chapel, for Charles W. Maker, who passed away at the local hospital last week following a brief illness.

Mr. Maker, a native of Massachusetts, came to Highland Park in 1929, living at the home of a cousin, Frank G. Waggett, 325 Marshman. He was employed by the Illinois Bell Telephone Co., in the commercial service department.

A widower, his closest surviving relative is a daughter, Mrs. Mildred Di Giovanni, of Boston.

Lester S. Olson, Publisher.

Late Jens E. Eriksen An Outstanding Citizen

With the passing of Jens E. Eriksen, 2312 Indian Tree Dr., on Dec. 22, the community lost a man of outstanding accomplishments. Art director for the Chicago Daily News, he was also operator of an advertising and art studio at 201 N. Wells, Chicago. Interested in local affairs, he was director of the annual Braeside art exhibit.

During the Chicago World's fair, Mr. Eriksen was knighted by King Christian of Denmark for his outstanding achievements.

He is survived by his wife, Marie, a daughter, Mary Jane, two brothers and two sisters.

Local Railroad Man Taken by Death

Edwin L. Kemp, railroad man of 59 years' standing, passed away at his home at 212 Edgcliffe, last Friday at the age of 75. He was general agent for the Chicago Stock Yard district.

Past president of the Freight Agents' association, he belonged to the Blue lodge and the Commandery of the Highland Park Masons. He was also a member of the Saddle and Siroloin and Traffic clubs of Chicago.

He is survived by his wife, Clara, two sons, Edward L., Jr., of Chicago, and W. Albert of Glencoe, as well as four grandchildren.

Among the New Arrivals

Among the newcomers in town are Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Scott, 1863 Lyman Court, with their two young daughters, who arrived from Detroit, Mich., shortly before Christmas. Mr. Scott is associated with the Fruehauf Trailer Company, which deals internationally in commercial trailers, including those for army and navy use.

Mrs. Scott is much interested in Red Cross work.

Lt. Comdr. and Mrs. John C. Fowler, Jr., moved to 907 Ridgewood Drive last month, with their 3-year-old daughter. They are formerly of Daytona, Fla. Lt. Comdr. Fowler, a veteran of two years in the Pacific area, is stationed at a Great Lakes hospital.

The Wellington Burts, formerly of Washington, D.C., are now living, with their two small daughters, at 1439 S. Sheridan. Mr. Burt is associated with a wood-ply research company.

Regret for time wasted can become a power for good in the time that remains. And the time that remains is time enough, if we will only stop the waste and the idle, useless regretting.—Arthur Brisbane.
