

DEEPS and SHALLOWS

Artist in Hollywood

There's a four-lane highway leading out to the West, To the land where the sun shines every day.

There's a four-lane highway. Hurry out and make a test. Travel light. All the luggage will be there.

There's a four-lane highway, and they built it just for you, For they love the pretty candles in your eyes.

There's a four-lane highway leading out to the west, To the land where the sun shines every day.

There's a four-lane highway leading out to the west, To the land where the sun shines every day.

PAT SHANNON SLOAN.

Philosophy

Life is a recipe, carelessly read, Revealing the rules for conserving life's bread.

To find all the frosting gone from our cake.

—ADELAIDE S. WRIGHT.

Memory Hall

I have just come back from strolling Up and down through Memory Hall, Viewing there a quaint collection Of old-pictures on the wall.

To a chamber, dim and lovely, (Have I visited it before?) With a courtsey, solemn, gentle, Memory swung wide the door.

Every corner, every cranny, Had its picture, large or small, Hosts of likenesses, responding Willingly to Memory's call.

There appeared no name or number On a canvas anywhere, But my recollection swiftly Titled every image there.

Gentle voices, half forgotten, Murmured soothingly, and I Gathered kindly words, which ever Treasured in my heart will lie.

Tardily, the Present beckoned, And I turned from Memory Hall, With a farewell, softly spoken, To each face upon the wall.

—ALMA L. OLESEN.

Grandpappy

Grandpappy's picture hangs on the wall, His smile is as broad as he is tall.

He stands in his stockings full six feet four, And he has to bend down to get through the door.

Grandpappy's shoes are a size thirteen, His feet are the biggest that ever I've seen.

And now you can see why I'm so happy—I'm lucky to have such a grand grandpappy.

—DONALD RUBIN. R.B.O.

Mrs. O. L. Olesen Moves to California

The above poem, Memory Hall, is significant in that it is the last contribution which Mrs. O. L. Olesen will make to DEEPS AND SHALLOWS from Highland Park.

Highland Park has been Mrs. Olesen's home for 53 of her 78 years of life. Her first visit to this town was made in 1887, when she acted as bridesmaid for a friend.

CUPID'S CORNER

Miss Marjorie Renner To Wed AAF Captain

Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Renner, 643 Onwentsia, have announced the approaching marriage of their daughter, Marjorie Frances, to Capt. Morris G. Munson, AAF, of Twin Oaks, Montpelier, Iowa.

Miss Renner is a June graduate of Iowa State university, and a member of the Alpha Gamma Delta sorority. Her fiancé, a 1942 alumnus of Iowa State, and a Kappa Sigma, has served overseas for 28 months with the 9th and 16th Air Forces.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Munson, Sr., will arrive on July 4 to attend the wedding, which will take place the following day.

Midwestern Writers' Conference at Evanston From July 25 to 28

EVANSTON, ILL., June 13. —Subjects of the six workshops to be offered July 25-28 at the Midwestern Writers' conference on the Evanston campus of Northwestern university are: fiction, non-fiction, poetry, writing for children, radio-script, and novel writing.

Frederic Litten, fiction workshop leader, is a member of the Medill School of Journalism faculty, which is sponsoring the 1945 conference in cooperation with 21 literary groups.

Paul Engel, poetry workshop leader, is a member of the University of Iowa faculty, a nationally-known poet and author, a former Rhodes scholar, and winner of outstanding awards in recent years.

Roland D. Wolsley, non-fiction leader, is a member of the Medill faculty, author of texts on journalistic techniques, a freelance writer of articles.

Phyllis A. Whitney, a new workshop leader this year, will conduct the writing-for-children workshop. She is the author of two mystery books, and is children's book editor for the Chicago Sun's Book week.

Pacific Veteran Sees Year of Action

Richard G. Francis, P.O. 2/c, USN, formerly manager of a Ravinia chain store, is spending a 14-day leave with his mother, Mrs. Hilda Francis, 47 S. St. Johns.

In his year of sea duty in the Pacific, P.O. Francis has seen plenty of action. He took part in the invasions of Leyte, Luzon, Grande Island and Okinawa.

1941, the O. L. Olesens celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary, and life was saddened by the passing of Mr. Olesen the following January.

Mrs. Olesen has always been active and energetic in supporting worthy local projects, besides which, in addition to her home duties, she has found time for hobbies, such as gardening, modeling in clay, quilting, and, more lately, writing.

Mr. Harold Olesen, of New York City, is visiting his mother before she leaves for the coast.
